Family Murder and Suicide in West Virginia.

By Southern Associated Press.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. June 14.—Mrs. Philip Kerch, wife of a well-to-do farmer near Pleasant Hill, this county, murdered four of her children yesterday and committed suicide. Mr. and Mrs. Kerch had eight children, the oldest of whom, Mollie, was seventeen years old. For some time Mrs. Kerch had been melancholy, and frequently said that she was afraid she would die and leave her children. She seemed to be in good health, however, except that she sometimes complained of a trouble in her side. After dinner Mrs. Kerch quietly said to Mollie as she was at work in the laundry, "I have given Johnnie and Freddie poison, and we will all jump in the well." Mollie remembered that a bottle of strychnine was in the house, and she ran to the place where it had been kept. It was gone, and when she returned to where her mother was, she saw her throw her ten-year-old baby into the well. Before she could be prevented the crazed mother threw the three-year-old child in after the infant, and was in the act of seizing her boy eight or nine years old, but Mollie rescued the child. A desperate struggle then began between mother and daughter, but the woman broke loose and jumped into the well, which had eight feet of water in it. Freddie who had been given the poison, was found lying on the floor of the house, and Johnnie died a few minutes later. Mr. Kerch was absent from home at the time of the tragedy.

Open House Yesterday.

By Southern Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The President kept "open house" today. Secretary Carlisle would see no one except Department officials, and as a result the White House was crowded with Senators, Congressmen and others; and the Treasury Department after Secretary Carlisle's new order became known, was deserted. Mondays and Thursdays Mr. Carlisle will receive all who are entitled to see him, but on other days he is endeavoring to give personal attention to departmental business.

The Large Passage Way upon which the President's offices about were crowded from about 10 o'clock until nearly 2, and during this time he received fifteen Senators and twenty-five Representatives, besides twenty or more unofficial callers.

Gold in the Treasury.

By Southern Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The total net gold in the Treasury at the close of business today was $92,138,815, an increase of nearly $1,000,000 over the day before, and an increase of more than $2,000,000 during the week. The Treasury gold is being built up by deposits in New York of gold certificates in exchange for currency orders in the West. The demand for money in the West still continues, and through this exchange the Treasury is receiving gold, at the same time it is accommodating the New York banks in placing currency at Western points where they want to deliver it for customers.

Pretty Marriage in the Twin City.

WINSTON, June 14.—Special.—A pretty marriage was celebrated in Winston today. The contracting parties were Capt. D. H. Barger, Superintendent of the Winston-Salem Division of the Norfolk and Western Railroad, and Miss Daisy Caldwell. The ceremony was performed at the residence by the bride's brother, Rev. Robt. E. Caldwell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The bridal presents were elaborate and exquisite. Capt. and Mrs. Barger left on the afternoon train for San Francisco, Cal., and the World's Fair.

The Lynching of Bush.

By Southern Associated Press.

DECATUR, Ill., June 14.—The coronor's jury investigating the lynching of Bush returned a verdict that Bush came to his death at the hands of a mob by hanging, and that Charles Britton, Willard Vest and Thos. Atterbury participated in the crime. It is recommended that they be held to the grand jury.

HON. HENRY WATTERSON.

HIS ADDRESS BEFORE THE AGRICULTURAL AND MECHANICAL COLLEGE.

An Overflowing Audience at Metropolitan Hall to Hear Him—A Masterly Address Teeming With Fine Thought, Beautiful Rhetoric and Charming Illustrations.

It was a noteworthy audience which assembled in Metropolitan Hall last evening to hear the address of that distinguished orator and journalist Hon. Henry Watterson, before the students and faculty of the Agricultural and Mechanical College. It was an audience composed of the culture and beauty of the City of Oaks, for besides the thoughtful array of professional and business men, there was the charming presence of feminine beauty pervading the whole length and breadth of the hall. The students and faculty of the Agricultural and Mechanical College were present in a body. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity long before the appearance of the orator of the evening, and there was hardly standing room. The galleries were filled. It was truly a representative audience, one which was a just compliment to the occasion of the visit of our midst—and certainly a most expectant audience.

On the stage were Gov. Carr, Col. John Robinson, Mr. H. B. Battle, Mayor Badger, Prof. Measey, Hon. Willis R. Williams, Mr. R. H. Battle, Capt. S. A. Ashe, Mr. W. G. Upchurch, Mr. N. B. Broughton, Prof. Yates, Dr. M. M. Marshall, Hon. J. C. Scarborough and others.

The graduating class had the seats in front of the stage. Shortly before 9 o'clock the orator was escorted into the hall by President Holladay, the trustees of the college, and other distinguished gentlemen, including Mr. Thos. R. Jernigan, Mr. W. S. Primrose, Dr. Hubert Hayward, Col. A. Leazar, Prof. C. D. McIver, Col. W. F. Green, Dr. Eugene Daniel, Mr. Coffield, Dr. W. R. Capeheart, Mr. H. E. Fries.

Col. Holladay, President of the A. and M. College, first announced that Rev. Dr. Daniel would open the exercises with prayer. After prayer Col. Holladay, in graceful words of compliment to the speaker introduced, Hon. Henry Watterson, of Kentucky, and announced his subject as "Money and Morals." The orator was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

Mr. Watterson introduced his address with a pleasant anecdote, the lesson of which was the hope expressed by himself that the audience was not suffering poverty as to either one of the things mentioned in his subject.

He declared there was no subject that did not have two sides to it. Agreement as to conclusions might not always follow, and he was constrained to believe that we are more apt to be in the wrong when most positive and emphatic.

The self-confessed man in the wrong says, "I can't give in, so you must. He declared humorously that he would not be pragmatic, but as he had the floor the audience must give in (laughter).

turn a laborer into an artist, and even when success is attained it is disappointing. Men strive for honor and preferment and when at last attained there is no joy in it. He spoke of an aspirant for the Presidency of the United States who had struggled for the office twenty years. When he at last came to be President his ambition had lost its fire, his old enemies had died or become his friends, and so it was that he found no pleasure in it.

The young man who has put forth strong effort to gain the hand of the one woman of his heart's desire would better seek one who is easier to get.

The orator's breezy thrusts of characteristic Kentucky humor brought forth rounds of applause, and occasionally reminded his audience of the eloquent Underwood, of Kentucky, who was with us a few years ago.

The speaker went on to illustrate his subject. He said the gambler always expects to win. When he wins he smiles, and when he loses he swears. But it is a fatal mistake when a man lays his hands on money which is somebody else's.

The worst of these is the man who poses as a pillar of the church and mannae as a model of christianity. Hypocrisy, he said, is the homage vice pays to virtue. It is also the masque behind which pretended virtue drives her iniquitous practices. There are hypocrites and hypocrites. Some are so deep they never find themselves out, others who are hypocrites from cowardice.

Find out a nation's sin and you will know that nation's danger. Never mind about Asia, find out about America. He spoke eloquently of the race problem, and said that there must be faith in God to solve it. Is it the labor question? It seemed that, left to the machinery of our fine government and civilization, it must adjust itself. There seems to be no single political interest that bodes lasting danger. When any one political party thinks it has the world in a sling, public opinion gets upon its hind legs and kicks it out.

It is all in the relation of the money power to the morals of the people. This would not be so bad if it were confined to the commercial world, but it extends to the $10,000 pulpit, or United States Senatorship. The trail of the trade mark of the dollar is over us all.

What a struggle it is in all great centers for money—nothing but money. How easy it is to forget how a rich neighbor secured his wealth when we are invited to enjoy his bounty. They make their fortunes first, and then buy a seat in the United States Senate. This love of the money power is crushing out every elevating and ennobling sentiment. I do not mean, said the speaker, to argue that the poor are the happiest, but neither are the rich.

Switzerland is no more wealthy now than it was five hundred years ago. Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey. Where wealth accumulates and men decay.

The speaker declared that we are upon the ascending and not the descending scale of national greatness. We have many centuries of prosperous existence ahead. The money devil is the lion across our national highway. He is at the road fork, one leading up to national fame and glory, the other leading down to ignoble plutocracy. Beware of the man who puts his pocket above his conscience, his party above his country. If you want to read of financial tragedy read the history of Wall street. The power of pride and money is weak. The statesmanship which is to lead us up to the national incline of greatness and glory must address itself more to honor, virtue and truth.

About Col. Ainsworth.

Communicated.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 14, '93.

There seems to be right much feeling against Col. Ainsworth, chief of the Record and Pension Division, in connection with the late disaster in Washington. I was in that building about a year, and it seemed to be the opinion there that it was going to fall in "some day" and kill a lot of clerks. There was also a lot of clerks that held Mr. Ainsworth in "abject fear," but they were men who hated to do anything but sign the pay roll. Mr. Ainsworth was a worker, and his division enjoyed the reputation of doing more work than any in the government. I heard while there that he objected to hiring G. A. R. men unless they were capable, and all this outbreak of hatred is none other than to give vent to feelings that have been hidden a good while, as they can now do so without any fear of the real cause being known. I went in under civil service, and most of the clerks I knew there got in the same way. There were, however, a great many G. A. R. men, and they did not like civil service. Frequently we used to get to talking about who would get turned off if work was to get slack, and the G. A. R. men would invariably answer, "G. A. R. men of course, for Ainsworth hates us."

Mr. Ainsworth was a surgeon in the army when appointed to the position he now holds; and I was of the opinion that he was put in by Cleveland (until I saw your editorial); and anyway he was considered a Democrat. He has since been promoted to Colonel.

GUY V. BARNES.

(It appears that Dr. Ainsworth was put in in 1887 when Cleveland was President before; but his present position was especially created for him by act of Congress during Harrison's administration, and he was made a Colonel and appointed by Harrison. His political affiliations are not material.—E. N. A. & O.)

A NEW INQUEST.

ORDERED IN THE FORD'S THEATRE DISASTER.

A Question Raised as to the Legality of the Inquest So Far Held and New Proceedings are Ordered.

By Southern Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The Supreme Court of this district this morning dismissed on two grounds Col. Ainsworth's petition for a mandamus to compel the Deputy Coroner to allow him to be represented at the inquest on the victims of Ford's theatre disaster.

1st. Holding that Deputy Coroner is not a legal officer. This invalidates the inquest as far as held.

2nd. That the right of the person to be present at the inquest in person by counsel, is discretionary with the coroner, and therefore not a subject for a mandamus.

Chief Justice Bingham in his decision said the examination of the law only established what he had never doubted, that the coroner in holding the inquest sat as a court, and was vested with the power and authority of a judicial officer. It was proven that in the absence of an express statutory provision such an official could not delegate his authority to another. In the course of the excited clerks, who thronged the court room, on the necessity of maintaining decorum. He told them a coroner's court was not to be considered as a town meeting. However deplorable the circumstances it was the duty of all good citizens to pay respect to the law. Whatever the finding of the coroner's court might be they were not to be disturbed, and any wrong done could be righted by the proper legal means hereafter. He admonished them to let further proceedings be conducted in a quiet orderly way. This admonition had a obviously good effect.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—In deference to the decision of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, that there is no such officer of the District of Columbia as a Deputy Coroner, Dr. Schaeffer who has been conducting the inquest at Willard Hall in that supposed capacity, immediately adjourned the proceedings until tomorrow at 11 o'clock.

A curious point now develops, that there is no body that has been viewed by the legally constituted coroner's jury. Unless one of the injured victims still lingering should die, it may be necessary to exhumate a body.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia decided this afternoon to order a new inquest over the Ford's theatre disaster, and directed District Attorney Thomas to assist Coroner Patterson in conducting it. In view of Dr. Patterson's ill health the commissioners thought seriously of appointing a new coroner, but on Patterson's statement that he could conduct the inquest if Mr. Thomas were allowed to assist him the inquest was ordered. It was ascertained that the bodies of Loftus and Fagan, two of the victims, were still in the vault at Glenwood cemetery, and the officers of the cemetery were directed not to inter them without permission of the Coroner. Mr. Patterson decided to re-summon the old jury, Warner, Harvey, Ayre, Kellogg, Schneider and Sibley. One of the bodies at Glenwood will be viewed by the jury tomorrow, and the inquest begun anew. Just how far the acts of the Deputy Coroner prior to Justice Bingham's decision will be invalidated is rather a curious question. It is believed that nothing serious will result. This is due to a fortunate combination of the circumstances under which, few if any persons have been committed to jail by him as deputy coroner who escaped subsequent indictment by the grand jury. No where can there be found any authority for the appointment of deputy coroner, and such official is not named in the list of appointees under district Commissioners. Appropriation was made last Congress for six hundred dollars for assistant to the coroner, but this is not available until July 1. It is claimed that the attorneys have casually called attention to the want of authority in this particular in the past, but the question was only raised in court of law four years after such deputy entered upon the performance of his duties.
