The Nashville American says: "If the Debs colony in Tennessee is to be made a vantage ground for a socialist propaganda, it may serve to inject some spirited contention into the politics of the State, but it is a stronger probability that, if this colony be ever established, its abiding qualities will not be equal to the task of making it a political force. Tennessee is not ripe for the leveling process, and will not readily take to the radical innovations that the socialists propose. There is, in fact, no more conservative people to be found in the country than those of Tennessee, and if brought face to face with an element that proposes the destruction of individual property rights, that conservatism would be likely to assert itself in a manifest degree."

To the geologist the east coast of Florida," says the Jacksonville Times-Union, "is one of the most interesting portions of the earth's surface. In the eyes of science it was but yesterday when the surf beat on what is now the western shore of the St. John's. To the eastward of this line the corals built a long bar, gradually this caught the earth washed from the shore and on this plants grew and then trees. This made of the St. John's exactly what Indian river is now, a long salt water lagoon. As the coast widened and the coral worked the lagoon filled in as Indian river is doing, and drainage from both sides made it fresh. Still the coral is at work, and again a long bar stretches southward almost continuous now from Cape Canaveral to Key West. When all the inlets on Indian river are closed but one it will soon become a fresh-water stream and fill in with the remaining inlet for the mouth of a river. Then the space between the shore and the coral reef will be another lagoon and another strip of habitable land will arise out of the ocean."

Concluding an editorial on the importance of technical schools in the South, the Knoxville (Tenn.) Tribune says: "The South is destined to become one of the great manufacturing sections of the world, and the field for educated artisans and mechanics is steadily growing and the demand is constantly increasing. The South needs technological schools for training and educating draughtsmen, architects, metal workers, chemists, smiths, machinists, wood and iron workers, mill and factory operators and managers, textile workers, metallurgists, and soon. It should not rely on other sections for these, but should train its own sons to perform high-class industrial work. There is no need to urge the educating of young men for the law, medicine and other professions. The supply of these exceeds the demand. The industrial field offers large rewards, opportunities and honors to those who will fit themselves for this line of endeavor. Industrial education is one of the South's greatest needs."

The Electrical Engineer publishes the first authoritative account of Thomas A. Edison's success in recovering by electrical means the iron contained in low-grade ore. The inventor's experiments have been carried on during the past six years at the old Ogden iron mines, a few miles from Dover, New Jersey, where he has built up a plant covering several acres of ground, and which, after many experiments, is now capable of producing daily from 1,000 to 1,500 tons of almost chemically pure iron. This ore worked contains on the average about 25 per cent of iron and resembles in appearance a very poor quality of grey rock. Mr. Edison states that there are 200,000,000 tons of this ore on the ground immediately surrounding his plant, from which can be produced 50,000,000 tons of iron. His process, in brief, consists of blasting the ore from the mountain sides and then by means of steam shovels and miniature railroad cars conveying it to massive crushers, where it is broken up and passed on to other mills, where it is pulverized. The powder is then allowed to fall in close proximity to electro magnets, which deflects the iron to one side and the non-ferrous matter falls to the other side by gravity. From the time the ore is blasted until it is resolved into this metallic form and compressed into briquettes for shipment the process is entirely automatic.

Strong Cross & Linehan,

Leaders of Up-to-Date Clothing.

The Home of Fashion.

Men of fashion find our stock replete with noblest importations. Clothes are the outward expression of your taste. A costly habit as by purchase can buy, but not expressed in fancy; rich—not gaudy, for the apparel of the man. The truth is always the strongest argument. Pleasing our patrons makes life pleasant for us.

A Good Combination:

WEAR: The looks of clothing may be a temporary avowment, but if good service be not with them, they'll never please you.
FIT: A poor fitting garment, no matter how the material, should not be worn by an up-to-date dresser.
STYLE: A suit is only as good as the eye and aid you in appearance.
PRICE: Fitting the foregoing elements in clothing to sell at prices to suit the times is just exactly what we are doing.

A Taste of Winter.

Soon you will need some thing new in the furnishing line. Remember that while summer is here we were looking after your wants. All you have to do is to come and see how well we have provided for you. With us you will find everything up to date. Not yesterday, but today, tomorrow.

Harris' Lithia Carbonated

We guarantee that one glass of Harris' Lithia Carbonated Water will relieve any case of indigestion in one minute's time or money refunded, or if taken after each meal will cure any case of indigestion. Read what the noted Dr. Davega, of Chester, S. C., has to say for it:
Mr. J. T. HARRIS:
I have used Harris' Lithia Carbonated Water for the past eight months. I have been able to get my patients to drink a sufficient quantity daily. The Carbonated has no equal in the treatment of dyspepsia. In old chronic dyspepsia, if you will wash the stomach with salt and water, and have an hour later have your patient drink the Carbonated Lithia you will make many friends and improve many stomachs. It is an excellent laxative, and is a sure cure for flatulent dyspepsia.
