In and Around the City.

Cooler.
Pic nics all the rage.
Soon be time for school commencements.
No news of importance in any of the departments at the Capitol to-day.
The number of arrests for April were fifty-seven.
Fine lot of Alamance beeves on the market for sale this morning; some of them in very fine condition.
The State Board of Agriculture has adjourned to meet again on the 17th of June.
The death rate for the city during the month of April was six white and seven colored.
Hon G W Sanderlin will deliver the annual address at Salem Female Institute—and it will be a good one.
Subscribers to the Telephone Exchange, will please add to their list the State Chronicle, No. 13.

It is estimated that the new Mechanical building in connection with the Agricultural College will cost $7,500.

We return our sincere thanks to the ladies of the Governors Guard fair and festival, for a most delicious repast, of ice cream, cake, chicken salad, etc, sent to our office this afternoon. Thanks, ladies.

The amount contributed by the Baptists of North Carolina for Foreign missions during the conventional year ending April 30, 1890, was $8,421.72; this is $1,381.70 more than was contributed last year for same object. For Southern Baptist Convention, report of the Treasurer will show $108,900.70 for the past year, all debts and missionaries paid to date, leaving a balance in bank of $2,048.91.

Attention Odd Fellows.

There will be an important meeting of the Busbee Degree Staff this evening promptly at 8 o'clock, to finally decide as to proposed trip to Wilmington on May 13th, and for drill. It is highly important that this meeting be attended by every member, including those who are to go to Wilmington at that time as delegates, etc. By order of the Captain,
Chas. E. Haskitt,
Secretary.

Condition of Mr. Pierre Cox.

The latest information from this unfortunate young gentleman is, that the nurses think he is some better, but the surgeons still say "there is little, if any grounds for hope." The evidences are that he must have been assaulted. Before going out he dressed himself with great care, proceeding to the fair of an Episcopal church at which he was a regular attendant. He expected to meet some friends there, but whether he did or not is not known. He still remains unconscious.

Supreme Court.

The following cases were argued to-day.
John Hagins, vs. C. F. & Y. V. E. R., from Cumberland county, argued by Thos. H. Sutton for the Plaintiff, Geo. M. Rose for defendant.
Rose et al vs. Railroad Company, from Cumberland, Thos. H. Sutton for Plaintiff, Junius Davis and Geo. M. Rose for defendant.
D S Waitt's assignment stock of clothing, hats, underwear, etc, will be sold low for cash. Call early.
J S WYNNE, Assignee.

GRAND FISHING EXCURSION.

A party of our Business Gentlemen Propose to Take an Aquatic Trip Over the Raging Neuse—Extensive Preparations and a Splendid Time Looked For.

The merry month of May will be inaugurated in fine style by one of the most extensive private fishing excursions ever gotten up in this city, fixed up in a style heretofore unsurpassed in this section, with all the arrangements necessary to make up a short season of the utmost enjoyment. For some time this grand excursion has been in serious contemplation, and finally, desiring a rest from the cares of daily routine life, the scheme was fully mapped out in all its various details, and now, the consummation is near at hand. The usually placid billows of the Neuse was selected for the grand venture of the highland adventurers, and next Monday was selected for the start. On that day Messrs M A Parker, C F Harvey, E L Fleming, S H Crocker, D F Fort, N A Spence and N N Bunch, will leave the city on the morning freight train over the North Carolina Railroad. Preceding the aquatic adventurers will be a boat denominated the "Big 4" after a celebrated brand of tobacco which the firm of Messrs Parker & Harvey have succeeded so well in placing before the world in a most desirable light. The boat will be taken tomorrow on a wagon below Smith's Falls opposite Clayton on Neuse River. The party will embark on the bank below the railroad bridge near Selma. The destination of the party will be Village Creek, twenty miles below Kinston, where the fun in earnest will commence.

A full description of the preparations for this grand event will be almost impossible so varied are they in all respects.

The "Big 4," in which our adventurers will embark, is the handiwork and design of Mr N N Bunch, and is a perfect gem. It is four feet wide and twenty feet long. The propelling power consists of paddle wheels four and a half feet in diameter, turned by the process of cranks. The internal arrangements of the "Big 4," are most admirable in all respects. A nice oil cloth covering will protect the occupants from the sun and rain. Mattresses will be provided and everything looking to the comfort of the party has been secured. A first-rate supply of cooking utensils has been provided and enough bait to catch every fish between Raleigh and the ocean. The boat will be supplied with chairs and lounges, and the flag of our "grand and glorious Union" will float proudly from the front. A meeting recently held has selected as gallant, as competent and as jolly a crew as ever walked the plank of a man of war of this or any other country. Mark the selection: M A Parker, captain and general commander in chief; E L Fleming, first mate; C F Harvey, pilot. With such a crew, the winds may howl, the breakers may roar, but the "jolly tars" will see to it that "all is well."

The culinary arrangements of the occasion have been placed in the hands of Wm Smith, (colored), and we really feel sorry for him as the job he has undertaken will put his powers as a cook to the severest test. To clean, stew, or fry the thousands of the funny tribe that this party will doubtless succeed in bringing from the watery element to the face of old mother earth, will put the aforesaid William in a condition to apply for refuge in an infirmary for indigent colored individuals, if he ever succeeds in reaching Raleigh again. Just to think of it. Kegs of salt—mind you—kegs, not quarts, have been procured for the shad, to say nothing of the thousands of jack, chub, perch and myriads of other denizens of the deep that will be seized. The job for William is heavy—tremendous. He has our utmost sympathies.

The matter of complete system has not been overlooked, by our highland mariners, and they have arranged a regular schedule, which, with the aid of fair winds, they hope to successfully carry out. The "Big 4," will stop at Smithfield one hour, so that the denizens of the "State of Johnston," can see for themselves something of the energy that now prevails in the capital of the 'Old North State.' Proceeding from thence, a stop of an hour will be spent at Goldsboro, where it is expected that the party will be cordially received by the Mayor and Aldermen, as a fitting tribute to gallant merit and worth. Speeding on again the "Big 4" will halt at Seven Springs, where the party will spend the night drinking from the Sparkling waters that spout up so invitingly to human taste, (water being the only liquid allowed under the temporary by-laws and regulations of the crew.) White Hall will next be reached where an hours rest will be taken, thence to Kinston where the night will be spent.

Of the personnel of these gallant adventurers, it may be hardly necessary to speak, as they are all well known to most of our people. M A Parker and C F Harvey, as heretofore stated, constitute the firm of Parker & Harvey, and the extent of their business can be well imagined by the fame their brands have made. We recently saw six bills of lading for some of their shipments. E L Fleming is the junior partner of the firm of I N Proctor & Co, leaf tobacco dealers, well known throughout the State. N A Spence, Jr, is connected with the firm of Spence Bros as is also S H Crocker. D F Fort is well known to our community.

The people of Raleigh must not expect that an expedition so full of interest and so important in all its details, will go unnoticed in the press. The editor of the VISITOR has been the recipient of a kind invitation to attend, and will, providence permitting be along with his note book, so that the doings and sayings of each and every one connected with the "marine" display shall be placed prominently before our ever discriminating public. The whole matter is now presented, although in an imperfect style, and as the judge says to the jury the people may "take the case," and reflect over it. A rich treat is in store for those who participate, and we hope for all who may read about the adventures of the "Raleigh Sinbad's." One word more; we advise all who have an idea of fishing in Neuse River at any point above Selma, to suspend operations, at least for awhile. There will not be a scale left of any of the funny tribe below Smithfield, for many months after Monday next. Mark the prediction.

New Advertisements.

The question has been repeatedly asked if each head of the amphibious wonder at Whiting Bros', act, eat, think and sleep independently of each other. Close observation shows such to be a fact. They seem to have a good deal of humor about them from the tricks they play upon each other and they are also readily learning to eat. It is a wonder well worth seeing and hundreds of people have taken a look at it.

Personal Mention.

Dr P Babcock, has gone to Staunton, Va, where he will spend the summer.
Capt W S Harris, was taken suddenly ill day before yesterday. He has suffered very much, but we are glad to state he is better today.
Mrs L Branson, who has been visiting her son in Athens, Ga, returned to her home in this city yesterday morning, having enjoyed her visit very much.
Mr. Junius Davis, of Wilmington is in the city in attendance on the Supreme court.
J F Redford is confined to his room with sickness, supposed to be La Grippe—hope to see him out soon.

Speaking About Black Dress Goods.

We want to say just a word about it ourselves. In the first place we don't know how to pronounce all those long fancy French names for the nice goods we have, and if we were bad French scholars, we would prefer to use the English, it sounds better and more people would know what we were talking about. As to the styles and qualities we have in black goods; we say that we have as nice a line as any of them can show you, and we have English prices on them too. We think it is better to use English names for French goods than it is to use French names for American common goods; don't you? We are paying especial attention to our black goods now, and as a starter we have made some prices that can't be duplicated in French. We invite the ladies' everywhere to come and see our black goods for we are sure that we can suit you in quality, style, name and price. Don't understand me to say that we haven't got all these high French novelties. We have, but we haven't got anybody in our store that knows the French names. We can give you correct prices and that is what you want, ain't it? At SWINDELL'S
