Their names to Mr. Brown, should do so at once. The large guarantee required to secure Mr. Eddy makes it absolutely necessary that the amount be made up before the contract is signed. (This contract must be signed within the next few days in order to secure Mr. Eddy.)

It is hoped that the music lovers of the city will not let pass this great opportunity of hearing this the famous of all American organists.

If you will subscribe for one or more seats at 50 cents each send in your name with number of seats wanted immediately to Mr. Wade R. Brown.

Watts-Hendrix
Invitations have been received here reading as follows:
Captain and Mrs. G. M. Hendrix request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Mary Adger.

Mr. Roderick McI. Watts, Wednesday evening, February tenth, one thousand, nine hundred and four, at six o'clock, Presbyterian church, Cheraw.

Mr. Watts is a well known Raleigh boy. He is now a druggist in Asheboro, N. C.

MRS. PITTINGER ENTERTAINED THE JOHNSONIAN CLUB
The Johnsonian Club held a profitable and enjoyable session with Mrs. I. McK. Pittinger yesterday afternoon at her home on Hillsboro street. The subject assigned for this meeting was "Legends and fables of India" and the papers read by Mrs. Benahan Cameron and Miss Jane Ward were exceedingly entertaining.

The rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion. After the business of the club refreshments were served.

Mrs. Pittinger had, in addition to the club members, as her guests Mrs. Benton of Cleveland, Ohio, Miss Sanderston of Williamsport, Pa., and Mrs. W. E. Stone.

ARTIST'S LECTURE RECITAL
Miss Benedict appears at St. Mary's Saturday Evening

Miss Marie Benedict will give an artist's lecture and recital at St. Mary's on Saturday evening at 8:15 p. m.

Each number on the program will be prefaced by a brief description of the composition so that all can understand the composer's thought. Edward Baxter Perry says: "A tone of rare beauty and purity and exceptional musical intelligence." Charles Landon, editor of "Etude" says: "Fine musical touch and intelligent phrasing. Her expression is always refined, intense and full of emotional feeling."

This will be the last of the artist's recitals for this season and all who love to hear good music will rendered should come. The usual low rate will be made to the schools and others who may wish to attend.

Dance at Rocky Mount
Rocky Mount, N. C., Jan. 28.—Special.—The Carolina Cotillion Club's January german was danced at Gayety Hall on Wednesday evening. Although not so largely attended as some given by the club, it was thoroughly enjoyable in every respect. The german was led by Mr. J. P. Bunn. Among those dancing were Misses Mary Geller, Mary Ricks, Mary Battle, Florence Chalk, Annie Lee Bunn, Pearl Taylor, Mary Hardison, Helene Battle, Priscilla Willford, Ethel Pitts, Annie Taylor, Daisy Harrison of Weidon, May Beters of Atlantic City, Johnston of Petersburg, Fairo Davill of Galais of Florence, Madames Jacob Battle Jr., H. D. Christie, Messrs. R. W. Rawls, E. P. Spruill, Hugh Willford, M. D. Munn, John Leach of Weidon, A. B. Willingham, Bob Cooper, John Arrington, Harry Abram, Clarence Swindell, Baldy Thorp, George Wilkinson, Dick Gorham, Wm. Willford, Jack Madra, Chas. Cochran, Douglas Martin, Balad Smith, H. Winstead and B. McDearman.

The Carolina Club has received a handsome engraved invitation to the Bal Poudre to be given by the young ladies of Raleigh on January the twenty-ninth.

Entertainment in Wilson
Wilson, N. C., Jan. 28.—Special.—There are many historical stars glistening in the elocutionary firmament, and their chastened beamings ensilver the bosom of the sky with waves of richest lustre, but amid all of those glittering constellations there is but one Venus, and all those who heard the gifted and talented Miss Georgie Ray MacMillan last night in her inimitable and unapproachable recitations were bound to confess that she was that one star, for she beamed with a brilliancy that could not be surpassed, and which made her the proud queen regent of them all, for her effort last night was another one of those brilliant triumphs which approximate in their brilliancy and splendor the sublimest glowings of histrionic excellence, and which gave to a thrilled and enchanted audience the sumptuous and mellowed fruitage of the ripest human genius.

The brilliant entertainment was sandwiched with strains of delicious music, for in addition to Prof. Rea's fine Italian band we had those cultured and superb vocalists, Madames Venable, Routtree, Whitehead and Davis, whose fine voices rose in full orbéd splendor into the highest realm of melody and poured out their divinest ripples in the sweetest and most beautiful of music and song. Mrs. Graham Woodward sang "Violets" most beautifully and most sweetly, for the notes that came rippling from her flute like throat were as sweet as the odors shaken from the bosom of celestial flowers by the rustling wings of hovering angels.

Tighman-Mercer

promising son of our highly esteemed and most excellent townsman, Captain Tighman, led to the altar yesterday Miss Margaret Mercer, the lovely daughter of the polished and accomplished gentleman, Dr. W. F. Mercer, who was at one time state senator from Edgecombe county, and who is now one of the most successful physicians and highly esteemed citizens in eastern Carolina. The groom is a young gentleman of brilliant promise, for he has all of those fine qualities which win success and make a man. The bride is a young lady of splendid worth and rarest attractions, for she is fair, some, brilliant, cultured and refined, for being nursed in the lap of sweetest refinement, and having had the polish of a noble culture, for under the wholesome teachings and admirable training of a true, womanly Christian mother, one of the loveliest and most superb woman that ever graced society, all that is pure and sweet and noble and beautiful in woman's character has been brought out in this bewitching bride who today assumes the hallowed name of wife and dedicates her charms and wiferies to the happiness of her husband. Our young friend, the fortunate groom, is indeed to be congratulated upon winning for his home a jewel of such rare worth and brilliancy, for pure as the breezes that blow from the ocean, as lovely as the tintings of sunset that adorn the gorgeous skies, as radiant as the sunbeams dancing upon the shimmering bosom of an icicle, and as full of good cheer as the songful current of a murmuring brook which makes the flowers bend and kiss with fragrant petals the rippling tides as they go sweetly by—yes, she is richly endowed with all those virtues and graces and charms and wiferies which give to earth such roselike gleams of beauty, and to life such ecstatic charms of rapture. In this union we see the promise of a brilliant future, for with fond hearts beating in glorious tune, life is as sweet as florets in June; for souls bound in fetters of love slip a bliss as pure as that above; for love fulfilled bring heaven to earth, and gives the rapture of the higher birth.

WEDDING
Her young affections blighted. The maid began to mope. A doctor was invited. With this complaint to cope.

Her mother was quite frantic. So was also her dad. The maid was but romantic. And wanted to be sad.

She posed as one quite weary. To hear the people say. "Her life is very dreary. See how she wastes away."

Her sorrow manifesting. She thought she could not fail. To prove most interesting. If she were wan and pale.

But wise was her physician. He jarred her back to life. His view of her condition. Made new emotion rife.

There was nothing romantic. In being longer ill. When he, with air pedantic, Prescribed a liver pill.

HALL-EBELTOFT
A Wedding in Charlotte of Interest to Raleigh People

Mr. George Whiting Hall, a well-known young business man of Hickory and a nephew of Messrs. Seymour and Chester Whiting of Raleigh, was married in Charlotte Wednesday, his bride being Miss Ruth Stafford Ebeltoft. The wedding was performed by Rev. Dr. A. C. Barron, pastor of the Tryon Street Baptist church, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Pegram Jr. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Pegram.

The Charlotte Observer says: The parlor, in which the ceremony was performed, was decorated with smilax, potted plants and magnolia leaves, the color effect being green.

Miss Mary King of Concord, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Captain Chalmers G. Hall, of the United States army, a brother of the groom, was best man. The ribbon girls were Misses Elizabeth Eberloff and Elizabeth Springs, sister and cousin, respectively, of the bride. The flower girl was Miss Cora Annette Harris, a cousin of the bride, and the ring-bearer was Master Chalmers G. Hall Jr.

The bridal party entered the parlor through an aisle of ribbons. Miss Ebeltoft entered with her uncle, Mr. M. P. Pegram Jr. For the entrance of the party Mrs. Fred Nash played Lohengrin's wedding march.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white crepe de chine, with lace hertha, trimmed with sunburst tucks and pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her bridal veil was caught with a spray of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom, and she wore the white slippers in which her grandmother had been married, nearly 60 years ago.

Miss King, the maid of honor, wore white chiffon over taffeta and carried a bouquet of white carnations and asparagus ferns. Misses Ebeltoft and Springs, the ribbon girls, were dressed in white organdie, and Miss Harris, the flower girl, was daintily gowned in cordon-pleated pink silk. The flowers were pink carnations. Master Hall, the ring bearer wore a suit of white velvet.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was tendered the young couple by Mr. and Mrs. Pegram, and they received the felicitations of many friends. At the reception punch and light refreshments were served. Mrs. W. H. Dula and Misses Margaret Kelly and Virginia Shober presided at the punch bowl in the hall. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Hall left on their bridal trip to the north. They will live at home.

with magnificent favors imported from all sorts of out-of-the-way places. They were wheeled into the ball room in a janrikaha by a Japanese attendant.

And all this after less than five years of New York society. This is the thing which makes the Pembroke Joneses the most talked-of young couple in the "Four Hundred" today.

Mrs. Jones was Miss Sadie Green, of Wilmington, N. C., before her marriage, and was known as one of the famous "Three Graces," composed of herself, Miss Daisy Breaux of New Orleans, now Mrs. Andrew Simmonds of Charleston, S. C., and Miss Emma Sims, now Mrs. Joseph Thompson of Atlanta, Ga. She made her debut in Washington under the chaperonage of Mrs. "Zeb" Vance, wife of the famous North Carolina senator, married Pembroke Jones, also of North Carolina, and came to New York to live.

They toured extensively with Harry Walters, the millionaire Baltimore bachelor, who was their intimate friend, in his yacht, the Narada, and even took a whirl at Roman society with distinguished success.

Both the Misses Delano were in white, and looked the part of charming debutantes with few jewels and great bunches of white roses. They are dainty and well-mannered girls, would be popular here if they stayed long enough. I am told that they are nieces of Harry Walters, the Joneses' great friend, and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Delano of Barrytown.

Beyond the Pergola was the ball room, all French and dazzling, and Louis XVI. Two reproductions of the "Temples of Love" in the gardens of the Trianon at Versailles faced the entrance at the end of the great room and gave the impression of being situated in the garden or conservatory at the rear. The columns were draped with garlands of pink roses and there were golden horns of plenty filled with pink roses over all the doors and windows. The walls were draped with solid curtains of vines caught up with Louis XVI baskets and wreaths of pink roses. Of course the affair was late in beginning.
