

My Husband and I.

ANNA HAMILTON.

When the sun is dipping his crimson brow
In the waves of the western sea,
I know my darling is leaving the plow
For the little home neat and me—
And his tea.

I know he is footsore and weary,
For he's toiled all the long summer day;
But I'll greet him with kisses so cheery,
'Twill drive all his cares away,
And he'll say:

"Sweetheart, I do not mind working
From dawn till the night doth come,
For e'er in my thoughts are lurking
Sweet visions of wife and home.
Wife and home,

"Where a loving welcome doth wait
me,
And a dainty and wholesome tea;
With joy to invigorate me,
For an evening of music and glee;
For you see,

"Our evenings are little oases—
Fountains of love and delight—
Whose sprays bear away all traces
Of sadness and gloom from our sight—
From our sight."

Then may naught our hearts e'er
sever
As through life's journey we tread;
And may it e'er be our endeavor
Our labors with love to blend
To the end.
—The Old Homestead.

TIED TO A TREE AND WHIPPED.

Ex-Mayor Pritchard, of Windsor, N. C., Mercilessly Flogged.

A telegram to the Herald from Windsor, N. C., says: A. J. Pritchard, ex-mayor of Windsor, was found this morning stripped and tied to a tree, about two miles from here. He was in an unconscious condition from a terrible whipping he had received. His body was raw and bleeding from his neck clear to his feet, and his assailants had shaved one side of his head and face.

Mr. Pritchard says that on his way to his farm this morning he met three unknown men. One of them walked up behind him and struck him with something and knocked him down, and when he recovered consciousness he was stripped of all his clothes and tied to a tree. The men took turns at the whipping. He swooned away under the terrible ordeal and didn't recover consciousness until brought to town. Mr. Pritchard while mayor was very hard on offenders brought before him, and it is thought that some parties whom he had punished had thus taken vengeance upon him.

Killed by a Kiss.

Exchange.

The snow came down like a fine gauze. The people flitted by the Coroner's office windows with collars turned up and heads bowed to the storm.

"This weather reminds me," said Jenkins to the group about him, "of such a day about two years ago. I was requested to investigate a case of sudden death. I had often heard of persons dying of fright, but I was not prepared to believe it. Upon being conducted into the parlor I was informed by the owner, a well known merchant, that his daughter had died under peculiar circumstances. She had arisen apparently in good health and high spirits. While she was seated at the table talking with her mother, her brother, who was about to leave for business, came up behind her stealthily and kissed her full in the mouth before she was aware who it was. The girl screamed, sank back in a dead faint and when she was brought to went in convulsions and died before medical attendance could arrive. The whole family were of a highly nervous temperament, very excitable and subject to hysteria. The autopsy showed that the girl had been perfectly healthy. Death was undoubtedly due to a very nervous shock."

Castoria

For Infants and Children.
Castoria promotes Digestion, and overcomes Flatulency, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, and Feverishness. Thus the child is rendered healthy and its sleep natural. Castoria contains no Morphine or other narcotic property.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 South Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"I use Castoria in my practice, and find it specially adapted to affections of children." ALEX. ROBERTSON, M. D., 1057 2d Ave., New York.

"From personal knowledge and observation I can say that Castoria is an excellent medicine for children, acting as a laxative and relieving the pent up bowels and general system very much. Many mothers have told me of its excellent effect upon their children." Dr. G. C. OSOON, Lowell, Mass.
