Another Storm.

Last night a severe storm of wind, rain and lightning prevailed in this city and vicinity. Although no very serious destruction of property took place, yet trees were blown down, limbs scattered and boxes, &c., hustled at out the streets at a lively rate. The storm set in rather suddenly, coming from the northwest. Along the line of the North Carolina Railroad and in the north western part of the State into Virginia it appears to have been terrific. It is estimated that the wind in this vicinity was at the rate of fifty miles an hour, and, in some sections it ran up to sixty. The fall of rain was quite heavy.

Died.

ERNEST, infant son of Mr. Joseph B., and Mrs. Kate L. Hogan, died at the residence of its parents on North Salisbury street last night at 8 o'clock. The funeral took place this morning at 11 o'clock from the residence, Rev. Dr. J. H. Cordon officiating. The interment was made in the City cemetery.

Last night at 8 o'clock, at the residence, corner of Bloodworth and Morgan streets, Mrs. Claude A. Perkinson. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 10 a. m., from the First Presbyterian church.

Graded School Teachers.

At a meeting of the Raleigh township committee held last evening, Prof. E. P. Moses was elected Superintendent of Graded Schools. The new school year commences September 18th, 1891.

Mr. Frank M. Harper was re elected Principal of the Centennial School, and Miss E. A. Pool was re-elected Principal of the Murphey School. The following teachers were also elected for the white Graded Schools:

Misses Mary V. Marsh, Sarah A. Tillinghast, Carrie L. Stroug, Ada V. Womble, Myrtle Branson, Nora M. King, Mabel Hale, Grace H. Bates, Lu la Riddle, Lizzie Bellamy, Minnie Redford, Edith Royster and Mrs. James Williamson and Mrs. S. S. Williams.

Was it An Earthquake?

Last night just before the storm burst forth in all its fury, a loud rumbling noise was heard in the northwest. This was similar to the noise that was heard at the time of the great earthquake several years since, and subsequent events strengthen the belief that we had another touch of it last night. A gentleman of the strictest veracity assures us that he was in the post office building when the storm approached, and that the trembling of the building was distinctly felt. That this should have occurred from the wind, is hardly possible, the building being of rock. The rumbling sounds were heard by a great many, and the general verdict seems to be that the storm was accompanied by a shock. It may possibly be determined later.

Storm on the Railroad.

The train which left Charlotte last night at 6:30 and was due at Greensboro at 10:30 was detained until about 2 a. m., by a storm which crossed the track just ahead of the train about ten miles north of Salisbury. The telegraph poles and wires were thrown upon the track for about a mile which took several hours to clear away.

We have no information relative to the work of the storm on the country in its track, but it must have been destructive.

Put Your Mark on These.

Every day some one comes in and tell us of the probabilities of us dipping in to somebodys trade when we move on Main street, and what some merchants and their clerks say about us and our probable efforts to take their trade.

Now, to settle all of this surmising we will say we shall not make any effort to get any one's trade from them. We are making every legitimate effort now to increase our business and we shall do no more when we move on Fayetteville street. We are on good terms with all the merchants on Fayetteville street and have no desire to be otherwise. However, if any merchant on Fayetteville street has any customers who really belong to them, (by reason of credit) if they will mark them so we may know who they are, we will not sell them. They can be marked by putting a label on their backs or foreheads or by clipping the ears. When we see these private marks on such persons, we will quickly ask them to retire. Some have commented on what kind of stock we will carry for the benefit of those. We will say we will carry a stock to suit the people regardless of what that may be. The masses of the people are the ones we want to please and we are going to do that to our full ability, and we shall let other peopl's business severely alone.

Yours truly,

D. T. SWINDELL.
