The Borden Case.
 By Southern Associated Press.
 NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 13.—Another big crowd was present this morning, and seats in the court room were all occupied some time before the court opened. Miss Borden made her appearance ten minutes before the justices took their seats. The counsel held a short consultation with the justices in their room prior to the latter's taking their seats.
 Mr. Adams continued the cross examination of Dr. Dolan, who described the position of the body and blood spots, and said the blows came from left to right, and were of moderate force. The prisoner sat with closed eyes, and a fan over her face.
 Continuing, Dr. Dolan said that the blows were made by a sharp instrument, and some on Mrs. Borden by an assailant astride of the body. A jurymen was taken sick and a recess of five minutes was taken. The prisoner was affected and was led from the room.

Ask Further Time.
 NEW BEDFORD, N. C., June 13.—Special.—Maj. W. S. Stanton, of the corps of engineers of the United States army, was here today by order of the War Department to look into the complaint against the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad Company with reference to the draw in the railroad bridge over the Trent river. At the hearing this morning the company filed an affidavit asking further time to answer the complaint, and the matter was postponed until the first of August. The complaint is that the bridge is not high enough for shipping to pass it, and the draw is so placed that it is a serious obstruction to the navigation of the river when opened, being situated on the side of the channel and at an angle with the current that renders the passage through difficult and dangerous.

A Cool Burglar.
 Wilmington Messenger.
 On Saturday night a burglar entered Dr. Pritchard's residence at Wrightsville Sound and boldly entered a room where two young gentlemen were sleeping, robbing one of a valise containing some valuable clothing. He, however, left the wearing suits of the young gentlemen, containing over $200 in cash. After taking the valise the burglar went into the dining room, lighted a lamp and coolly took out what the sideboard contained and helped himself to a substantial supper, even putting the butter on the table. When he left he wrapped a large roast of beef in a newspaper and carried that along with his valise.

THE INVESTIGATION.

STRONG EVIDENCE THAT FORD'S TREATMENT WAS UNSAFE.
 A Petition was Prepared Asking a Furlough for the Clerks While the Excavation was Going on, But They were Afraid to Sign It.

By Southern Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, June 13.—Chief Justice Bingham, of the Supreme Court of the District, has issued an order requiring the acting coroner to show cause at 3 o'clock this afternoon why Col. Ainsworth should not be allowed to be represented by counsel at the inquest.
 Juror Warner, who stopped the outbreak against Col. Ainsworth yesterday, said that after a conference with his colleagues he desired, in the interest of getting at the facts quickly, to request that the questions be confined to several points, as follows:
 1. To prove the death of the party in regard to which the jury was sitting.
 2. Testimony as to the condition of the building before the recent work was begun.
 3. Whether the recent work added to the unsafe condition of the building.
 4. Who is responsible for the disaster and the death of the party we are now inquiring into.
 5. Whether such condition of feeling exists between the employees of the building and their superior officers, or between any other parties as results in the suppression of the testimony.

We (the jury) think this about covers the material points in the case.
 The Deputy Coroner decided that, although there were eighty persons desirous of being heard, the only witnesses who could testify directly as to the points named should be questioned.
 Examination of other clerks employed in the wrecked building then proceeded. Their evidence was cumulative on the points brought out most strongly, that it was a matter of common talk among the clerks that the building was unsafe; that this talk had increased since the excavation in the basement begun; that the clerks had not uttered complaints through fear of consequences to themselves, and that there was a general fear and dislike of Ainsworth and his two principal subordinates. For the first time today it appeared that a petition had been prepared asking that the clerks be furloughed while the excavation was in progress, but that the clerks refused to sign it through fear.

The session was short, and was interrupted by the service upon the deputy coroner of a summons to appear before Judge Bingham to answer Ainsworth's petition to show cause why Ainsworth should not be represented by counsel.

The Financial Situation.
 By Southern Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, June 13.—The financial condition of the country, as viewed from the Treasury standpoint, shows a general improvement. Bank and commercial failures are fewer, Europe is buying our grain in greater quantities, gold shipments have ceased at least for the present, confidence is being restored and money is not so tight. The Treasury net gold has increased from $89,000,000 to $91,300,000, and the demand for small money in the West will have the effect to further increase the Treasury gold. The rate of exchange is sufficiently high to warrant the shipment of gold abroad, but the fact that commercial paper is for sale in London has a deterrent effect. There is a general feeling that the worst is passed, the weaker financial institutions and business firms having succumbed, while those that passed through so far unscathed are the stronger for having weathered the financial storm.

The Duty on Tobacco.

By Southern Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, June 13.—Assistant Secretary Hamlin has instructed the Collector of Customs at New York to refund the duties paid under the conditions involved in the suit of Blumlein & Co. against the United States, recently decided against the United States. The question raised in this suit was as to the proper classification of leaf tobacco. The law provided that whenever 85 per cent of leaf tobacco was suitable for wrappers the duty should be 75c per pound, otherwise 55c per pound, but no unit for computing the percentage was named in the law. The collectors under the instructions, fixed upon "the hand" as a minimum unit whereas the court decides "the bale" to constitute the unit in question. All entries of tobacco therefore awaiting the determination of this question will be liquidated in accordance with the court decision, and it is estimated that at least two million dollars will have to be refunded to the importers.

Taken From the Train and Hanged.
 By Southern Associated Press.
 RICHMOND, Va., June 13.—A Times special from Staunton says: William Shorter colored, who has been confined in jail here since May 7th, for security, charged with attempted rape upon the person of Mrs. Clevenger at Winchester, Va., was this morning delivered by Sheriff Watts to Sheriff Adam Forney and his guard to be taken to Winchester for trial. When Shorter left the jail his fellow prisoners said to him "Lookout for Winchester, you will never get there alive." This prediction was verified in a few hours. When the train reached Kernstown, four miles south of Winchester, a body of armed men boarded the train, took Shorter from the sheriff, and taking him to the woods hanged him up and riddled his body with bullets. Shorter was 19 years old.

To Increase Tobacco Insurance.
 WINSTON, N. C., June 13.—Special.—At a special meeting of the Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce, Special Agent Chatterly made a short address, saying that the insurance companies have decided to increase tobacco rates all over the South; also to put the three-quarter clause in almost all Southern cities, and the iron clad clause where mercantile stocks are written. The Chamber unanimously passed a resolution requesting the North Carolina Senators and Representatives in Congress to vote for a repeal of the Sherman law.

A Collision Between Yachts.
 By Cable.
 LONDON, June 13.—The second of the series of yacht races took place today but the sport was practically spoiled by a collision in which the Britannia, Vendetta and Valkyrie were mixed up in the most confusing manner. The shock was so violent that many of the hands on the Britannia and Vendetta were thrown overboard. So far as known all were rescued, but the vessels had to withdraw from the race. When the Valkyrie finally got started she was twenty minutes behind, but rapidly overhauled the opponents, finished the second. The Caluna finished the first.

LEAPED TO DEATH.

PEOPLE DEMORALIZED IN A NEW YORK FIRE.
 Two Hundred and Fifty People Rush for the Fire Escapes, and Fight Like Demons for Freedom—Some Jump and are Killed.

By Southern Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, June 13.—The six-story building filled with "sweater shops" No. 10 and 12 Montgomery street caught fire at 3:30 o'clock this morning, and in the mad rush to the street of 250 souls working there at the time, three were killed and several injured.
 The blaze started on the first floor and in a few minutes the flames shot up as far as the third and fourth floors. Then the panic followed. The inmates were all Polish Hebrews, excited under any circumstances, were maddened. Two hundred and fifty people rushed to the fire escapes in front of the building and fought like demons. All were fighting for good places on the fire escapes. Suddenly the flames burst like a rocket from the second and third floors and leaped out nearly across the street. There was no longer any fighting on the fire escapes. People poured through the manholes like wax. They fell on each others' heads as they came down and were piled three tiers deep. The ladder from the first fire escape was not yet lowered and the people began to jump from the balcony to the pavement. The first was a large woman. She fell on the iron railing and rolled over dead. A man jumped further into the street. His head struck the pavement. His skull was crushed and he never moved. The second man who followed struck on his head, but did not die immediately. A young girl was the fourth to leap out. She fell on her side. Several jumped into police officers' arms and were not hurt.

At the near by hospitals twelve people were treated for injuries received at the fire. It is said two of the injured will die. It is reported at 11 o'clock that two more bodies have been found.

Two Hundred Thousand Dollars.
 New Bern Journal.
 Two hundred thousand dollars is a pretty good sized pile of money, but it is approximately the value of truck that went from this section during the week.

The N. N. & W. steamer line gives us information of their taking 19,000 packages, the E. C. D. line 25,000 and the railroad has not taken less than 50,000. By far the greater portion was potatoes. Every steamer that has been limited as to its cargo by naught except its holding capacity and the railroad has run three heavily loaded truck trains daily. Yesterday's trains consisted of fifty-two cars.

This money will be credited to our farms. Though they have brought in this princely sum not a foot of land has been parted from in order to obtain it. This beats town lot booms and average real estate speculations badly.

OSMOND PAYS THE DEATH PENALTY.

A Successful Execution.
 SISO SING, N. Y., June 12.—John Lewis Osmond was legally killed in State prison here today for the murder of his wife Mary and her friend, John C. Burchell, on October 3rd, 1891. The execution was the most successful that has ever taken place.

There was no burning of the flesh, no steam, but a noiseless and instantaneous extinguishing of life.
 Osmond had been awake nearly all last night. He was physically vigorous, but pale and haggard. The Rev. Father Creeden, pastor of St. Augustine's Church, prayed with him for several hours in the evening.

"I wish it was over," he said a score of times during the night. He would then attempt a joke, while the death watch tried to console him. Osmond ate a hearty breakfast at 7 o'clock this morning, though he did not seem to enjoy it. Father Creeden called shortly after, administered the last rites of the Catholic Church, and the condemned man joined him in prayer. He never ceased praying from that time while life remained.

ALL WAS READY.
 Warden Durston led the way for the nineteen witnesses to the death chamber. There everything was in readiness. The electrical machine had been thoroughly tested by State Electrician Davis, and when the lamp board was placed upon the death chair, as an experiment, the wire filaments in the incandescent globe glowed fiercely.

Warden Durston gave a silent signal, the door of the death cell was opened, and there entered Principal Keeper Connaughton, the prisoner, Father Creeden and the death watch. Osmond, swarthy, short and slightly built, was keyed up to a high pitch of nervous intensity. His left hand clutched a wooden crucifix. His lips moved rapidly in prayer. He glanced furtively about the room and hastily seated himself in the chair. Father Creeden leaned over and whispered some words of encouragement. Osmond was oblivious to all about him. He was in a religious ecstasy.

His legs and arms were quickly strapped and he prayed with a feverish, fearful earnestness pitiable to see. The gauze wire head-piece, lined with a saturated sponge, was adjusted, and the leather mask that permitted the lips only to be seen, was drawn across his face. And still he prayed incessantly, but with intense fervor.

Father Creeden stepped back. The signal was given. The body stiffened and rose as far as the fastenings would permit. Prison Physician Irvine held his watch and at the end of forty seconds signalled to the electrician. The current was turned off; the body relaxed and sank limp and lifeless in the chair, the air relaxed from the lungs in a whistling sigh and it was all over, but the left hand never relaxed its clutch on the wooden crucifix.

PERFECTLY PAINLESS.
 The physicians expressed themselves as thoroughly convinced of the painlessness of his death.
 The current for the first four seconds when applied at forty-one minutes past eleven o'clock, measured 1,760 volts. The intensity was abated gradually until it reached 150 volts.

CHESSAPEAKE & OHIO RAILWAY.

World's Fair Scenic Route.
 From the Carolinas and from Virginia points the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway and its connections—the Atlantic Coast Line and the Richmond & Danville System—form a direct and in all respects the best route to the World's Fair at Chicago.

The entire line from the points named through to Chicago is under one general head and management. The Chicago connection of the Chesapeake & Ohio route is the only route from the South running past the World's Fair grounds. Its trains land passengers directly at the Exposition grounds, in the midst of the vast number of hotels and boarding houses erected around the station.

It also has stations at Thirty-ninth street and at Twenty-second street, which stations are in the proximity of the grounds, and are within easy reach of hundreds of hotels and boarding houses.

Its main, or Central Station, is on the Lake Front, and all passengers via the C. & O. route, even though they go into the main station, are carried along the Lake Shore Front in full view of the grounds, which privilege is accorded by no other line from this territory.

A Spot Beautiful and Historic.
 Piedmont North Carolina has many charming spots, but none more beautiful or more accessible than the Guilford Battle Ground. The Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley road runs right through this historic location. The trees are now in full foliage and form a dense shade in the magnificent grove. The grass in some portions is like the turfed ground of a lawn.

Many things there are of interest to a visitor, besides the beautiful scenery. There is the museum—a little room in which is gathered a splendid collection of Revolutionary articles, rifles, swords, canteens, knee-buckles, and a hundred mementoes of the struggle for independence. Gen. Jethro Sumner's bones find a resting place on this field. The grave is neatly sodded and covered by a monument, while a neat railing surrounds the whole.

The Maryland monument, erected by the Maryland Historical Society to the memory of the soldiers from that State who fought in this battle, is probably the handsomest on the ground; it is a square block of superb granite, in the front and back of which are set of handsome bronze plates, one bearing a suitable inscription, and the other the Maryland coat of arms. There are a number of neat commemorative stones at different spots.

This year the customary celebration there of the glorious Fourth possesses an added interest in the fact that the beautiful monument just erected by Gov. Holt will then be unveiled. The exercises, instead of being held in the centre of the ground as usual, will be held at the new monument, suitable stands having been erected. The Fourth of July celebrations at the Guilford Battle Ground are historical treats, as well as occasions of social enjoyment. You cannot walk upon its consecrated soil without imbibing some of the patriotic fervor of the men who there fought and bled for independence. What more fitting place for a North Carolinian to celebrate the anniversary of Liberty's birth?
