Only a Farmer's Daughter. Chas. Watson the hustling agent of "Only a Farmer's Daughter Company," booked to open the Academy of Music for the season of '95 6, tells an amusing incident in connection with a tour of the play in the Eastern States. At Amebury, Mass., during the engagement of the Company at the Opera House there a fire broke out about 7 o'clock in the evening, which created a great excitoment, nearly every one in town rushing down to see it. The company were speculating as to their chances of having any one to witness the performance, when to their surprise the menager of the opera house, who happened to be selling tickets in the box office, calmly closed the same and joined the crowd at the fire. Potrais Presentation

FUNERAL OF MRS. VASS. Held at the First Baptist Church this

In the Baptist Church this after termon the clear notes of Mrs. E. B Barbes's belt like voice, so adapted to pathos of melodious tone rang out with peculiar sadness, touched with welling notes of hope.

The numbers of sorrowing friends and relatives who had come to the draped and flower laden church to pay honor to the aweet memory of lamented Nrs. Vses, were deeply touched. It was a sad, sad funeral, se solemn services over the re e whom Rateigh had so learned to love that the thought of giving her up has filled the whole people with subdued sorrow. But interspersing the solemn words of spiritual comfort of the minister there came ever and anon the hymns from the choir loft, sung with a sweetness and a chord of sorrowful triumph that was in perfect harmony with the death of this woman whose loss is so severe a blow, but whose Christian spirit and oheerful, help ful love and charity assure those who loved her that for her there is a happier State. The singers were Mrs. Barbes, Miss Minnie Tucker. Miss Alice Jones, Mr. Primrose and Mr. Will Jones, assisted by Mrs. R. B. Raney at the organ, these foremost of Raleigh singers sang as never before. Mrs. Barbee sang the only solo.

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Skinner, assisted by Dr. Taylor, Dr. Simms and Dr. Daniels It was a sad duty, and yet befitting, that the former pastor should con duct the services over the remains of the woman with whom he had so long been associated in Christian work.

In the hush of the evening the interment took place in Oakwood cemetery. With the dead lady's bereaved husband and children every heart beats in sympathy. Long will the memory of Mrs. Vass remain; for a woman whose whole life was a story of love has gone.

The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Charles E. Johnson, T. H. Briggs, Dr. J. B. Batchelor, Col. T. S. Kenan, Col. J. W. Hins dale, Dr. F. J. Haywood, Capt. 8 A. Ashe, Dr. A. B. SENDS HIS CONGRATIONS

To Gov. Carr on Progress in Cot ton Manufacturies-Consumption 227,000 Bales.

The following telegram, received last night by Governor Carr from Henry G. Hunter, Secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, should be particularly encouraging to North Carolinians, showing as it does the remarkable growth of the cotton manufacturing industry in this State. Mr. Hester is preparing a report of he cotton consumption of the South. It is shown that this State ranks as high as South Carolina, formerly the leader in manufacturies. Comparing his own report with the United States census of 1890, Mr. Hester arrived at the rather startling conclusion that North Carolina had doubled the number of bales of cotton consumed within a single lustrum.

This is progress.

NEW ORLEANS, Sep. 2. To the Governor of the State of North Carolina. I congratulate you and the people of the great State of North Carolina on his remarkable progress in cotton manufactures. She is now practically equal to South Carolina, the largest cotton consumer of the South. My official report on the cotton crop to be issued today will show that by an actual census of the mills, North Carolina has consumed of this year's crop 227,000 bales, an increase of 58,000 over last year. She has new spindles which may be brought into play in 1895-'6, that with fair trade condi-Jones, J. C. Fort, D. W. Alleu. Roles- tions should increase her total to at ville, L. M. Rainee, S. W. MR. BUSBEE'S SAD DEATH.

Was Drowned for Quite a While Be-

The Portsmouth Star, received here this morning, gives the circumstances relating to the drowning of Mr. Quinton Busbee. Mr. Busbee with a party of friends, went in bathing. The surf was high and the current strong. Mr. Bushes, with one of his friends, went some distance out, and the former, getting beyond his depth, was drowned. The young man had been noticed swimming out, and suddenly disappeared. No ories were heard, and it was some little time before it was discovered that he had drowned. When his friends had missed him a search and inquiry was made among the bathers, but no one seemed to know what had become of the missing man. A boat was taken from the beach, and several gentler went out and made search for the body. They were not successful in finding it, however, and about 4:30 o'clock it was discovered washing shore. The body was taken out of the water and carried up to the pavilion. Mr. H. D. Oliver, the undertaker in this city, was notified and went down to the View for the remains. They were brought up to his establishment, where they were

If Editor Daniels could have seen the people who gathered at the Fair grounds by nine o'clock, even he would have been surprised at the number of those in the city who love a race. But there was no race. Rather than disappoint the growd, however, Mr. Black sent his two runners, Florence Boyland and Irequois for a quarter mile. The latter won in 25 seconds. Mr. Ed Denton's horse Bias went the distance in 26 1 2. There were also several trotters speeding on the track, so, after all, those present were not sorry that somebody had blundered about the race.
