

North Carolina Christian Advocate.

Hundreds of individuals in other States are giving annually these amounts, some are doing it in our own State, for which I praise God, because of the good they are doing to the poor and ignorant, and they will receive; and I trust He will direct and open the way for many more to do likewise. Remember "the Lord loveth the deserving giver"—It is most blessed to give than to receive," are declarations of Him whose promises and words cannot fail.

Yours truly,
W.M. J. W. CROWDER, Agent
of Am. Tr. Soc., for N. C.
Raleigh, July 3d, 1859.

ARRIVAL OF THE BALTIMORE LATE FROM EUROPE.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The steamer Baltic, Capt. Comstock, arrived from Liverpool, which she left on the 23d ult. She made a fine trip.

GENERAL NEWS.—The London papers are full of political surprises. The main feature in the news of the week in regard to American relations are of a tranquil nature. Judging from the country newspapers it is evident that the English people were delighted with the turn the American question has taken, and it is surprising to observe how much the public have become enlightened on these American matters by means of the cheap Press. As every paper of the cheap class had devoted itself to a rational exposition of the difficulties with America in a way that the people may read and understand.

The country also appears pleased with the nomination of Mr. Buchanan for President of the United States.

Our Liverpool correspondents add that the feeling on American affairs has now subsided so far as to have no longer any unsettling effect on the market, although several of the leading papers yet keep grumbling against America.

The London "Times" advises Great Britain to hurry up a settlement on the Central American affairs before Mr. Buchanan becomes President. There is nothing of any special importance from the Parliamentary news.

The Parliamentary Committee on the Danish Slave Trade met in France and continues interested in this important commercial and political subject.

The Czar has constructed a new cabinet, including Gortschakoff, Lanski, Ostensacken, and Odoff.

There is no other item of political importance.

SHIPWRECK.—The ship Union, bound from Liverpool to Boston, was abandoned at sea on the 7th June. The crew arrived safely into Falmouth, England.

Revivals.—SCOTT'S HILL, N. C. July 8, '56.

DEAR BRO. REILLY: Please inform the readers of the Advocate that the Lord is reviving his work on Topsail Circuit. A revival has been going on at Prospect church for more than a week, and still increases in interest. More than twenty have professed conversion; fifteen have joined the church, and there are others that will do so. This meeting was commenced and carried on several days by Brother Meacham, before we were able to be with him. We believe, from present indications, that we shall have a general revival on this circuit during the present year. May the Lord hasten the time.—Brethren, pray for us.

Yours, affectionately,
W. M. F. CLERO.
W. D. MEACHAM.

DUPLIN CIRCUIT.—"I have some interest on my Circuit. Yesterday I closed a protracted meeting, at which five persons were received into the church; and I am laboring and praying for glorious work soon to bless this people. Pray for me." Yours, as ever,
J. B. BORRITT.

From the Central Press.
Not Justice, but Pardon.

One morning, a beautiful girl, four years of age presented herself, alone, at the gate of one of the palaces of France. It was when the first Napoleon was Consul. Her tears and woe moved the keeper, a kind-hearted man, to admit her. She found her way to the presence of Napoleon, as he was passing through one of the apartments, accompanied by several of his ministers. In a delirium of emotion, the child rushed to his feet, and exclaimed, "Pardon, sir! pardon for my father!"

"And who is your father?" said Napoleon, kindly; "who are you?" "I am Miss Lajolia," she replied, "and my father is doomed to die."

"Ah, Miss," said Napoleon, "but this is the second time in which your father has conspired against the State, I can do nothing for you!"

"Alas, sir!" the poor child exclaimed, "I know it; but the first time my father was innocent; and to-day I do not ask for justice—I implore pardon, pardon for him!"

Napoleon's lips trembled, tears filled his eyes, and taking the little hand of the child in both of his, he tenderly pressed it and said:

"Well, my child, yes! For your sake, I will forgive your father. This is enough. Now rise and leave me."

This beautiful historical fact may serve to illustrate the way in which sinners are saved. All in this world, young and old, are condemned to eternal death, by the great God, against whom we have all sinned.

The Apostle Paul says: "Death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." The Evangelist John also says: "He that believeth not is condemned already." You probably think that as for yourself, such a doom is hard and unjust. But you would not think so if you saw what sin would do, if God did not punish it. It would make a hell of every place, and a devil of every natural being. God must punish sin, for his own sake, and for the sake of all good beings. There is however, one who can save sinners from eternal death. One who loves them much more than this young lady loved her father. He did for us, what she could not have done for him. He took our place, and died in our stead, that we might live. God forgives sinners for Christ's sake. But he does not neglect those who neglect to honor his son, by asking pardon in his name.—It is true, that God will be strictly just with you, though you should remain away from Christ, his son, who has done so much for you. But then just to you will be banishment from heaven forever. Are you willing and prepared to receive justice? This young lady said: "I ask not for justice, I implore pardon, pardon!" The Publican, "standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, 'God be merciful to me a sinner.' And also the trembling jailor said, 'Sirs, what must I do to be saved?' Go, then, to the Savior, with something like the spirit, which the young lady manifested in behalf of her father.—Break through every obstacle, cast yourself at his feet, cry pardon, pardon! for a guilty rebel.

You can buy perish if you go.
Then be resolved to try.

For if you stay away you know
You must forever die."

And as none are pardoned, except in virtue of their relation to Christ by faith, and as such an approach is of the very essence of faith, you will be accepted as righteous in his sight only for the sake of Christ.

You will be received into the number and have a right to all the privileges of the Sons of God, and you will be renewed in the whole man after the image of God, and enabled more and more to die unto sin and live unto righteousness. At death you will be made perfect in holiness, and immediately pass into glory.
