McKimmon, Moseley & McGee—Hats.
Statement—Virginia Classified Insurance Co.

In and Around the City.

Now for sunshine and showers.
Biggest frost of the season this morning.

One party, for disorderly conduct, was fined three dollars and cost this morning by the Mayor.

New spring goods are constantly arriving. Let the people know what you have through the VISITOR.

Sportsmen should remember that the bird law is now in force. Let the feathered tribe have a rest.

Now is the time to advertise Easter goods, and the VISITOR is one of the best mediums. It goes to a large number of the homes of our people.

Shall we have a canning factory? This is now the all absorbing question. It is looming up in most of the other towns in the State also.

One new student was registered at the Agricultural and Mechanical College this morning—Mr Lytch from Richmond county.

Don't forget the Pink Tea Party, by the ladies of the Baptist Tabernacle, which will be given on Thursday night next. It will be an enjoyable affair in all its different features.

The trees seem to be rather late in putting forth, but the leaves will get their full growth by the 10th of May all the same. There seems to be no failure in this respect.

The talented and accomplished President of the G W C (who has just been elected), is now located in Greensboro. The members will govern themselves accordingly.

The Capital Hose Company will give a grand concert next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. A small admission fee will be charged to concert, which will admit to fair and festival.

Mr J W Denmark has taken the residence at the corner of Bloodworth and Morgan streets where he will embark in the heretofore untried business, by him, of house keeping.

The chamber of commerce is issuing a large edition of treatise on the art of planting, growing, curing and handling bright tobacco, for special gratuitous distribution to the farmers of Wake county.

Mr S J Freeman has opened a restaurant at Fendt's old stand on West Martin street, opposite post-office. He will be glad to have his friends and the public generally give him a call. We wish him much success.

In answer to a notice on the subject of canning fruits and vegetables in Raleigh, Mr P M Wilson commissioner of immigration, received three applications for information on the subject before midday. This is a subject that our people ought to acquaint themselves with. We have the material right here and it is practical to do so and keep it. The chamber of commerce ought to make it a feature of special care.

It is wonderful how many bananas D F Johnson, agent, is selling. But when we take into consideration the high price of apples, and the unheard of low price he is selling bananas at, our wonder ceases. Think of buying a bunch of bananas for 75c, $1 or even $1.25! And yet he is now receiving a lot of 25 bunches which he will sell at above prices. Also a lot of fine peanuts, bought expressly for seed. There is big money in raising peanuts at present prices. We take pleasure in commending Mr Johnson as one of our most enterprising merchants who keeps fully up to the times in quality and prices.

Messrs Yancey & Stronach have two fine carts on exhibition made for Wake county by the Kentucky Wagon Company. They are beauties. These gentlemen also deal in one and two horse wagons made by the same company.

The Durham Sun of yesterday says: Mr Jordan Womble, Jr, who has been living with his daughter, Mrs J W Blackwell, for the past two years, left yesterday evening to make his home with his daughter, Mrs Purnell, at Purnells, N C. He made many friends while here, and was one of the leading members in the Blackwell Baptist church. He will be missed by the church and his friends.

Weather Report.

For Raleigh fair weather, warmer.

Supreme Court.

The argument in the contested election case from Forsyth will be concluded today which ends the causes from the Ninth District. Causes from Tenth District will be called next Monday April 7th.

The Sociable Tomorrow Night.

To aid a good cause and have a good time is enough for the undertaking of one evening. This you may do by attending the Pink Tea Party to be given by the ladies of the Baptist Tabernacle in the Sunday school room tomorrow night. We trust that there will be a large attendance.

Gents' Furnishing Goods.

McKimmon, Moseley & McGee, 129 and 131 Fayetteville St, begs leave to introduce to their many customers this new department in their establishment, inviting the gentlemen to visit their store, where a complete line of carefully selected goods may be found.

A Necessity.

We are glad to see the statement going the rounds of the press that a new hotel is in contemplation at Chapel Hill. This improvement is as much needed for the accommodation of the many visitors during the summer months in that section, as for those who go there during commencement. With a large hotel containing all modern improvements a considerable crowd could be gathered at that place every year.

New Advertisements

Attention is called to the annual statement of the condition of the Virginia Classified Life Insurance Company, of Norfolk, Va.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Messrs Rogers & Carroll, wholesale and retail grocers, commission Merchants, etc. These gentlemen are determined not to be behind in anything pertaining to their line of business, and the public can rest assured that they can be accommodated with the best goods at the most reasonable rates.

Sewer or Sewers—A Case of Supposed Dodging.

In the contract with the city for the franchise of the water works, it was agreed that the city should be allowed to flush out the sewers—or at least that's what the city thought the contract meant. But we understand the Water Company claims that the contract reads sewer and not sewers, and therefore was only meant to refer to the sewer on Fayetteville street!

It may be necessary, if this dodge is insisted upon, for the city to refuse any connection with its sewers except the one on Fayetteville street.

But we hope the day is near at hand when the city own and control its own water works, gas works and electric lights. Just so long as we yield to these private corporations, we may look for dodges, squeezes, jobbery, &c.

Raleigh Enterprise.

The VISITOR believes in Raleigh and in everything good that is attempted in Raleigh, it feels an interest and is glad to rejoice at the success of any man or enterprise large or small. Learning that the Real Estate Agency of Messrs J M Broughton & Co, was nearing the close of their first year's business our reporter called upon them and asked a few questions. Mr J M Broughton was found at his office hard at work answering letters from various sections, inquiring about real estate in this State. Our reporter was warmly greeted and his questions readily answered.

Mr Broughton, began the reporter, we want to know what you think of Raleigh as a place to begin a business. You know that there has been some little talk lately about a furniture factory, and an iron furnace, etc. Well, said Mr B, I don't know much about an iron mill, although I have been through the largest one in the United States, but I do know that Raleigh has advantages over many places where iron and steel are now made with great profit, and as to furniture, I am sure there is no better place for the manufacture of furniture in the land. We possess what many manufacturing places do not, a most delightful climate, winter and summer. Factories rarely ever shut down here for a day even on account of the cold. And then there is another thing that Raleigh possesses to a larger degree than she has been credited with. I refer to the disposition of our people generally to encourage and help along any enterprise or business that is worthy of it, and encouragement is worth very much to a beginner. When we started our Real Estate Agency one year ago, we could not have done much with large capital if we had possessed it, but we could not have done anything without sympathy and encouragement. We wish to say that we have received that from the very start. Of course there were those who did not believe we could succeed and were careful to say so, but they were few in number and inferior in quality.

Has your agency been appreciated by the people generally? Yes, we have had a steady growth of patronage from the start until now when one wishes to buy or rent, about the first thing he does is to make inquiry of us, and the chances are that he will go no further. Heretofore when one wanted to rent he had to start out for a day's hunt as you would for a lost cow, and as soon as the people found we could serve them so promptly, the custom changed quickly. Property owners too have found our Agency a great convenience to them as well as a saving of time and money and have gradually put their rent business in our hands until we have nearly 200 houses in hand. We shall do our best to get the remaining houses in our agency, for we could do better for all, both reuter and owner if we had charge of all the houses in the city.

Have you found sale for much city property the past year? You know the past year has been a bad one on real estate, still we have sold some property every month during the year, and in every case have given satisfaction to buyer and seller alike. Have you made the selling of country property a part of your work? Yes, but it has been slow business the past year; it is getting somewhat better now however, we have several letters the past few days from parties who wish to buy land in this State, and one of them wants twenty thousand acres. We shall find this land for the party if possible, and we think it is.

Do you regard a Real Estate Agency as a permanent business in Raleigh? Yes sir, the citizens of this good old town are a conservative people and change their customs slowly, but when they see a change is beneficial they are sure to stick to it. There has been a growing necessity for an agency of this kind in Raleigh for some years, though we did not realize it. We shall begin our second year of business today with assurances to the public that our business is a permanent institution in the city and with a determination to do our very best work for our patrons in the year before us.

Personal Mention.

Judge MacRae left yesterday for his home in Fayetteville.

Mr J S Wynne is confined to his home with sickness.

Mr Alex Hardie is still confined to his home on New Berne Avenue, with sickness.

Mrs Hilliard Bell is quite sick at her residence about two miles south of Raleigh.

Mr W Z Blake, street commissioner, is confined to his home with sickness.

Mrs G M Spence, we are glad to say, is reported to be decidedly better.

Mr T J Hubbard, who has had a severe attack of typhoid fever has entirely recovered and was on the streets this morning.

Rev Dr Thos E Skinner is well and on the streets again enjoying this fine weather.

Wm S Ball, Esq, of Greensboro, is in the city attending the Supreme court. He is one of the ablest lawyers in the State, and a forcible debater in a political campaign.

Colin Hawkins, Esq, is out again after having been confined at home for three weeks with sickness.

Good Shooting.

We are informed by Mr Frank B Lewis, that he killed 437 partridges between the 15th of last October and the 1st of April. This is a good showing.

Oxford Insane Asylum.

We are pleased to learn this institution is getting on finely in the matter of their new industry, the broom factory. Orders are coming in so fast that it is found almost impossible to fill them with the present force.

SPECIAL NOTICES.
