People call the kind of weather we've been having lately "Indian summer." That's because it's so treacherous. The sun smiles in your face while a cold wind creeps around the corner and stabs you in the back. Especially is this true of the children. The eareful mother will see that the tots are guarded against the insidious foe by a panoply of warm clothing. Here is the place to get it.

Three Thousand Strong.

That is a mighty host of OVERCOATS you will find "lined up" here to meet your wants and wishes. Strong in quantity, strong in quality and style and fit. The only weak spot is the price. One wing of this army of comfort followers the conventional fashion. The other leads a gallant band of novelties—all our own. Both are mustered under the same business-bringing banner—"satisfaction to everybody." The big trade we are having is the best evidence of our surpassing facilities. It's like a corporation a guard facing a regiment for competition to strive against our enormous variety—our superior qualities—our lowest prices. Cost may not cut any figure with you, but you don't want to pay fifty dollars when twenty—five dollars will give you the same value. The man who must feel his way and count his dollars can't afford to pay ten dollars when $7.50 will buy as good a garment. We are not favorites from friendship only, but on the solid, substantial ground that bring folks back here season after season. We want to sell you the
