Where did they all sleep?
The circus bills are up.
Yesterday was a slusher.
Beautiful weather again.
Did you ever see such a crowd?
They aint all gone by a great deal.
Did you ever see the like of spoiled dresses and bonnets?
The Marshal's ball takes place to night in Henry Hall.
There never was such a time as yesterday.

Tomorrow will be sale day at the fair.

The county canvass was resumed to day at Apex.

We will look like a deserted village tomorrow.

Politicians too busy to visit the fair this year.

The hack drivers reaped a harvest yesterday.

Circus bills are being put up and the boys are happy.

The advance agent of the circus is here. We will tell you all about it in the VISITOR soon.

The receipts from the Confederate concert last Wednesday night were $314.60.

And now the talk is for a grand exposition in 1891. Let us have it by all means.

The gate receipts at the fair grounds yesterday must have been enormous.

The exhibit made by the Agricultural and Mechanical College at the fair, is attracting much attention.

The young ladies of the Greensboro Female Seminary, attracted much attention at the fair grounds yesterday.

S. M. Parish, left yesterday afternoon for Greensboro, N. C., to meet the chairmen of the National and State Prohibition Executive Committees.

Is there no one can unravel this Depot mystery? There is something wrong about the matter, if it could be found out.

Owing to the absence of some of our composers, and our inability to procure substitutes on account of the fair, the VISITOR is somewhat short of reading matter today.

Would it not be well for the Governor to order an extra term of the Superior Court for the trial of such persons as are now in jail. This seems to meet the public idea. All men should have as speedy a trial as possible.

A very large audience attended Metropolitan Hall last night to witness "Farce and Pantomme" for the benefit of the poor. The programme was rendered in a most effective manner.

Funeral.

The funeral services of the late Miss Susan Helen Litchford took place from the First Baptist church yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. Dr. J. W. Carter, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. S. Watkins and Rev. Thos. E. Skinner. The pallbearers were: Messrs. C. B. Root, J. R. Williams, G. M. Allen, Jos. G. Brown, Andrew J. Jones, P. C. Ennis and T. H. Briggs.

The attendants were Mr. Charles Holloway and Miss Lola N. Howle, Mr. Furman Betts and Miss Maggie Brewster. The occasion was a very pleasant one; quite a large number of the friends of the family were present to witness the ceremony which was proof of the high esteem in which the young couple were held and their popularity. THE FAIR.

Immense Attendance yesterday notwithstanding the violent weather.

It is a current remark that never have so many people been seen on the fair grounds in any one day, as there was yesterday. They were literally packed with all ages and conditions of life. The day so far as the weather was concerned was a terrible one, with but little interval rain prevailed all day and late in the afternoon it came down in torrents. The scene at the Hargett Street Railroad station from 8 o'clock in the morning until about noon, beggars description. Men, women and children stood taking in the drenching rain, for fully two hours, before any trains came to take them to the grounds. Just how this seeming neglect was caused, no one knows, but it was the cause of considerable indignation. The rush on the cars was tremendous, and it was almost at the risk of life that they could be boarded. The scene on the fair grounds was in some respects grand, but in others, it was ludicrous. Ladies gayly attired in silks and velvets went splashing through the mud, and many a gown and bonnet were totally ruined. The climax came about 5 o'clock p. m., when the rain commenced to pour down in torrents, and then there was a grand rush for the city by every available mode of conveyance.—The trains could not begin to convey them all, and the hackmen had a "daisy" time. They were lords of the situation and the man, woman or child who would win their services, had not only to plank down the money, but do some right smart begging. The road between the grounds and the city, was simply awful, resulting in the stalling of several vehicles. Nobody, however, got out of humor and the ladies especially, with the patience characteristic of their sex bore up with remarkable patience; the young girls specially seemed to look upon the whole affair as a good joke, perhaps not exactly realizing that Pa's purse would suffer some for repairs. After the rush to the city, there was a corresponding rush for the several departing trains, and thousands took their leave for home. It was a grand juicy, day, long to be remembered in the annals of Raleigh. Not an accident occurred to mar the occasion, although at one time, the jam was so great in Floral Hall that it was impossible to move either forward or backward. And just here, we would make a suggestion for future guidance. It should be so arranged that persons should go up one side and down the other. This course, is adopted on all such similar occasions, in the north and works well. It was adopted at the Centennial in Philadelphia, and all went like clock work. Yesterday was a gala day for Raleigh, and will long be remembered.

At The Last Day

of the fair we are as busy as at the first. Thursday was umbrella and rubber coat day with us. We sold about 500 umbrellas and could have sold many more if we had them. We will have another stock early next week. Taken as a whole the fair has been a big success for us. We have probably sold more goods this week than we ever sold in the same length of time, and then besides selling so many goods the fair has benefited us greatly by bringing so many people from afar to the city, thus enabling us to become more thoroughly known through the State as a majority of those who visited the city undoubtedly came to see us. Our prices seemed to strike every one as being extremely low. We had compliments bestowed to our hearts content and if selling the very best goods for less money than others will win for us these encomiums of praise we shall be sure to have them for we will sell goods for less money than others do; it pays us to do it and it pays you to buy of us. We use our best endeavors to please you and we invite you to come and trade with us at SWINDELL'S.

In order to test the comparative merits of the various newspaper advertising mediums, and at the same time benefit the readers thereof, we shall consider this advertisement for one dollar in payment toward purchase of $20 or more worth of goods, if cut out and presented at time of purchase either in person or by mail.
