CITY IN BRIEF - Durham was well represented at the fair.

A Breezy Time is playing to the biggest sort of houses this fall. In Wilmington the other day the play cleared $600.

Major Sam Telfair was not at his desk this morning, he having been pulled away from his office to testify to matters of record in the penitentiary case.

The grading on Hargett street is progressing rapidly. It seems a pity that the old sidewalks which line its side, walks should be destroyed, but this is being done.

The town of Henderson is having trouble with its electric light plant. City attorney Engle, who was here at the fair, is to apply to the court on his return for the appointment of a receiver for the company.

There was a runaway on West Hargett street this morning. A horse hitched to a wagon, started at Salisbury and went sailing, nearly as far as the Union depot. The driver just pulled him off the curb and finally stopped his horse, with no damage done.

Mr. G. W. Bryant, chairman, requests that every person in Raleigh interested in the series of grand concerts to be given during the winter come to the Academy of Music at 8 p. m. Monday, October 29th. Matters of interest to all will be considered and final arrangements made.

Mr. Miles Goodwin, manager of the Royal and Borden furniture house, has the greatest advertisement ever seen here. It is the picture of the mug of a great big negro with his mouth wide open, saying: "Go to Royal and Borden's for the best bargains in furniture." Mr. Goodwin always has the thing to hit the nail on the head.
