

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WILL COME SOUTH NEXT SPRING

He Will Attend a Reunion of Rough Riders and Will Visit the Principal Southern Cities. Further Confirmation of the Shake- up of Office Holders

By THOMAS J. PENCE

Washington, Nov. 21.—Special.—When President Roosevelt goes to San Antonio, Tex., next spring to attend the reunion of his regiment of Rough Riders, he will probably stop at a number of points on route and on the return. Now the visit has been agreed upon, inasmuch as the president is expected to reach the principal places during the winter months and the trip may become a somewhat extensive one to the principal southern cities. This will depend largely upon the invitations received.

The story that there is to be a general shake-up of old line federal office holders today continues to attract attention. The Washington Post has reported, after commenting upon the fact that the president has no more business to attend to and is free to follow his own pointers, made this significant statement:

"There are strong intimations that changes will be made in the diplomatic and consular service, the revenue service, the customs and internal revenue departments, and in the postal service, as rapidly as the commissions of many of the incumbents expire."

The New York Sun goes much further. A story in that paper said, among other things:

"Returning to the situation in New York, word has gone out that inasmuch as the president has decauded himself in 1904, all federal office holders, not only in New York but in other states, are to be retired as fast as their terms expire. These are the men whom President McKinley appointed in March, 1897, to March, 1901, and whom President Roosevelt, upon his accession, reappointed."

All the foregoing is in support of the story that appeared in the Morning Post. Of course Mr. Roosevelt has made no formal announcement of his plans, but people who are close to him predict an entirely new deal in the disposition of federal offices, although, as was pointed out Sunday, there are bound to be exceptions to the rule.

Governor-elect R. B. Glenn arrived in Washington today, and after giving his attention to legal matters in which he is interested, left this afternoon for Baltimore. He will return tonight or tomorrow and spend several days here with Mrs. Glenn and Miss Glenn, who are shopping and enjoying a few days at the national capital.

Among the White House callers today were former Senator Marion Butler and Marshall L. Mott. It was Mr. Butler's first visit since the election. He says there is no federal office that he wants and says that he is seeking none. Marshall Mott's call related to the affairs of the Creek Nation. The president told Mr. Mott to call again after his return from St. Louis when he will have more time to consider the legislative acts of the Creeks, which he must approve and sign before they are effective.

Henry P. Cheatham, former recorder of deeds of the district, and Dr. J. E. Sheppard of Raleigh also called at the White House today. Cheatham, who did much campaigning in Indiana and Illinois, talked to the president about his trip and was thanked for his services. While Cheatham has not singled out any office that he has designs on, it is known that he would like a good berth in the federal service. He would of course be pleased with reappointment as recorder of deeds, but with a fight already on for that position he will hardly enter into the contest.

William H. Holloway of Raleigh, N. C., for a number of years clerk in the post office department, has resigned and will take up the practice of law in this city. Mr. Holloway is a graduate of the law school and of the school of comparative jurisprudence and diplomacy of the George Washington University.

Thomas E. Brown of North Carolina has been appointed from a $1,000 to a $1,200 clerkship in the office of the chief of staff at the war department.

Marriage licenses were issued today to William W. Goldsmith of Asheville, N. C., and Nina H. Townsend of Athol, Miss.

ROMANCE RUINED

Hungarian Returning Home as a Criminal

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 21.—Francis Popp, a Hungarian of culture and refinement, who is said to have moved in the highest social circles in his native city of Budapest, Hungary, was arrested by detectives at Norton, Wise county, Va., last night charged with robbing the Hungarian mails. Popp carries papers showing that colleges in his native country have conferred upon him the LL.D. degree. He paid attention to the daughter of the postmaster at Budapest. The girl had access to the postoffice safe, and it is through her that Popp managed to gain entrance one year ago to the vaults and stole $22,000 government funds. Then he fled with the girl to the United States. After eluding the secret service agents of his own country and getting safely by the New York police, the pair went to Norton, at which place they met a Hungarian priest. Popp wished to open a Hungarian bank at Norton. His actions aroused the suspicion of the priest, who communicated with the Budapest authorities and the Hungarian consul at New York. The arrest last night was the result.

Not Interfering

Washington, Nov. 21.—The following statement was given out at the White House:

"Any statement that the president is taking any part whatever in the Missouri senatorial contest, directly or indirectly, for or against any candidate, has no foundation whatever, in fact. The president will not interfere in the slightest degree in the contest."

Reversing Their Roles

St. Petersburg, Nov. 21.—The Novo Vremya today, discussing the recent speeches of President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Navy Morton and Chancellor Von Buelow, argues that the United States and Germany are reversing their roles, the former now being in favor of increasing armaments, and the latter being ambitious to take part in the peaceful councils of nations.

Strikers Holding Out

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 21.—There is no improvement in the strike situation here. Fewer mills are operating now than last week. A general start was made by nearly all this morning, but the response was even smaller than that of last week. Several of the factories which operated last week, including the Stafford, Cornell and Flint mills have closed.

KILLED ON THE TRACK

Frank Bristol's Automobile Struck by a Train

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 21.—While Frank B. Bristol, a member of the Bristol Manufacturing Company of Platt's Mills, makers of recording instruments, was crossing the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in his automobile tonight at 8 o'clock, his machine was struck by a fast passenger train, bound for New Haven, and he was instantly killed within sight of his office. The car was thrown over two hundred feet and broken to splinters. Mr. Bristol's skull was fearfully fractured, and both legs, a shoulder and several ribs were broken, while the body was a mass of bruises. He had gone to his office at the factory for the evening mail in a covered car, and it was on his return that he met his death.

STOCKBROKER BREAKS

Alfred M. Lamar Forced into Bankruptcy

New York, Nov. 21.—Alfred M. Lamar, who has been a spectacular figure in Consolidated Stock Exchange circles for several years, was made a defendant in involuntary bankruptcy proceedings in the United States district court and his suspension on the Consolidated Exchange was announced. Crowds of customers thronged Lamar's main office at 60 Broadway, until the temporary receiver put them out. Lamar's books show that he owes his customers at least $125,000. The assets are not conjectured as yet, but the receiver was required to give a bond for $15,000 only. The bankruptcy proceedings were instituted by Edward Houghtaling, Mark Snavely and Ada Marsh. As the act of bankruptcy the petitioners alleged transfer and conveyance of securities, stocks and moneys to creditors preferred over others while Lamar knew himself to be insolvent.

Lamar is about 25 years old. Like W. E. Woodend, who went to smash last spring, he was interested in horses, but whereas Woodend's fancy in equines tended in the direction of horse show exhibitions, Lamar's inclinations led to the turf. He was the owner of the National stable, which was sold this fall, after the last Gravesend meeting.

TUMBLING OUT

Alice Roosevelt in an Automobile Wreck

Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 21.—It was learned today that the lady who was with the Golet party Saturday morning when the big white automobile of Robert Golet, Jr., was wrecked on the Boston post road near Coscob, was Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the president. The place is one of the worst between New York and New Haven, and but for the fact that the machine plunged into a twenty-foot embankment some of the party would undoubtedly have been badly injured.

SUBWAY FOR CHICAGO

Great Enterprise for Moving Freight Under Ground

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 21.—The Chicago Subway Company, with an authorized capital of $50,000,000, all common stock, was incorporated here today. The company is given power to build and operate railroads, and it is understood that the purpose of the company is to build a subway in Chicago. The incorporators are clerks in the office of the Corporation Trust Company of Jersey City.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Coincident with the organization of the Chicago Subway Company at Trenton today came the announcement that it has taken over the $30,000,000 Illinois Tunnel Co. The vast tonnage of the railroads represented by the financiers in the Chicago Subway Company will be diverted into the Illinois tunnels, which are now under every street in downtown Chicago.

Following are the "Big Four" in the Chicago Subway Company: E. H. Harriman, the steam railroad man; James Stillman, president of the National City Bank of New York; Jacob S. Schiff, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York Banking House; P. A. Valentine, of Armour & Co.

On the authority of President Wheeler, of the Illinois Tunnel Company, it can be said that the gigantic deal has no connection with the local traction situation whatsoever; that it is alone a freight enterprise. It is the greatest financial deal which has been consummated in Chicago in years. It stirred La Salle street from the board to the stock exchange.

The $50,000,000 Chicago Subway Company has taken over, it is announced, officially the entire stock of the Illinois Telephone Construction Company and 66 2-3 per cent. of the stock of the $30,000,000 Illinois Tunnel Company, and stands ready to take all the remaining stocks of the Tunnel Company at the terms on which it acquired the two-thirds.

As a result of the deal the vast tonnage of the Harriman-Stillman-Schiff railroads will be turned into the tunnels. The deal guarantees the immediate use of the tunnels on a great scale and promises speedy relief for Chicago from the present congestion in the terminals and in the downtown district.

TREATY WITH CHINA

Officials are Drawing up a New Agreement

Washington, Nov. 21.—Secretary Hay and Sir Chenung Llang Cheng, Chinese minister, are conducting the framing of a new treaty between the United States and China to take the place of the existing convention which will expire in December.

The present treaty provides for the exclusion of Chinese laborers from the United States. The new treaty will be equally as strict in this regard, but it is proposed to insert provisions in the new treaty which will permit the entrance into the United States of officials, merchants, students and other excepted classes without the restrictions now imposed.

The treaty will also contain a provision permitting the United States to establish immigration officials in China, charged with the duty of investigating every Chinaman intending to come to the United States. With a certificate from such official, inspection at the port of entry would be abolished, except as to the verification of the certificates and identification of applicants for admission. Under the existing treaty the United States can send immigration inspectors to China, and certificates are issued by American consuls, who have not been able to prevent frauds.

It is expected that the new treaty will be transmitted to the Senate early in December.

HUGH S. THOMPSON

Former Governor of South Carolina Dies in New York

New York, Nov. 21.—Ex-Governor Hugh S. Thompson of South Carolina, who served as a civil service commissioner with President Roosevelt, died at his residence here last night.

Mr. Thompson came to New York twelve years ago and became the controller of the New York Life Insurance Company, and continued in that position until his death. He was born in 1836. His people were prominent in South Carolina affairs for nearly a century. His grandfather was Waddy Thompson, chancellor of the state for twenty-six years. Governor Thompson served in the Confederate army as captain of artillery. He was elected governor in 1882 and re-elected two years later. In 1886 he resigned to become assistant secretary of the treasury under Secretary Manning and continued under Secretary Fairchild. He was named as the Democratic member of the civil service commission by President Cleveland in 1889, but the senate did not act on his nomination. President Harrison appointed him the same year, and he served until he resigned in 1892 to become controller of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Deserters in Distress

Vienna, Nov. 21.—More than ten thousand Russian deserters are in Galicia. There are a thousand of them hungry and shivering. They keep themselves alive by begging. Their object in fleeing from their country is to escape conscription for service with the army in Manchuria.

Nan Patterson on Trial for Murder

Four Unimportant Witnesses Testify—The Prosecuting Attorney Contends That She Murdered Caesar Young After Pre- meditation

New York, Nov. 21.—Nan Patterson walked to her cell in the Tombs tonight not visibly affected by a long session in court at which she was plainly told that the prosecution hopes to convict her of the murder of the Bookmaker Young by circumstantial evidence and that the facts would show that "her hands were red with the blood of her lover." The assistant district attorney, the chief prosecutor, announced in his opening that although there was no eye witness to the shooting he did not believe there was any living. It could be shown beyond any reasonable doubt that the woman had a motive for killing Young; that she had threatened him; that her brother-in-law, or a man much resembling him, had bought the day before the revolver with which Young was killed, and on the night before the killing had told her "you must do it," and that the wound was such that Young could not have inflicted it himself.

Only four witnesses were examined today. Two policemen told of what happened from the time Young was found unconscious in the cab up to and during the woman's arraignment in the coroner's court. They testified between them that she was agitated but not hysterical, and kept asking: "Oh, Caesar, why did you kill yourself? You had everything to live for; there is no use of me living now; I have nothing to live for."

This testimony was considered to be in her favor. On the other hand, one of the policemen said she had told him that she had put her hand behind Young's back after the shooting, searched for the revolver, found it in his pocket, took it out, looked at it and put it back. The contention of the prosecution is that Young, if he had shot himself, could not have dropped the pistol in his pocket afterward.

Some two score women got into the court room. When the prisoner came in she wore the black dress and hat which she had made in the Tombs purposely for the trial. Before being brought in she had a talk with Lewis Martin, the young man who married her six years ago, and whom she divorced a year later. He came to see if he could be of any assistance to her. In court she sat at the table with her counsel and chatted with her father until Mr. Rand began his opening speech.

In an adjoining room sat Mrs. Young, the widow of the bookmaker. John D. Millen, Young's racing partner, had a seat in the back of the court room.

Mr. Rand did not spare the defendant in his opening. He told of her relations with Young, a married man. He said that the killing of Young, instead of being an impulsive act on her part, had been planned for thirteen hours before. He pictured Young as a man of loose habits and of profane speech, who was habitually a hard drinker, but rarely showed the signs of liquor.

"After Mr. Rand had concluded two unimportant witnesses were called, and when their testimony was concluded the court adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 21.—Robert Diehl, who in a flying tackle threw Samuel Hess, the Lehigh University student, in the Hellertown High School football game Saturday, and who was arrested an hour after Hess' death charged with manslaughter, was liberated from custody today upon the coroner's jury rendering a verdict of purely accidental death and no one to be blamed. Lexington, Ky., Nov. 21.—The funeral of Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge took place here today and was largely attended. Leading citizens from all over the blue grass region of Kentucky and lawyers and prominent men of other cities were present.

All the local civic bodies, besides Confederate comrades of Colonel Breckinridge, members of the Fayette county bar and other bodies to which the deceased belonged formed part of the procession which escorted the body to the cemetery. The services were held in the First Presbyterian church, of which Colonel Breckinridge had been an member for over a quarter of a century. City offices and all business houses were closed during the funeral hours.

One of the most attractive and costly floral designs was sent by Caleb Powers, now in jail at Louisville, charged with the Goebel murder. Colonel Breckinridge had made a vigorous fight in Powers' behalf and had done much in editorial utterances to procure for Powers an unbiased jury.

Congressional Committee Is Investigating a Judge

Washington, Nov. 21.—The sub-committee of the house committee on the judiciary, which last spring investigated the charges against Judge Charles Swayne of the federal court in the Northern District of Florida, today resumed the taking of testimony in the proceedings looking to the impeachment of that official. The judiciary committee, shortly before the closing of the session of congress last spring, recommended to the house the impeachment of Judge Swayne for "high misdemeanor," but to avoid prolongation of the session, it was agreed to postpone consideration of the impeachment resolution to December 21, the committee in the meantime to take further testimony.

Today's witnesses were Ellis S. Davis, a lawyer of Marina, Fla.; John A. Stockton, a banker and editor, of Jackson, and Eugene C. Dearborn, a contractor on the Jacksonville and West railroad.

John Stockton told of efforts by Attorney Stripling to stifle the movement against Judge Swayne. Promising Stockton that he and his associates should have receiverships and other like favors from the court, Stockton had declined the offer.

Davis testified regarding a visit to him and Brown Calhoun to Judge Swayne for the purpose of securing, if possible, a compromise of the case against J. H. Hoskins, who, it was alleged, committed suicide owing to Judge Swayne's persecutions. Davis had agreed to fix up the matter, but Hoskins, who had been indicted by the grand jury, had declined to furnish the money, and Hoskins, to secure immunity from arrest, had attempted to bribe the grand jury.

Stockton testified to carrying Judge Swayne and his family from the Jacksonville and Key West railroad, which was then in the hands of the members of the party, he said, to the passes, and the provisions used on the trip were furnished by the committee.
