A WEARY WHILE.

It has been a wanty while mother,
filnes you hade us all farewell—
Since you left your wasping children
In this selfish world to dwell;
To wander on without you through
This erest world and dreat—
How could you leave them here alone,
Oh, mother—mother dear.

They are struggling through the world,
They are senttered wide and far;
I cannot tell, I know not sow
Where all thy children are.
But many a thousand miles, mother,
And many a year of pain,
3'retch cold beneath the parted hearts
That no'er may most again.—Rr.

SOUTHERN BAILWAY SHOPS.

It will be somewhat similar to Altoons, Pa., where the Pennsylvania Railroad has its mammoth shops.

The Southern company is still reaching out, and we are reliably informed that before many days elapse it will "take in" another trunk line, which will form a very important link in its monster traffic system. This addition to the lines of the company makes the erection of great shops at Alexandria an absolute necessity. A foundry, car and machine shops, and round houses of the most modern type, splendidly equipped, will be built there, as well as sheds, storehouses, dwellings for workmen and in fact all the accessories of a manufacturing

SOME READING THAT WILL PROVE INTER-ESTING TO YOUNG MOTHERS—HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THE DISEASE.

Croup is a terror to young mothers and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. Children who are subject to it take cold very easily and croup is almost sure to follow. The first symptom is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given all tendency to croup will soon disappear. Even after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving this remedy, for it centains nothing injurious. For sale by J. Hal Bobbitt, Druggist.
