Some thieves stole all the ducks belonging to Wm M Utley, Esq, Saturday night. Chicken thieves are getting very numerous in the city; but our people may rest assured that the vigilance of our police force will soon put a quietus upon them.

In conversation with Capt B P Williamson this morning he said that the rains of Saturday and Sunday were a great blessing to the crops generally, especially to the grass crop, in which many of our people are becoming interested. Grass and clover were suffering from the dry weather; now they look well and promise a fair crop.

At Edenton Street M E Church yesterday, three persons joined the church by certificate. Rev Mr Cordon preached on "prayer" to a small congregation on account of inclement weather, but he done ample justice to his subject. Dr B F Dixon, Superintendent of the Oxford Orphan Asylum preached a most interesting and remarkable sermon at night on the "Liberty wherewith Christ makes us free."

C D Upchurch, Esq, Clerk of Superior Court, of Wake county, went out with a fishing party to Clements' pond last Friday; they fished two days; they say Mr Upchurch caught two very small perch; in this number is not enumerated the number of two legged fish he caught. On this line he must have had excellent luck as they left the city early Friday morning and did not arrive at the pond until late in the afternoon. Such is life.

Pic Nic.

On last Saturday Miss Helena H. Horn er gave her Sunday School class a very enjoyable picnic at Carolina Vineyard. There were several invited guests present, and all expressed themselves as having had a delightful time.

Death of Mrs W A Graham.

We deeply regret to state that this most estimable lady died last Saturday night at the residence of her son in law, Judge Walter Clark, in this city.

Mrs Graham had attained the age of nearly seventy five years, and was the relict of North Carolina's great Statesman, Hon Wm A Graham. Her remains were taken to Hillsboro yesterday for interment.

Accident.

This morning about 11 o'clock a vicious cow got loose from a drove and made a fearful plunge down Fayetteville street. At the corner of Fayetteville and Martin streets she made for a crowd of gentlemen on the sidewalk causing a considerable panic. Dr R B. Ellis, in the effort to escape from the infuriated animal, attempted to descend the steps leading to the basement of Lee, Johnson & Co's drug store, and in so doing missed his footing and fell. He was badly hurt on his left side near the ribs causing much pain. He managed, however, to get home and at last accounts was doing well. Query. Should not such animals be kept off of our main thoroughfares as much as possible?

Memorial Day

We have heard it suggested, and we think with much propriety and force, that the observances incident to the 10th of May, be postponed from Saturday next to Monday the 13th. The reasons why, in our opinion, this change is desirable, arises from the fact that Saturday afternoon is the busiest of any time during the week, and if the ceremonies should take place then, it would fall far short of what should be expected in the number of persons present. Besides this, the merchants of Raleigh, generally would be unwilling to close their places of business at the time designated. We find that the change suggested meets with the universal sentiment of the business community here, and many of the farmers of the vicinity with whom we have conversed entertain the same views.

We hope those having the matter of arrangements in hand, will consider the suggestion in all its bearings. We are confident that the change is not only desirable, but most important to a proper observance of the day.

Fine Portraits.

Our friend, Mr John W Brown, undertaker and funeral director of this city, has received two pictures representing a cluster of photographic likenesses of leading funeral directors in different parts of the country. In all there are four hundred and ninety eight photographs, and they are as fine looking body of men as can be found anywhere. Among the number are only five from North Carolina. There are, our fellow citizen, John W Brown, Robt J Parker, High Point; Henry E Sheetz, Fayetteville; Frank H Vogler, Salem, and John M Harvey, Charlotte. The pictures (or clusters) are three by four feet, and make a very valuable addition to the already very pretty and somewhat extensive selection Mr Brown already has on hand. In fact, his portrait gallery is one of the interesting features of Raleigh, comprising, as it does, some of our most prominent citizens of bygone days.

Complimentary.

The Gazette, of this city, of which John H Williamson, colored, is the editor, has the following:

It is said by many of our readers that Mr L O Lougee is one of the most polite and courteous officers in the court house. And his demeanor and general liberality is so noted that he will prove a very acceptable candidate to the colored people of Wake, who are now more determined than ever to vote for good men regardless of party.

There are 50,000 of these hats, of all the new shapes, and we are offering the choice of them at 25c each. Now we really hope that there will not be any who are so blind to their interest as to neglect this opportunity. Lady, when you read this, make up your mind to see this lot of untrimmed hats and think if you have a friend who could be benefited by the knowledge of these hats. I hope you do not think this a catch penny advertisement. I hope you give us credit for having more sense than to put this in the papers if it was not true.
