The Only Pebble on the Beach.

By Telegraph to the Press-Visitor.
NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., August 19.—Police Sergeant Lewis Champlin yesterday ordered Walter De Paultney, a well-known society man of Baltimore, off the beach because of the alleged immodesty of his bathing suit.

Mr. De Paultney is noted for his peculiar dress. His suit, which attracted so much attention, consisted of white flannel and fitted very close to the skin. It has been the talk among bathers on the beach for some time. After being ordered off the beach Mr. De Paultney appeared again on the beach attired in a double suit. The other suit was of blue flannel of the regulation style.

The Indian Tramping.

By Cable to the Press-Visitor.
SIMLA, Aug. 19.—The rapid mobilization of the British troops in India and the activity of the military authorities in pushing reinforcements is regarded as assuring the safety of the Indian frontier no matter how widespread may be the uprising against British rule. Thirty-five thousand British forces are on the border. News from the frontier is more reassuring. Kurram valley is also quiet. Gen. Blood advanced nine miles along the banks of the river in Swat valley, and found no signs of the enemy. Miangulis have submitted to the British authorities.

Getting His Own Grave Ready.

By Telegraph to the Press-Visitor.
WEST CAESTER, Pa., Aug. 19.—In anticipation of the time when his spirit shall be called from this world, John G. Taylor is preparing his own grave. He has just had deposited in his lot in the Lafayette cemetery, adjoining the historic old Birmingham meeting house a solid slate casket in which his body is to repose. Mr Taylor has experienced the delightful sensation of being measured for his coffin while living. He believes in attending to such little details now, for after he is gone others might not be so careful to have them right. Mr Taylor has also had a classic statue of his wife, who died some years ago, placed on top of a fine monument over her grave.

A New Baby at Ten Years.

HILLSDALE, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Ten-year-old Mamie Owens, of this village, is for the second time in her life learning how to walk and talk. Several months ago the child was run down by a bicyclist. Her brain was injured and she was unconscious for a week—When she recovered sensibility it was found that she had relapsed into babyhood. She had to be taught to talk like a baby, beginning with "papa" and "mamma." She was taught to creep, too. Now she is able to make her wants known and can walk a few steps. Her general health seems to be good.

By Telegraph to the Press-Visitor.

A WELCOME GUEST.

The Town Billied For Al. G. Field's Great Minstrels.

Mr. J. L. Weed, the advance agent of the great Al. G. Field minstrel, was here today and the town has been decorated with attractive paper.

Al. G. Field and his big minstrels will be the opening attraction this season, holding the boards the 27th. For years the Al. G. Field minstrels has been recognized as the leading lights in their line. This season it looks as if this popular manager was to outdo himself. A glance at his company and the names on his banner certainly proves his claim that the Al. G. Field big minstrels is the largest company in the world.

The names of more than seventy people are on the roster, prominent among which the Cornalia family of ladies and gentlemen acrobats are found. Their performance is entirely different from all others, and the salary they receive is equivalent to that paid to many entire companies. The De-Veillers, French pantomimists, grotesque dancers, etc., are another European importation who make their first American appearance with this show. O. Judd Manola and Lefele Miller, acrobatic comiques, Ollie Young, who made such a tremendous hit with this company last season, presenting a still stronger act of ambidexterity.

Mr. Young is the only one of the last year's company who has been retained. His tremendous success all along the line induced Manager Field to re-engage him for this season. Dan Quilhan still graces the interlocutor's chair and has gone a step higher, as his name appears on the bills as assistant manager. Billy Van, Al. G. Field, Doc. Quigley, Phil Hecker, Commodity & Hyland, Scanlon & Hyde, Eddie Fox with his violin and orchestra, Charley Nims and his military band and the Madrigal boys, go to make up the big bill.

A Dream Became a Reality.

Strange things happen sometimes, said an old theatre-goer. After a good dinner I had taken an easy chair and was soon sound asleep. I don't often dream, but this time I thought I was in a beautiful theatre, curtain went up and I saw before me the most beautiful creatures I had ever been my lot to gaze; then came many wonderful changes of magnificent scenery. In an instant that scene had changed and I beheld many loving maidens in most bewitching ballets, just then a glorious transformation took place and the curtain seemed to slowly descend from above.

I was suddenly jostled by a gentleman who was trying to make room to set down at the window and awoke to find myself holding a newspaper opened at the page with Chas. H. Yale's advertisement of his Forever Devil's Auction. To make my dream a realization I visited the beautiful Auditorium the next night and beheld one of the most beautiful spectacular production I had ever seen.

A Joke on the Turkey, as Well.

The Goldsboro Argus says: "One day last week Walter Lee while cleaning his bicycle, laid the balls carefully aside and resumed his cleaning, hearing something continually tapping away just behind him, he looked around just in time to see his mother's large turkey gobler swallowing the last of them. We won't print what Walter said, for his bicycle was a new one, and he has only had it but a few days. He meditated some time before going down the street and placing his order for more balls, for he was on a quandary whether to kill the gobler and grind him up and sift him for the balls or not. Walter is waiting for his bicycle balls, and vows he will never again attempt to clean his wheel when a turkey is in sight."

Expect Indian Mines to Reopen.

By Cable to the Press-Visitor.
LONDON, Aug. 19.—The Westminster Gazette this afternoon commented upon the "demoralized silver market, says: "We understand that Americans who today are forcing sales will soon resume purchasing in anticipation of the re-opening of the Indian mines." It questions the accuracy of the view in America that Great Britain's reply will be favorable to the monetary proposals of the United States.

REV. LOMAX WANTED.

A Colored Diviner of this State Leaves Mad Congregation in Norfolk.

The authorities in Norfolk, Va., are looking for the Rev. George Lomax, formerly of Durham. The Rev. Lomax is wanted and he is wanted bad.

About a year ago the Rev. Lomax took charge of two Baptist churches—Lambert's Point, Norfolk Co., and Ebenezer church, Princess Anne county. Lately the membership of the latter church decided upon extensive improvements, and a committee negotiated through a Norfolk attorney a loan of $2000. After the interest and expenses were deducted there was $729 left. This was placed in the hands of the pastor, Rev. Lomax, preliminary to the improvements. Last Monday night Rev. John Boone, a visiting colored preacher from Philadelphia, went out to Ebenezer and preached for Lomax, the latter bringing him to town again after the service, Boone saying that Lomax had the money at that time, but nothing has been seen of the latter since, nor has the money been heard from. A horse and buggy which Lomax had arranged to buy from a party in Princess Anne, and which he used in coming to the city Monday night, has been found here and turned over to the owner. A committee from the church reported the matter to the Police department. The membership of the church are very much excited over the occurrence.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Johnny Conway, who was kidnapped from his parents while on the street several days ago, was returned to his parents at 9 o'clock this morning through the efforts of private detectives and reporters. He was abducted by his uncle, Joseph Hardy, and his associate, H. G. Blake. Both were arrested and agreed to deliver the boy at the newspaper office early this morning for twenty-five hundred dollars. When the boy was produced their arrest followed.

Hardy owed the boy's father a sum of money which he demanded. He was a man of bad character and has been for some time suspected of complicity in the kidnaping. The boy was held for three thousand dollars ransom. Lynching would have followed the return of the lad had the police not interfered.
