

A Comparison.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY,

I'd rather lay out here among the trees, With the singing birds and the bum' bees, A knowing that I can do as I please, Than to live what folks call a life of ease Up thar in the city.

For I really don't 'xactly understand Where the comfort is fer any man In walkin' hot bricks an' usin' a fan, An' enjoyin' himself as he says he can, Up thar in the city.

It's kinder lonesome, mebbe you'll say A-livin' out here day after day In this kinder easy, careless way; But a hour out here is better'n a day Up thar in the city.

As fer that, jus' look at the flowers aroun', A peepin' their heads up all over the groun', An' the fruit a been' the trees 'way down. You don't find such things as these in town, Or, ruther, in the city.

As I said afore, such things as these, The flowers, the birds and the bum' bees, An' a-livin' out here among the trees, Where you can take your ease an' do as you please, Makes it better'n the city.

Now, all the talk don't 'mount to snuff 'Bout this kinder life a bein' rough. An' I'm sure it's plenty good enough, An' 'tween you an' me, 't ain't half as rough As livin' in the city.

Only a Mistake.

New York World

Little 3 year old Tom Gibson, of California, ought to make a good lawyer if he keeps on. One day not long ago his father said to him:

"Tom, get my slippers. They are under the bed."

Pretty soon Tom came back empty handed.

"Fader," said he, you told a big lie."

"How is that?" said his father.

"Well," replied Tom, "I looked under the bed, and no slippers there. No slippers there, fader."

"That wasn't a lie, my son," replied his father. "That was a mistake."

The slippers were found and the incident was forgotten until a few days afterward. Tom came running into the house with his lips betraying visible evidence that he had been eating.

"Tom," said his mother, "what have you been eating?"

"Nothing, mother," replied Tom.

"Why, Tom," said his mother, "there are crumbs all over your mouth. Don't you know you have told me a story?"

"No," replied Tom promptly, "that was a mistake."
