 Christmas is childhood's happiest time. It is sad for any little one to be forgotten at this happy time, and it takes so little to make all happy. We were all children once ourselves and remember how eagerly we looked for Old Santa Claus. Don't forget the little ones, let the older ones look out for themselves, but don't forget the little ones. Your little ones may have all they could wish for, but don't you know of some little one near by that may not have any thing to make them happy, and oh! how disappointed they will be. We are proud in the enjoyment of our good things and pleasures in life to forget those who are less fortunate than we. Just think how glad some poor little
