LARGEST CITY CIRCULATION.

RALEIGH, JANUARY 7, 1891.

M. A. DAUPHIN, for a number of years the president of the Louisiana lottery, is dead. It would seem that he had lived his day, and had died only after this gigantic robbery scheme had been squelched by the government. Half the earnings of a million of men have gone into the pockets of this and other officers never to be returned.

A DANGEROUS FAC-SIMILE.

A dangerous $2 counterfeit bill is in circulation. It is of the issue under the act of August 4, 1836, and the signatures of W. S. Rosecrans, register of the treasury, and Jas. W. Hyatt, treasurer of the United States, are written on it. It is not easily detected, and is said to have deceived experts. In the word "United" the letters "i" and "t" extend a little below the others, and the hair and moustache of Gen. Hancock's portrait do not appear so smoothly brushed as in the genuine.

Merchants are warned to be on the lookout for the spurious currency.

Expecting Christ's Coming Soon

Iowa Gazette.

The Second Adventists, Sanctificationists, and Faith Cure believers, who have been holding a State Convention at Bluffton, Ohio, spent last Sunday in discussing the "Personal and premillennial coming of Christ." This topic developed the fact that the greater part of the believers expect the speedy coming of the Lord. Some of the speakers argued and quoted the Scriptures to prove that everything indicated that the end of all things earthly was at hand. "The year 1891," said one of the delegates, "will witness the overthrow of all worldly kingdoms and principalities, and the establishment of Christ's reign upon the earth. The hour of his coming is at hand, and blessed are they who are prepared." The convention adjourned New Year's morning, after an all night meeting.

Wherein Lies Its Strength.

Iowa Times.

The Alliance movement in the interest of public reform is not wholly the result of great financial troubles among the laboring classes, as that condition has existed for many years, says the National Economist; but is more largely due to an intellectual awakening on the part of the people generally, especially those who labor in any kind of production. They have been reading, studying and thinking during these later years and have learned the lesson of true government, that the will of the people should be the law of the land, and the law of the land should be an abiding blessing to the people. Having once learned this lesson, to act upon its teachings were but the promptings of an honest manhood. The Alliance has simply taught men their duty, and relied upon the discharge of this duty through the ever present monitor of a warning conscience, and the full knowledge that the average American citizen can be depended upon to perform his duty when properly understood. Herein lies the strength of the Alliance movement, and herein lies the secret of its grand success.

Practical Hints to Housekeepers.

Turpentine and black varnish is the blacking used by hardware dealers for protecting stoves from rust. If put on properly it will last through the season.

The best way when hot grease has been spilled on the floor is to dash cold water over it, so as to harden it quickly and prevent it striking into the boards.

Don't forget to have a few beans of coffee handy, for this serves as a deodorizer if burnt on coals or paper. Bits of charcoal placed around are useful in absorbing gases and other impurities.

Keep your jelly in a cool, dry closet. Either write the name of the variety of the jelly on a neat little slip of white paper, and paste this on the side of the glass, or write in the center of the covers before pasting them on.

A pretty way of serving eggs for tea is this: Cut bread in nice square pieces and toast. Take eggs out of the shell, keeping yolks whole. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, lay the beaten white around nicely on the toast, drop yolks in centre of white ring, salt and put in hot oven to bake a few minutes. When you take them out of the oven, pour a little melted butter on toast.

Drowned in a Luthia Spring.

FARMVILLE, Va., January 3.—The venerable Mr. Wildman met with an awful death today near his home at Rice's Depot by drowning in the noted Luthia spring on the "Witt place." He was about eighty years of age, and in stopping, to dip water from the spring fell headlong into the basin, where he remained from the time of the sad happening—3 o'clock—until 5:30, when he was discovered by a negro farm hand.

A Peter town Wedding.

Drakes Magazine.

Miss Maggie Peters (the bride).—Dear me! I'm all of a tingle I'm so excited! It'd be a good joke if I fainted plum away! How does my dress hang in the back? Pull out my trail! It's the first time I ever wore one and I'll bet it'll be the last! My! how my heart keeps going flippity-flop, floppity-flip all the time! If Jim is scared as I am we'll act like too geese when we stand up! Has he come yet? Lordy! how tight my gloves are! How do I look anyhow? I'm too near scared to death to act decent! Who all is down stairs? I should think all creation was there from the noise they make. Only five minutes until we must go down! If I should tumble over in a faint! Tell Jim to come on! I'm ready.

Mr. Jim Beau (the bridegroom).—Golly, Mag, you look prettier'n a red wagon! My oh! how fine we are! Mag.—Shut up, you skeezicks!

Jim.—I wont! I've a notion to kiss you, you look so sweet.

Mag.—You sha'n't do anything of the sort and muss my hair and veil all up—you big grump! My! I'm most scared to death!

Jim.—What you scared of?

Mag.—Oh! I hate so to go down 'fore ev'ry body an' hav'em all gawping at us.

Jim.—Pugh! Much I care for their gawping! I'm too all-fired happy to care for anything! I feel like standing on my head and yelling "glory!"

Mag.—Oh, you dunce! There! The clock's striking eight. We must go down. Tee hee hee! Stopsqueezing my hand so, Jim! You'll bust these awful tight gloves. I'm so scared! Hee, hee, hee!
