An Atlanta man's plans for the library at Emory College have been accepted. A. M. Patton is the lucky man. The library building will be built of Georgia marble and will be one of the most beautiful in the South. On the left of the entrance will be the trustees' room, on the right laboratories and cloakrooms, and in front a large lobby beneath the dome. On the right of the lobby will be the reading-room, about 40x40; on the left the museum. Back of the lobby will be the stockroom. The shelves will have a capacity of 60,000 volumes, which can be increased as occasion requires. About one-half of the amount necessary to build has already been subscribed, and Dr. Candler hopes to have the building in process of construction in the near future.

An election for State officers and members of the Legislature will be held in Georgia tomorrow. Gov. W. I. Atkinson, who has been renominated, heads the Democratic ticket, whilst the Republicans, Populists and prohibitionists have combined on Hon. Seaborn Wright, an able and popular young man and former prominent Democrat, for the governorship. Both candidates have made an active campaign, and orators from both parties have made speeches in almost every school district in the State. There has been a new registration, and there are now 392,000 names on the registration lists, of whom 95,000 are colored. The campaign virtually closed Saturday, and today and tomorrow the leaders will devote to perfecting plans for bringing out the vote. Both sides make confident claims of victory. The Democratic committee places Atkinson's probable majority at 35,000, while the fusionists assert with equal confidence that Wright will win by 25,000 majority. On the national ticket there is a fusion between the Democrats and Populists which will in November unite these two parties.

There is rejoicing in Alabama over the demonstration that steel of a good quality can be made from Alabama iron. The experiment has been tried several times and with results that have seemed encouraging, but the steel industry has not obtained that foothold in the State that was predicted and so earnestly hoped for. The tests of the Hawkins process have been going on for some time in Birmingham and now it is announced that success has been achieved. The Birmingham Age-Herald says: "The fact now stands undisputed, as the steel is to be seen at the Jefferson Steel Manufacturing Company's plant in North Birmingham. Twice have the officials of the above plant attempted to convert Birmingham iron into merchantable steel, but as often did they fail. Determined, however, to give the formula a fair test the cupola of the steel plant was charged Friday with a little over tons of low silicon or basic iron made at the Alice furnace, this city, out of red mountain ore, and in the incredible space of four hours, unprecedented in the history of steel making, the molten metal was cast into pigs. As soon as possible thereafter the product was tested in the company's laboratory, and the result developed a first-class soft steel. The officials, when the result was made known, were highly delighted, and well might they be, for this work is but a forerunner of what is to come. Mr. E. F. Enslin, in referring to the test, said that there is now no room for doubting the efficiency of the Hawkins process in converting Birmingham iron into first-class steel. He was more than pleased with the result of the test and said he would start East in a day or two with samples of the newly made steel to prove to Eastern capital that Birmingham is what she always claimed to be—the iron centre of the world."
