NOTICE.

The proprietors of the VISITOR are always anxious and willing to accommodate their patrons as far as it can be done without detriment to the interests of the paper, or injustice to our friends. Our space is limited. and in order to make the columns at tractive, the matter should be as varied as possible. The numerous nominations for official preference, thus early in the campaigr, will prove too heavy on our columns for gratuitous insertion, and, hence, we feel under the necessity of adopting a scale of rates for the insertion of such cards, or communications. Hereafter a charge of twenty-five cents an inch (eight lines) or less, will be made for such insertions.

RALEIGH, JUNE 12, 1890.

The Rev. Thos. Dixon, Jr.

Yesterday was indeed an eventful day amid the classic shades of Wake Forest College, and one that will long be remembered. The crowning event of the occasion was the delivering of the annual commencement address by Rev. Thos. Dixon, Jr., of New York, formerly the beloved pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle Church in this city.

There was a tremendous crowd in attendance and the distinguished speaker was introduced by Governor Fowle in one of his happiest strains.

It is almost impossible to transmit to writing a full synopsis even of Mr. Dixon's grand effort, as it would fall far short of doing him justice. It abounded in oratory, research and deep investigation to a degree simply remarkable. A deep religious senti ment pervaded the entire address, and he emphatically announced that this sentiment of the people would pre vail at least in spite of monopolies and the money power of the land, or any other force that might be brought to bear against it. Mr. Dixon spoke earnestly and words flowed as if inspired from his lips by magic. The hearts of the entire audience seemed enchained and their eyes rested, riveted, as it were, upon the great orator. His pathos was occasionally so deep, that tears were forced in spite of all efforts to resist them. No such speech has ever been heard by our people, and it is the unanimous yerdict, as was said by the surging crowd, at Hanover Court House, Va., of Patrick Henry, when he spoke in the Parson's case, "he is an orator indeed." Those competent to judge assert that Mr. Dixon, as an orator has no superior in this country. A distinguished Justice of our Supreme Court who heard it says, that it was the best speech he ever heard in his life, and this appears to be the unanimous verdict on all sides.

It is a source of the utmost pride to every true North Carolinian that our State can boast of giving birth and rearing into manhood of a man so full of genius and the powers that go to make up true greatness. We are proud of him, and predict that he will in the future loom up as ore of the most distinguished divines and noted orators this country has ever produced. Indeed, his fame has already stretched far and wide, and he will ere long become a house hold word in all civilized lands.

Rough Behavior,

Correspondence EVENING VISITOR

In a church recently, a young man who evidently prides himself as being the possessor of some brains, and who would be highly incensed if accused of not being a gentleman, and of not knowing how to behave himself in church, amused himself almost the entire time during prayer and servic es in scribbling on the fly leaf of a book belonging to the church, seemingly perfectly oblivious to his surroundings, and exhibiting a contempt for the occasion, and the devotions of the people there assembled, that was simply astonishing. I would not harshly criticise such conduct, for it may be that they do not know any better and are more properly subjects of pity rather than censure. But I would say that if persons are not willing to observe proper decorum, and pay the respect that is due the occasion, the people and the preacher, it would be better for them not to go to church, and aside from bad manners they have no more moral or legal right to deface a book belonging to a church, than to go into a gentleman's library and deface his library books by scribbling on them.

Concerning Memory.

Memory is found in all healthy states of the brain, and consists of a revival in the mind of a past condition or act, says the New York Ledger. It is not enough that the original impression be renewed on the brain and comprehended; it must be registered, so as to produce a permanent modification of brain structure or action; otherwise it passes from the mind and can only be vaguely recalled. A good memory depends on various considerations; one is healthy brain structure, another is nutrition, and a third is training and culture.

The young remember more easily than the old. Their brains are active and there is an enormous amount of new, healthy blood coursing through them at a rapid rate, and nutrition is active. Fatigue is fatal to good memory-it is then that nutrition lan guishes-but rest restores a healthy condition, and then the power of memory comes back again. As old age comes on nutrition is less perfect, and the cells of the brain in which the memory takes place become filled up with debris of decay, become yellow and actually lose their organized structure, and are no longer capable of action.

Philadelphia Record.

On a par with the rule of an uptown manufacturer who will not allow the girls in his factory to wear laced shoes, as he claims they lose too much time tyi og the laces, is the rule of a street paving contractor who yesterday attempted to enforce an order prohibiting his workmen from smoking their pipes while at work. The contractor is James Fitch, who has the contract for paving over the trench of the Telephone Company along Market street.

About 11 o'clock on Tuesday morning Fitch informed the seven pavers and rammers workin under him that they most cease smoling their pipes. The men being Irish, and, of course, fond of a pull, objected to the order and wanted to know the reason thereof. They were told that hey lost too much time lighting their pipes, for every time they stopped to get a fresh light they also stopped to

The men instantly threw down their tools adjourned to the si ewalk, lit their pipes anew, and talked over the situation. In less than an hour they were told by Fitch that if they returned to work they would be permitted. But the men refused to return unless their wages were raised. The pavers had been getting $3.50 and the rammers $2.50 per day. The former asked for $4 and the latter for 2.75 per day. Their demands were refused. And the men then went on a strike.
