LARGEST CITY CIRCULATION.

In and Around the City.

Agony over.
Now for business.
The election is over.
Not quite one half of the candidates were elected yesterday.
Special services at the Christian Church tonight at 7:30.
The Deep River Christian Conference meets tomorrow at Staley, N. C.
Now for the cotton and the tobacco. The election is over and prices are good, for which we are thankful.
A wood famine seems impending. There is very little to be found in the yards of any of the dealers. This should not be thus early in the season.
The country friends were so much engaged with election matters yesterday they failed to bring anything to market, and we had to make out as best we could for something to eat.
The Covenant Building and Loan Association will hold a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the office of Mr. C. M. Busbee.

It is now conceded that in Wake the entire Democratic and County ticket is elected. In our tabular statement we have only given the vote as between the county officials, which more nearly shows the basis of the strength of the two parties.

Barnum & Bailey never had so many wonderful new attractions before as they have this year in their Greatest Show on Earth. The show is larger, better and grander than ever, and contains a myriad of new and startling features never before seen. It will exhibit here on November 6th, and the big parade takes place in the morning at nine o'clock, with two performances (afternoon and evening).

The Very Latest.

The latest returns from Johnston county are that Pou for Solicitor, received 2,300 majority and Bunn for Congress 2,100.

Williams is elected in the fifth district and Cowles in the eighth district.

Warren county elects one democratic member of the Legislature.

A democratic gain of 400 in Weldon.

The unofficial added to the official statements received up to 3:30 o'clock this afternoon make the majority of Thompson over Upchurch for Clerk of the Superior Court 483.

Serious Occurrence.

We are informed by Mr. E. P. Wiggs, who resides near Wakefield, that quite a serious occurrence took place at his home yesterday afternoon. It seems that Mr. Charles Smith one of the parties in the suit that occupied some time of the court here, recently, went to the house of Mr. Wiggs at the time noted, in a carriage, driven by a negro named Rufus Montague, employed at a livery stable in this city. They went to Mr. Wiggs' door, and after being forbidden to do so, made their way by force to the room occupied by Mr. Larkin Smith, where they took that gentleman, against his earnest remonstrances, and in spite of all his efforts, and placed him in the carriage, Mrs. Wiggs protesting against it. Mrs. A. L. Ferrell, of this city, a daughter of Mr. Smith, was present, being on a visit to her father, and while at the carriage, her parent clinging to her, Mr. Charles Smith ordered the vehicle to be driven off and Mrs. Ferrell was run over damaging her considerably. It was an occurrence much to be regretted.

Hi. Henry's Minstrels.

Lovers of unobjectionable amusement, and All who enjoy a hearty laugh, Will have their fondest wishes gratified At Metropolitan Hall on Friday November 7th.
When the Famous Hi. Henry's Minstrels, Will appear in an entirely new programme, Embracing all the salient points of Minstrelsy. The wide spread reputation of this company, And their long list of Celebrated Stars, And their low prices of admission Is an inducement for the patronage of all who enjoy, An evening of Minstrelsy. Tickets now on sale at MacRae's drug store.
Herald, Athens, O., October 11th, 1890, says Hi. Henry's Minstrels played at the city hall Tuesday evening to a packed house. It is only making a just recognition of merit to say that the program was full of interesting features. The novel and rich costumes and the singular freedom of the whole performance from the vulgarities that usually enter into such shows are points worthy of special merit.

Drawing the Line on Color.

The World.

Miss Florida L. Lee Verney, daughter of a wealthy Savannah cotton broker, and Miss Maude Cheeny, daughter of the Collector of the Port of Galveston, Tex., both colored, were admitted last Fall as students to the New England Conservatory of Music in this city. Some of the other students objected to eating, reciting and associating with the young ladies, and now the Executive Board of the Conservatory do not know whether to send them away or take the chance of losing a large number of their wealthy white patrons.

The New York Star under the head of "Financial Points," says. It is no doubt true that England is in an uncomfortable position. The drop in the price of silver, the increased protection given in this country to domestic manufacturers, the South American troubles and the scattering of London's capital by speculative investments may threaten the development of a crisis abroad. Probably this is why England is today selling to this country stocks and bonds at a big discount from the price paid for them to America some time ago.

Railroad managers are nearly unanimous in ascribing the chief cause of the steady decrease in earnings to the obstacles interposed by the Interstate Commerce Law, of making poolings arrangements. So unanimous is this testimony that the matter will probably be brought to the attention of Congress.

Six million dollars went into the big Government building at Chicago. Now the building is going down into the mudhole over which it was erected. It is to be hoped that a similar fate will not overtake the World's Fair, part of which is to be built upon the filled in land of Lake Michigan. At any rate, this should be a warning to the Government not to put any more money into the Fair. If the millions that Chicago is beginning to ask from the Federal Treasury are granted, they will go into a deeper hole than the big Government building is falling into.

What they say of us.

Mr. T. C. Williams become one of the proprietors of the Raleigh Evening Visitor, A. L. Ferrell retired. The Visitor is a sprightly little sheet and we hope that it may continue to be a winner.—Durham Globe.

Selling a Negro.

Charlotte News.

Esq. S. H. Hilton is in the slave trading business in a small way, and just to put an edge on Elliott F. Shephard's appetite for breakfast, we make the announcement that on last Saturday Esq. Hilton sold a negro for $130. That isn't anything like war time prices, but it is enough to make the pious Elliott snort.

It came about in this way: Esq. Hilton is superintendent of the chain gang. About three months ago a negro named Thos. Caldwell came into his care under a sixteen months sentence. Thomas had been working for Mr. W. Holmes Hardin, of Chester, S. C., and left his wife there. Mr. Hardin thought a great deal of Thomas, and when he heard that he was in trouble here, he made up his mind to rescue him. He came on here and made a trade which secured Thomas' freedom. He bargained to give Esq. Hilton $100 for Thomas' unexpired 13 months, and further agreed to board and clothe Thomas and his wife and pay them $8 per month for the 13 months. So he got Thomas and the county got $130. That's how the negro was sold, and it was a satisfactory trade all around.

The bicyclists of London, England, are just now bestowing special honors, in a convivial way, upon a stalwart young Russian who has ridden on his wheel from St. Petersburg to London, a distance of over 2,000 miles in a little less than thirty two days. This is an average of about seventy miles a day, including two detentions to participate in banquets extended to him on his route, one in Russia and one in France. We think the roads must be good in those countries.

Mississippi's new Constitution, adopted by the late Constitutional Convention which closed its labors on the evening of the 1st, requires an educational qualification to entitle a citizen of that State to vote.

The Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church were by special invitation at the White House on the 1st instant, and were received in the east room by the President and his wife.
