

Weather Conditions

This morning's map presents very nearly the same conditions as existed yesterday morning, with the exception of a low central over upper Michigan causing a rise in temperature in that region.

The pressure over the Atlantic coast and over the south has diminished and slightly higher temperatures have been experienced in those regions.

The area of high pressure over the central portion of the country is accompanied by generally cool and clear weather. Cloudy and rainy conditions prevail in the east and south.

Thunderstorms occurred at Pittsburg and Philadelphia. Rain has fallen in most of the eastern and southern states, also in Oregon and Washington.

A. H. THIESSEN, Section Director, Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 3.
