

In Memory

Of little Effie Dean Huggins, who died in this city November, 3d, 1887.

One lonely night, not long ago, While I sat near an open door, I raised my head toward the sky And thought how easy man could die.

O, how dark! How sad was that night! When cold death turned out the light— The brightest light that ever shone In a workingman's humble home.

Blessed Saviour, thou art so kind, To remember us at a time When our hearts are made sad with grief, From which there is a sweet relief.

It was Jesus who came that night To show us by His word the light That has ceased to shine in our home; But is shining now around His throne.

Come, my dear father and mother, Come, little sister and brother, And let us give our hearts to Christ, Who lives and reigns in Paradise.

How $100 Grew.

"Some years ago a man entered the Boatmen's Savings Bank on Second street, in St. Louis, with a somewhat diffident air and looked inquiringly about him, as one not quite positive of his bearings.

"There used to be a bank here in the old times," he said, "called the Boatmen's Savings Institution. I suppose it is dead long ago; this bank of course has nothing to do with it."

"It is the same bank," replied the cashier, "only the name is a little changed."

"Ah!" exclaimed the stranger with surprise. "Well, when the old institution started, I was one of the first depositors, but I only put in $100. I reckon after so many ups and downs, that I must have been wiped out long ago?"

"Who are you?" the cashier asked. "My name is Jeffries —"

"Thomas Jeffries?" cried the cashier. "Yes, they called me Tom, then."

"Where have you been, Mr. Jeffries, these long years, and why haven't you written us?"

"In California; and of course I thought the $100 was a dead duck, and it's only your sign that called me in now."

"Well, Mr. Jeffries, if you have been idle," said the cashier, taking down and opening a great folio, "your hundred dollars has not; here it is. Your check on this bank today is good for $7,875. You have only to get some one to prove your identity and we will pay it over."

The tariff is off of sugar now and in a few days the price will be greatly reduced. Some people are claiming that granulated sugar will go to four cents per pound, but that is too low. It will be about 8 1/2 cents per pound probably.

"I use Castoria in my practice, and find it specially adapted to affections of children." ALEX. ROBERTSON, M. D., 1057 2d Ave., New York.

"From personal knowledge and observation I can say that Castoria is an excellent medicine for children, acting as a laxative and relieving the pent up bowels and general system, very much. Many mothers have told me of its excellent effect upon their children." Dr. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

THE SECRET OF OUR SUCCESS.

$1,000 Reward--a Humbug!

WE CLAIM that a combination of local and constitutional treatment is necessary to thoroughly eradicate Catarrh. Exclusively local applications, if made when the trouble first begins, sometimes cure, but more frequently drive the disease to other parts of the system, where it develops in a far more serious form.

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

Past Failures Need not Discourage You.

In Support of Our Claims,

We offer the testimony of those who have tried Certain Catarrh Cure to their entire satisfaction. "An ounce of experience is worth a pound of theory." Our endorsers are well known persons, who are alive and can be found.

DON'T BE DECEIVED by the offer of a large reward in case some medicine fails to cure you. If the reward is claimed, there is always some way to evade its payment; if never claimed, it is no evidence that everybody, or anybody, has been cured; but it speaks well for the intelligence of our people, that no one is fool enough to expect its payment.

We are disposed to give the public every protection possible against the imposition of scheming frauds or worthless nostrums, but NO DEPENDENCE CAN BE PLACED IN GUARANTEES. If Congress will pass a law by which all medicines are subjected to a thorough test, and their merits—in the diseases which they claim to cure—are fully established before they can be offered for sale, we will heartily favor it.

Certain Catarrh Cure is mentioned so favorably, by our customers that we have great confidence in its merits.—Alexander Drug and Seed Co., Augusta, Ga.

Its Harmlessness.

Makes it entirely safe to try Certain Catarrh Cure for any trouble, without the slightest fear of injury. It is a purely vegetable preparation, and to the most delicate constitution, or organ of the body, can produce no bad effect whatever.

REMEMBER!

Certain Catarrh Cure is not simply a snuff or local application, to drive the disease from the nasal organs into the system; nor a blood remedy, to tone up the system and leave the nasal parts uncured; but it is a combination of both methods, and the only remedy which will give satisfaction in the many different stages of catarrh.
