Deserving Great Enterprise to Have Southern Children Study Books Written by Southern Authors-Charleston Taking a Prominent Part in the Movement.

Mr. Wm. C. Chase, of Virginia, who s highly recommended, has been in 'harleston, S. C. for several days on an important mission. What that mission will be best explained by himself in e following extract taken from an

the following extract taken from an article in yesterday's Charleston News and Courier on the subject:

"Mr. Chase came to Charleston for the purpose of securing to the cause of Southern text books by Southern authors the active interest of local educators and capitalists. Since his arrival here he reports having received that enthusiastic sympathy and cordial support so necessary to a movement into port so necessary to a movement into which there enters, of necessity, a broad current of sentiment.

road current of sentiment.

"From the first suggestion that harlesten should take more than the dinary part in this important matter, as proper education of the Southern outh, some of the foremost men of the ity have been actively favorable to it, nd Mr. Chase is confident of Charleson standing firmly by Richmond in the casure, which he says, is for the up-miding of the South and the freeing building of the South and the freeing of her schools from text book bendage. "Mr. Chase expressed deep faith in the work. He said yesterday." Charles-ton, like a few other Southern towns, has always stood for the highest order of citizenship, civilization and patriotic principle. The whole South has always has always from the stoods of the schools of rineiple. The whole South has always herished for these towns an unshaker

Few of her chillen knew much of their section of the Union. It is a shame. We owe it to air children to teach them from books have idebated them for the work or teaching children of the Santh. We can never be a great people until this is hone. Remember that histories, read-ars, goographics and all books of the sentimental, of more properly speak-ing, local order, shape the impression of the publis. If these books omit, as they have done for the past generation and more, any reference to the South or reartly so, it is not in the bounds of common sense to say nothing of sec-tional pride to expect the future gen-crations of the South to take as high resition in the fusion as they would attantly occupy if the whole plan were hanged, and the books instructed chil-fren in the matters that necessarily belong to the South.
