In and Around the City.

Cotton booming.
Everybody is coming to the Fair.
The Soldiers' Home is now about ready.

Democratic Rally at Stronach's warehouse tonight.

Our lath strings will be on the outside next week. We invite our brethren of the press, and visitors generally to give us a call. Glad to see you.

Registration closes on the afternoon of the 24th, inst. Remember this, and register in time. Unless you do, you cannot vote. Don't forget this.

The balloon ascension should be alone a sufficient inducement to come to the Fair. There will be no failure. The forfeit is up. Come and see it.

Remember the Fair is next week, and there will be a great many people in Raleigh. How do you expect to sell your goods unless you advertise, and there is no better medium than the VISITOR.

Rev. Thos. Dixon will deliver an address at the Weldon Fair, Oct. 30th. Subject—"The Moral Import of the Farmers Alliance." An excursion train will be run from Raleigh to Weldon returning the same day.

The young ladies of the Greensboro Female College will be in Raleigh for the next week. This announcement should be sufficient to induce every young man in the State to come to the Fair to see the Fair.

Look at our advertising columns and then say whether you think you can get along without printers' ink. Every one of our advertisers will bear testimony to the benefits of advertising; especially in the VISITOR.

The fast passenger train from Raleigh to Wilkesboro will soon be put on. It will leave Raleigh about 4 a. m. returning the same day. It will be a great convenience both in the way of pleasure and business.

Let the people of Raleigh extend a most cordial welcome to all who come next week. Our reputation is at stake. Let us show to the people of North Carolina that Raleigh knows how to extend the hand of welcome.

We invite attention to the advertisement of Messrs N. Deboys & Co., who announce that they are prepared to do the best and most artistic work in the bakery business. They make wedding cakes a specialty. There is no better establishment of the kind in the State. Call and see for yourselves.

We just wish that some of the braggers of the provincial towns could have stood on Fayetteville street today and seen the enormous quantity of cotton coming in. A long procession of wagons all loaded down with the staple. It would have made some of our provincial town residents change their countenance from a "broad grin" to a "quaker seriousness." Hurrah for Raleigh.

Col. L. L. Polk, President of the National Farmer's Alliance and Laborer's Union, leaves here on Sunday afternoon for Kansas to visit the State Alliance of that State. They are making arrangements for a sixty thousand audience at Topeka, Kansas, where he is to speak next Thursday. He is to speak twice in Missouri, three times in Illinois, and will attend the State Alliance of Illinois. He is also to speak at several other places while he is away. The Colonel is a most efficient worker and dearly loves the cause he has espoused.

Religious.

Rev. Father Francis, formerly of Greensboro, arrived in the city this morning. The Sacred Heart Rectory will be his future home where he will administer the duties of pastor for this Catholic Parish and adjoining Missions. Until further notice the services at the Church of the Sacred Heart will be at 7:30 o'clock a. m. during the week, and at the usual hours on Sundays.

A Valuable Catalogue.

We are glad to note that the new catalogue of the members of the Dialectic Society, University of North Carolina, 1795-1890, is now out. It contains one hundred and sixty nine pages full of the greatest interest. Among the contents are: Full page engraving of the Hall, sketches of the Societies History, by President Lewis, Hon. R. H. Battle, Dr. W. B. Phillips and E. P. Mangum; catalogue of all the members arranged by year of entrance, with brief facts about each member; rolls of the Confederate dead, of both Societies; alphabetical index of names, etc. Copies of the book can be obtained from the burser of the institution, Mr. W. T. Patterson, Chapel Hill.

Praise Service.

The interest in Prof. Wood's teaching and training in vocal music at the Baptist Tabernacle increases every night. There were about 200 present last night, and they expressed themselves as greatly delighted. The class meets again tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

On Sunday night Prof. Wood will conduct a praise Service in the audience room at which time the singing will be sustained by the whole class, led by a cornet, piano, organ and violin, the same as is used there every night.

Parents are at fault in not having their children take advantage of this extraordinary opportunity for being trained in vocal music.

Attractions at the State Fair.

The Japanese Village, a show of real merit, arrived yesterday morning in full force. The Japs are: M. Shidue, interpreter and bamboo worker; T. Tasaka, flower and lantern maker; R. Baska, Japanese embroiderer; K. Zamada, Japanese pottery worker; Stanton, juggler and equilibrist; Kamach, the only lady magician. There are 100,000 Japanese objects of interest. A special building has been erected 30x70 feet adjoining the main exhibition hall. The interior will be profusely decorated with 10,000 lanterns, fans, scrolls, mammoth umbrellas, dragons, &c. A continuous show will be given from 9 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. The admission will be 10c for everybody. Special rates to schools, etc. All ministers will receive complimentary tickets by addressing, E. Mozart, manager Japanese Village.

This is no side show, but from parties who have seen it, say it is an exact representation of a Japanese village in Japan, including a performance of high merit. They have also with them and will be on exhibition a genuine Japanese poodle, five years old, weighing six pounds and valued at $5,000, said to be the only dog of its breed ever allowed to leave Japan by the Mikado. This show is one of real merit and will be one of the most interesting features of the State fair. We hope all will see it.

Citizens, visitors, and in fact, the whole State if desired can visit old man Schwartz and see for themselves the splendid supply of beef, pork, mutton and everything else in the meat line, he is offering to the public. It is a rare treat to see the old man's delicacies, which are unsurpassed, not only in Raleigh but in the South. Call at the great emporium of "good living." oct10w

We are pleased to greet in the city our good friend, Mr. Theo. N. Ramsay, of Norfolk, Va. He looks as well as we ever saw him.

From Sire to Son.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean gives the following plot of Milton Nobles great play:

That Mr. Milton Nobles is a man of more than ordinary versatile talents has long been conceded. For several years he has enjoyed popularity in eccentric comedy dramas of his own writing, and has shown a disposition to improve the quality of the work, both as player and writer. He has reached a plane, in his last play, "From Sire to Son," that must entitle him to more respect than many of its casual critics have seen fit to accord him in the past. This play is not only the best work of the author, but it is work of a quality to indicate yet greater possibilities with this particularly ambitious dramatist. Mr. Nobles is a clever man and a thoroughly experienced actor, and what effects and incidents are in themselves absurd have been given ingeniously a logical and consistent seeming. The play is very skillfully constructed, and in the treatment there is an air of probability given to the most incredible conditions and combination of events. Moreover, the story is interesting, has novelty, and is relieved by an agreeable sort of comedy that arises naturally and easily out of the scenes and as a cognate part of the whole. Nothing is deliberately dragged in for the mere purpose of providing a comic episode. The whole play, whatever its other defects, is homogeneous, complete, harmonious. It is enough to know that the plot is based on a murder, followed by the usurpation of property and family relations by the murderer, who is, of course, the villain of the play. Mr. Nobles has treated this act unquely, and, generally, in a very clever manner. The first act occurs in a mining town in California, and is romantically conducted. We see nothing of the conventional types of the familiar Western play, and it may be objected that the author has given too much refinement and "gift of speech" to several of his characters; but that is a small matter compared with the daring originality of having all the characters, including the sheriff, meet in Venice four months later in regulation evening toilet. This is done for a dramatic purpose, however, and the purpose is well met. The audience very enthusiastically commended the play, and we believe Mr. Nobles has in his last play a valuable piece of property. The company is superior to any Mr. Nobles has ever before had surrounding him.

Sensational Shooting.

Morning Star.
BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 6.—Edward J. Martin, a prominent business man of this city, was—shot perhaps fatally—today by a woman calling herself Mrs. Clarence O. Martin. She asserts that Clarence Martin married her in Texas, several years ago. She has been following him, and was here a few months since, when Edward Martin paid her to leave the city. She returned today and made some demands upon Edward, which he refused and she drew a revolver and shot him. The woman is in jail here and refuses to make any statement. She was formerly Miss Julia Powers, of Macon, Ga.

A white man from a western county was placed in the penitentiary Thursday, for a term of two years, for disturbing religious services. One Sunday while the minister was preaching, a man with a bottle of whiskey in hand walked up to the pulpit and lunging forward, stuck the bottle in the parson's face and in a most earnest, hic coughing way asked the good man if he wouldn't take a drink. His defense was that he was so very deeply impressed with the minister's preaching, that he wanted to do something to show his appreciation.—Concord Standard.

Clothing and Dress Goods.

In these two special lines we defy any of our competitors to successfully compete with us. We know that we can show you as complete lines of clothing and dress goods as any house in North Carolina, and we know that no house in North Carolina can sell you these goods as cheap as we can. We never fail to sell a customer, who is a good judge of the goods wanted. He or she sees in a few minutes that we are offering the goods for less money than any one else has offered them. We are receiving today the balance of our purchase at the sale which we attended last week. Some of the most beautiful overcoats and pants you or I ever saw. See the new carpets at SWINDELL'S.

In order to test the comparative merits of the various newspaper advertising mediums, and at the same time benefit the readers thereof, we shall consider this advertisement for one dollar in payment toward purchase of $20 or more worth of goods, if cut out and presented at time of purchase either in person or by mail.
