SACRIFICES AT A PREMIUM.

No Chicken Hanging Among Jews in New York To-morrow.

New York, Sept. 26.—Fifty vendors of live fowls were arrested today, to-morrow being the day of atonement among Jews, when it is the custom of the lower classes to swing a fowl, preferably a chicken, over the head of every member of the family by the neck, then killing and eating it as a sacrifice to atone them from their sins. The butchers have laid in a large supply of live fowls contrary to the board of health's decision. To prevent their sale arrests have followed. Atonement day sacrifices will be at a premium.

POKING FUN AT IRISH

English Journal Criticizes the Hibernians Convention

"ENTERTAINING FARCE"

London, Sept. 26.—The newspapers today profess to find in the proceedings of the Irish nationalist convention at Chicago material for amusement. The Globe this afternoon says Finerty and his colleagues deserve the thanks of the world for furnishing an entertaining farce. The St. James Gazette says there are none so valiant as exiled Hibernians to secure free liquor saloons and none so ready as they to attack the Saxon when the Saxon can't get at them, or so patriotic in raising other people's money for war.

MANGLED BY A GIN.

Dr. W. E. Richardson Met a Fearful Death Yesterday.

Dr. W. E. Richardson, a well-known citizen of Wake county, residing near Shotwell, about fifteen miles from the city, met an awful death yesterday. The accident happened at the gin house on his farm about eleven o'clock in the morning.

It seems that Dr. Richardson's sleeve was caught by a belt which drew his arm in, mangle it almost horribly. While the belt was whirling in its rapid flight and grinding the arm, Dr. Richardson's body was thrown in the air and up against the machinery. He received a number of severe lacerations on the body which aggravated his death. Dr. Richardson was not in the very best of health and the shock was so great to him that he passed away yesterday evening about 4:30 p. m.

Dr. Richardson was a successful physician and a prominent and patriotic citizen of Wake county. He was about 48 years of age, and leaves a large family to mourn his untimely loss.

BRITISH VIOLATE TREATY

Charged that their Sealers Carry Arms in Defiance.

BUT KEEP CLOSE WATCH

San Francisco, Sept. 26.—Information comes to the Federal authorities that many British sailing schooners have been carrying arms in defiance of the sealing treaty and that hunters have boldly violated the law. The complaints to be made state that department information is given by American sea captains who have cruised in the Arctic regions since the Paris award in the Beabring Sea matter. On the other hand it is claimed that the British have been watching our vessels for every violation of law, however technical, and have promptly reported each case.

THOSE RESOLUTIONS:

Some of the Facts About How They Were Prepared.

Concerning the resolutions which were adopted yesterday by the silver convention and published in full in the Press-Visitor, a little bit of history is interesting. The first three resolutions and the fourth down to that part which recommends the voting for certain candidates for office were prepared by Capt. S. A. Ashe and agreed upon and adopted on Monday night by a considerable number of Democrats who were interested in promoting the call for the convention. They were submitted to Mr. Butler on Monday night, who agreed to them, but he proposed the addition which followed and which Capt. Ashe and other Democrats objected to as ignoring party nominating conventions.

But that addition, however, was not originally prepared by Mr. Butler. It appears that it originated with some Democrats, and was submitted to Senator Butler on Monday afternoon by Mr. Whitaker, and was slightly modified by him and some of his Populist friends that night. Senator Butler proposed it as an addition to a conference attended by himself, Dr. Mott, Capt. Ashe and others on Tuesday morning, when it was objected to because it ignored nominations by conventions.

All Tuesdays there was a discussion of that proposition, the Democrats proposing several substitutes for it—one of them being a recommendation that the people use all honorable means to secure the nomination and election of such electors as will vote only for candidates for President and vice-president who favor the restoration of silver; and that they elect only such congressmen as favor free coinage.

But no suggested modification was agreed to. When the committee of nine met Tuesday night, Capt. Ashe said he could not accept the additional resolution, since it ignored party conventions, and upon its being adopted by the committee, he did not attend the convention. He thought it went beyond the call for the convention. But Capt. Ashe, in an interview, said he hoped and expected that much good would result from the convention, and he much regretted that the insistence on the idea embraced in the "additional resolution" debarred him from attending the convention. Ex-Gov. Jarvis took the same view of the matter and refrained from attending the convention, as did some other Democrats.

Capt. Ashe was asked today by the Press-Visitor for his estimate of the convention and its work, and he said that the result of the convention demonstrated, first, that those persons who connected the call for this convention with a movement for a new party were in error; second, that those who thought the convention would indulge in "causing" the administration were in error; third, that the silver Democrats who remained away from the convention instead of attending it, and seeing that its resolutions and action should conform to their views, made a mistake; fourth, that the gold men who opposed the convention were right for their side.

He said he felt sure that the result of the convention would strengthen the cause of free silver, and thus answer the purpose for which it was called. He also believed that it will prove greatly to the advantage of the Democratic party in North Carolina and that in the end nearly every Democrat in the State will concur in this view. A noteworthy fact was that some of the Democrats who came to Raleigh to attend the convention were more demonstrative in the utterance of extreme views than the Populists.

DISCUSSING WATER WAYS OF GREAT LAKES.

Cleveland, Sept. 26.—At today's session of International Deep Water Ways Association Frank A. Power, Secretary of Superior Waterways Commission of the Association read a paper entitled, "Basis for an operation between the United States and Canada Canal Construction and maintenance."

His conclusion was that the co-operative agreement between Great Britain and the United States was inevitable for control of levels and outflows of the great lakes. The chief difficulty in the way of consummation is the Jingo sentiment on both sides of the border. Thomas Roberts of Pittsburg argued for the enlargement of Erie Canal to connect the Great Lakes tide water.

"THE GREATEST ON EARTH."

Tents of Barnum and Bailey's Shows Destroyed by Great Storm.

Burlington, Iowa, Sept. 26.—A severe wind, hail and rain storm passed over the city yesterday. The main tent, animal tent and boarding tent of Barnum and Bailey's circus was destroyed.

"ANNIE ROONEY" GOES TO JAIL.

The Proceedings of Mayor Russ' Court.—Three to The Roads.

The Mayor's Court proceedings served this morning to carry the mind of the on-looker back over many years. When "Annie Rooney" was called to the bar, the crowd started. One could almost hear in imagination the squalling of the once popular ditty from the street—a ditty now heard only as a dead echo of a dead past.

And the sad fact of the proceedings was the thought that Annie Rooney Hill, like the song for which she is named has seen her best days. It seems that she and Ida Hill and Lid Shambley had engaged in a free-for-all and heaven stirring scrap. But when the clash of conflict had ceased, these three champions of woman's rights had been walked, walling, away to the station house; this morning they left for the wilds where the work-house lies. Annie goes 30 days, Ida Hill, 30 and Lid Shambley, 30.

Paul Rogers for an affray was fined five dollars. A little bit of a negro was held in a larceny suspect. He was hardly ten years old, but became indignant when he spoke of his arrest: "I had just come in from Charlotte when de cop pulled me for chicken stealin,'" he said. Mayor Russ gave the boy an hour to leave the city for Millbrook, where he said his parents lived.

John R. Gentry defeated Joe Patchen and Fidel in three straight heats yesterday, making the fastest third heat ever paced. It clearly demonstrates his title to King of the turf, for no pacing horse has ever approached his record so far. It was the fastest record of the season, an event which alone entitles him to a blaze of glory. The weather was warm and a great breeze was blowing.

Summary:

Special pace, purse $4,000.

DEATH OF DR. J. W. CARMER.

Dr. James W. Carmer, of the firm of Boykin, Carmer & Co., well known druggists, of Baltimore, died at his home in Baltimore last evening after a lingering illness.

Dr. Carmer was a native of North Carolina and lived for a number of years at Newbern, where his remains were taken for interment today.

Dr. Carmer was the uncle of Mr. J. R. H. Carmer and the great uncle of the Misses Carmer of this city.

HOTTER, HOTTER, HOTTER!

The above is about the only way to describe the adjective descriptive of the weather during the last nine days. While we all know that the season has been somewhat sultry (or terrific) it is interesting to know just how far up the mercury climbed. Beginning with the 18th we had a maximum temperature each day as follows: 18th, 95; 19th, 99; 20th, 95; 21st, 98 3 4; 22d, 100; 23d, 101; 24th, 96; 25th, 97; 26th, 98.

The above figures were furnished us by Mr. T. C. Harris, who has standard weather service instruments in a proper instrument shelter. It beats the record for September.

A Splendid Aldermanic Possibility.

Dr. D. E. Everett is spoken of as the probable successor to Alderman Ivey. It would be a wise selection, certain. No man is more interested in the welfare of the city than Dr. Everett. Whatever Dr. Everett undertakes to accomplish he generally accomplishes it.

"The Span of Life"
