

POSTSCRIPTS

Messrs. J. B. Haisty and C. W. Godwin of Charlotte are at the Park Hotel.

Mr. Crawford Cooper of Oxford is in the city visiting his cousin, Mrs. C. G. Whiting.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to a colored couple, Frank Banks and Lucy Mebane, both of Method.

Elder R. J. Bateman of the Fayetteville street church is leading his flock forward with enthusiasm. He is also winning for himself quite a place in Raleigh.—Biblical Recorder.

Mr. John W. Brown has planted in the yard of his undertaking establishment a Mendocino Peuraleis tree, which was shipped with a few others here to Mr. John Marrell from the Philippines.

The cold, disagreeable weather stimulated business at the dispensary yesterday. The sales were the largest of the week and Manager Batchelor declared he believed that that the warring elements caused it.

"Durham will soon have two fine buildings" said Mr. L. G. Cole of that city here last night. "A six story office building will soon go up and Mr. John Sprunt Hill will put a handsome four story building next to it."

Mr. Needham Jones, one of Wake county's best farmers, is holding forty bales of his cotton crop. Five years ago Mr. Jones sold his crop at 4 1/2 cents a pound and he will probably get four times as much for his 1903 cotton.

Mr. N. B. Broughton, president of the State Sunday School Association, will address the superintendents and Sunday school workers of all denominations at the First Baptist church Sunday night at 8 o'clock.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Solicitor Armistead Jones returned from Goldsboro yesterday where he has been attending court. The criminal docket was concluded yesterday and Judge George H. Brown went home but will return next Monday and begin a civil term.

Mr. W. W. Unchurch of Raleigh, the young man who lost a leg in Henderson trying to pass between the cars of a freight train, has entered suit against the Seaboard Air Line here for damages. No complaint has been filed. His attorneys are Messrs. Argo and Shaffer.

The small boys were having a fine time yesterday sliding on the sleet covered pavements. However, the older persons did not willingly indulge in this amusement. There were many tumbles. Col. J. C. L. Harris fell on Fayetteville street and injured his hand, but not badly.

Shall the word "elder" take the place of "reverend?" Mr. J. W. Bailey, the editor of the Biblical Recorder, has ceased to prefix "Rev." to the names of Baptist divines and instead uses "Elder." Mr. Bailey declares the latter is the proper word. It is no longer Rev. George Washington Jones but Elder George Washington Jones.

Six divorce suits have been begun here in the past three weeks. The titles of these actions are Henrietta Rameur against Junius Rameur, Candace Hinton against Albert Hinton, Charles Hinton against Sylvia Hinton, Samuel Johnson against Margaret Johnson, Ada Yarborough against Oliver Ogden, W. D. Montague against Jennie Montague.

Wake Forest College last week received a donation of $900 from a man in western Carolina. This week's Biblical Recorder says: "When Professor Carlyle informed us that Brother Slate of Surry county had given $900 to Wake Forest College, we thought of a letter that his pastor, Brother P. Oliver of Dilton wrote us nearly a year ago. Assuredly the preaching of Brother Oliver brought forth that gift."

A patriotic citizen visited United States Commissioner John Nichols' office and confided that he believed he knew where a blind tiger was in operation. He said that he had seen many people of a suspicious character coming from the basement of the Pullen building. This causes a hearty laugh for Magistrate R. G. Reid has his office there and the "suspicious persons" were merely the litigants in his court.
