THE BEST THING IN THE UNITED STATES FOR

ONE CENT RECORD is the Philadelphia. $4 per year, daily. $3 per year, omitting Sundays. For the Farmer and the business man the Record has no equal.

An electrician who had long experience in the care of central station plants recently spoke of the difference between continuous and alternating current shocks in the following terms: "Without going into the fiercely debated question of direct vs. alternating currents, I would call attention to one fact. With high tension continuous currents I have seen linemen, when repairing lines or connecting circuits, handle an arc circuit of perhaps 2,000 volts when they should hardly touch it. By taking a quick hold and keeping it they could make a connection while really in a position of great danger, since a ground coming on the line elsewhere would surely kill or injure them, although they would not believe this, since they could only feel the current at the moment of taking hold or letting go. With the alternating current, however, the effect is constant and so intensely disagreeable that a very slight leak indeed will discourage anyone from running the least risk on live circuits. I may mention, in connection with this, that as far as my experience goes (and I believe some of the learned doctors agree with me), the action of a heavy shock of alternating current is to force the diaphragm up into the chest, compressing the lungs and literally squeezing the breath out of one, causing the cry which seems peculiar to those caught in this way. In such cases, if the person thus shocked is stunned, dash cold water on the face and chest, loosen the clothing, especially at the neck, and use artificial respiration as for the drowned. One of our linemen who was badly shocked was brought round by this means, after being to all intents and purpose dead for nearly ten minutes, no breath or pulse being discernible."

That's What.

Exchange. A drunken man can fall out of a top story window, and not get killed. That's luck. Tennyson can take a worthless sheet of paper, and by writing a poem on it, make it worth sixty five thousand dollars. That's genius. Vanderbilt can write a few words on a sheet of paper and make it worth five million dollars. That's capital. The United States can take an ounce and a quarter of gold, and stamp upon it an "eagle bird," and make it worth twenty dollars. That's money. A mechanic can take material worth five dollars, and make it into a watch worth one hundred dollars. That's skill. A lady can purchase a very comfortable bonnet for three dollars and seventy five cents, but she prefers one that costs twenty seven dollars. That's foolishness. A merchant can take an article worth seventy five cents, and sell it for two dollars. That robbery.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING.

It is wonderful the number of people there are in the world who may be, and are, victimized by listening to propositions so unreasonable that any man of ordinary judgment ought to detect the fallacy at a glance; and yet because of the large gain promised, they "bite." It is the innate gambling spirit that is interwoven in human nature some how, that renders man so frequently the victim of so many schemes. A gentleman of our acquaintance some years ago was shown some tricks with cards, on the train going to Petersburg. He concluded he could just take in $10 without any trouble; it looked so plausible and as he thought, so sure; but the other fellows took the money. On arrival at Petersburg he had them arrested, and the next morning appeared against them. Before leaving the court room as a precaution he asked the Mayor to say nothing about his connection with it as he was an officer in a certain church and if it became known it would damage him. The reporter for the Index was present and published his cautionary remarks along with the case.

A book agent at Elizabeth City recently was soliciting subscribers for a magazine, for which he charged one dollar and fifty cents, and promised a gold watch as a premium, and according to the statements of the papers he readily found about 200 people in that town who were willing to risk $1.50 for a gold watch. Of course they didn't get any gold watch or magazine either, but the fraud did get about $300.

If every body could just get entirely rid of the gambling characteristic in human nature, from which springs all this looking about for opportunity to get something for nothing, without stealing it, frauds, bunco men and professional gamblers would have to go fishing or look for some other way to live without work.

Cultivate Blackberries.

The wild blackberries are so plentiful and good in most parts of the country that farmers do not take readily to the idea of cultivating them. When once they realize the superiority of a fine cultivated sort this notion soon vanishes. There are many named sorts offered by nurserymen, but there are few sections of the country where there cannot be found wild plants of superior excellence. Mark these superior sorts when in fruit this summer, and next fall dig them up with all their roots. Cut the long roots in pieces three inches long, and plant them in rows. The following season they will make fine plants, and give a good crop of fruit the following season, if planted at the proper distance at first. But the usual plan is to grow the plants from the root cuttings in close rows the first season, and then transplant to a permanent location six by six feet apart. Tie the canes to stakes, and pinch the tips when about four feet long, to cause them to branch. The dewberry succeeds best when allowed to trail on the ground.—W. F. Massey, Horticulturist, N. C. Experiment Station.

New York lumber handlers to the number of 300 stopped work yesterday morning on a demand of ten hours a day, instead of 12 to 14, and a higher rate of wages.
