The Useful Rat.

Cornhill Magazine.
The postoffice was once saved considerable expense by the assistance of a rat. As most people know, the main telegraph wires in London run through the subways in which the gas pipes and sewers are placed. The principal arteries are so large that it is easy enough for men to work in them, but the pipes through which the side wires branch off are much smaller, and great care has to be taken to preserve the connection between the main and the lateral wires. Some years ago men were repairing one of these latter, and carelessly omitted to attach it to a leading line by which it could be drawn to its place when mended. The blunder seems likely to have serious consequences, for it was thought that the whole of the lateral pipe would have to be dug up in order to get at the broken wire. But one of the men came to the rescue with a happy thought, suggesting that a rat should be procured, and with a fine piece of wire attached to it sent through the pipe. This was done, but to the dismay of the workmen the new hand came to a stop after it had gone a few yards. The inventor of this idea was not yet, however, at the end of his resources, and by his advice a ferret was procured and started on the dilatory rat's track. There was a moment of suspense before it was settled whether the rat would show fight or run away, but this was soon ended by the paying out of the wire, and in a short time the latest edition to the staff of the post office appeared at the other end of the pipe. It was caught, the wire detached, and then it was set free in recognition of the service it had rendered. By means of the wire the telegraph line was secured and a long and laborious price of work saved.

The Crops in Halifax County.

The Roanoke News says: For several years past we have failed to make an average crop in this section. The outlook is glorious. The earth is bursting with a mighty trial of its fruitfulness, and if we mistake not the signs, the patient and laborious farmer will be rewarded for his waiting when the harvest comes. Seeds mistrusted and supposed to be worthless have brought forth their kind in abundance and thrift. Angry clouds that spilled destroying floods a year ago now dispel gentle showers that fructify. Grass no longer grows to annoy and call the husbandman with a score of plows and hoes to conquer, but comes with a gentle intimation that the use of these implements will encourage the objects of our care into greater thrift and early maturity. The peasant drives his team afield and grudges not his task nor the sweat of his brow when nature smiles with the promise of bounty upon his efforts.

Crops requiring rain have had enough to yield a fair harvest; those preferring a dryer soil smile at the warm sunshine, and rejoice because the mellow dew trickles over their spreading leaves to satisfy thirst but not to satiate, nor quench desire for more. All nature is aglow, and when the Autumn runs turns upon his winter course the scoured and smitten planter will once more raise his voice to heaven in praise for the returning smiles of Providence.

Ice Cellar!

We have opened an ice cellar under the Henry Building, opposite the post office, where our Mr R H Murphy will be pleased to give every one full value for their cash or tickets. This ice is made on large iron plates, then cut into blocks, and has no porous or soft parts. This process insures wonderful transparency, great density and freedom from air bubbles. It is more nearly like natural lake or river ice than can be made by any other process, but is more pure and more durable, as demonstrated by actual experiments, with both under the same conditions.
