LARGEST CITY CIRCULATION.
RALEIGH, N. C., JUNE 4, 1891.

THE departure of Mr. Blaine for Bar Harbor, Maine, is seriously criticised. Some think it means an initial step to retiring from public life, while others contend it is for the purpose of temporary relaxation. It is generally conceded, however, that Mr. Blaine is worked down and is a mere wreck of his former self, so far as his physical condition is concerned.

It is stated that President Harrison will receive our committee of invitation on the 10th inst., and then we may perhaps know whether he will grace our exposition with his presence. We have, of late years, been so disappointed in the matter of distinguished visitors that we do not take much stock in the Presidents' coming. We hope, however, he will say right down—yes or no. This thing of leaving the matter in doubt to the very last moment is a serious drawback. If we are to have the President with us, we want to know it, so that we may make ready to give him such a reception as the dignity of his office demands.

Without Hands.
Chicago Herald.

Little Maryan Marcena is the daughter of a tinsmith who lives at Saucelito, Cal. She has seven brothers and sisters, has this strange little girl. Four brothers and three sisters; so she is never lonely. The other children go to school, but there is always a baby to keep her company. She never goes to school herself, though she is nearly eight years old.

There are a good many reasons why she stays at home from school. She could not hold her books, and she hates to think she cannot do everything quite as well as anybody else. For the poor little thing has no arms. She has never had any.

The thing that Maryan most delights in doing is to help her little brothers and sisters get ready for school. She is very quick and full of life, and she hurries around at a great rate. She makes them hurry too. She washes their faces and combs their hair, and if they don't stand still she knows exactly how to give them a lively little box on the ear.

How does she do it? Why, with her feet, of course. She laughs when people are astonished at that.

Maryan does not believe that hands are one bit more useful or convenient than feet. Any one who notices her for a while is usually a convert to her way of thinking too.

She just takes hold of a towel between her toes and she throws it around her little brother's neck by a dexterous twist of her supple ankle. Then she dips her foot in the water, and she rubs that youngster's face till it shines again. Then she sits back and looks at that round, little red face, just exactly as an artist looks at his picture to see if he has achieved the correct effect. When the face is as new looking and fresh as a brand new tin pan, Maryan gives a queer little satisfied sigh, and patters into the next room as fast as she can—that's pretty fast, too, by the way. When she comes out she has something between her two first toes.

That something is a comb. She hops up to her brother and then she sits down.

Swish! swish! goes the comb throthe thick black hair of little brother. Splash! goes the comb in the water. Swish! again, and there's a parting. Swish! once more, and there's a beautiful parting.

"There, now," she says, cheerily—that is, if she doesn't say "There now," she means it. Surely she means it. And so the little brother knows, for he rises hastily and proceeds in a business manner to follow the fashion of boykind and get rumply and dirty faced as soon as he conveniently can.

Bashful Bridegrooms.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Ministers declare that in nine cases out of ten brides are much more self-possessed than are bridegrooms when the marriage ceremony is being performed.

A shy, modest looking little creature robed in white will stand perfectly erect, looking the minister calmly and squarely in the eyes without for an instant losing her self-poise, while the big, blunt six footer of a bridegroom by her side is pale and nervous and trembling. His fingers are likely to twitch nervously, and he may even hitch at his trouser legs or twist a corner of his coat skirt.

I was once "best man" to a stalwart, middle aged bridegroom, noted for his courage and feats of daring, says a writer in the Philadelphia Call, and when the time came for us to go down stairs to meet the bride and her attendants, he nearly had a fit, and he looked like a walking corpse all through the ceremony. I had to keep saying, "Brace up, old boy," and "Come, come, you've got to go down," to get him started at all, and at the door he was idiotic enough to clutch at me and say:

Say, Fred, how would it do to have Mary and the preacher slip in here and have it all over with before we go down at all? I can't go through it before all that crowd."

"Idiot," I said, briefly and pointedly enough to leave no doubt as to my meaning. "Mary won't come in here and you will go down this instant."

He got through at last without doing or saying anything ridiculous, in which respect he was luckier than another stalwart bridegroom of my acquaintance, who was so dazed and overcome that he held out one of his own fingers for the ring when the minister said, "With this ring I thee wed."

Another bridegroom I know lost his head to such a degree that when it came time for him to say "I, Horace, take thee, Annie, to be my lawful wedded wife," he said, in an unnaturally loud tone, "I, Annie, take thee, Horace, to be my lawful wedded wife," and when the time came for him to introduce his bride to some of his friends who had not yet seen her, he did it by saying, awkwardly, "Ah, er—Miss Carter, this is my wife, Miss Barton," calling her by her maiden name.

Few men say "my wife" easily and naturally the first time they use the word in public.

A funny case was that of a badly rattled bridegroom who stared blankly at the minister until asked if he took "this woman to be his lawful wedded wife," when he started suddenly and hastily, and said, in the blandest manner,

"Ah! beg pardon, were you speaking to me?"

A village preacher said that he once married a rural couple at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of a large company of invited guests. The bridegroom was a big, bony, red-faced young fellow, who looked as though he could have felled an ox with his fist; but he shivered and turned pale at the beginning of the ceremony, and at its close fell down in a dead faint, to the manifest annoyance of his bride, who had been as cool as a cucumber.

ANDREWS & GRIMES, Coal Dealers.

We call special attention to the Coal we propose to handle this season and which we are receiving daily. Kanawha, West Virginia, Splint.

Superior to any in the United States for grates and open fire places. NEW RIVER LUMP for grates and stoves. It is the equal of any and surpassed by no other (save Kanawha Splint), be it under any name whatever. It has been upon the market for the last ten years, this is the first season for Raleigh and North Carolina. We have the New River for steam also, which we will put by the side of any other coal and guarantee equal, if not better results. We are the agents for this coal and can ship for domestic and steam users to Charlotte, Henderson, Durham, Winston, Oxford and other points direct from the mines. Give it a trial, is what we ask.

HARD COAL. We have also a very choice lot of Red and White Ash for grates and stoves, which we screen before sending to our customers. Buy now and save money. Write for prices. Oak, hickory and pine wood, long or cut, on hand WOOD. all the time. ANDREWS & GRIMES.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.
The partnership heretofore existing between R. M. Andrews and W. H. J. Goodwin, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent. All debts due to the firm will be collected by R. M. Andrews, and all debts due by the firm will be paid by said R. M. Andrews.
R. M. ANDREWS, W. H. J. GOODWIN.

Having sold all of my interest and the good will of the late firm of Andrews & Goodwin to Mr. R. M. Andrews, I trust that the public will continue to patronize Mr Andrews as they did the late firm.
