

Charging for Knowing How.

American Furniture Gazette.
 "I paid a bill the other day," said a large manufacturer to me, "without a murmur, simply because of the way it was worded. My engineer found that his hot water pipe would not work, and after putting it for an hour sent for a machinist. He bothered with it half a day and concluded it must come apart. I was much annoyed, for that meant the stoppage of my factory for a long time. Before I gave the order to take it to pieces some one suggested that a neighboring engineer be sent for, as he was a sort of genius in the matter of machinery. He came, and after studying the pump awhile he took a hammer and gave three sharp raps over the valve. 'I reckon she'll go now,' he quietly said, and putting on steam 'she' did go. The next day I received a bill from him for $25.50. The price amazed me, but when I had examined the items I drew a check at once. The bill read this way:
 'Messrs Blank & Co., Dr. to John Smith For fixing pump, 50 cents. For knowing how $25.'

Had he charged me $25.50 for fixing the pump, I should have considered it exorbitant. But 50 cents was reasonable, and I recognized the value of knowledge, so I paid and said nothing.

[That man evidently knew as much about making bills, the Railway Review adds, as he did about fixing pumps.]

The Men Who Stay.

Young mechanics make a very egregious mistake, says the Builders' Gazette, when they begin to think that they do too much for their employers when they work a few moments overtime to complete a small task they are performing, just the time whistle blows to quit work. More young men have been kept from receiving an advance in their wages from this than from any known cause.

Employers watch the movement of young men very closely, and the least little thing often times places them in unfavorable light before their employers. It is the young man who studies the interest of his employer, and is not afraid to give him a few moments, that gets the rapid advancement. He is the young man selected when there are any favors to be granted.

I can tell in twenty minutes in any workshop the young man who is most likely to succeed in his trade. He is the last to leave his work, and is always prompt in beginning it. These fellows that drop their work at the moment the whistle blows, are always the ones that the employer is ready to discharge when business gets a little slack.

The young man who takes the interest of his work at heart, and his employer into consideration, is very rarely laid off in slack times.

Ice Cellar!

We have opened an ice cellar under the Henry Building, opposite the post office, where our Mr R H Murphy will be pleased to give every one full value for their cash or tickets. This ice is made on large iron plates, then cut into blocks, and has no porous or soft parts. This process insures wonderful transparency, great density and freedom from air bubbles. It is more nearly like natural lake or river ice than can be made by any other process, but is more pure and more durable, as demonstrated by actual experiments, with both under the same conditions.

Absolute Purity,
