Such beautiful buns and chocolate cakes! (Sing low, very low-you'll alarm her.) And oh, such elegant tarts he makes! And her name is Joshua Farmer.

And hee sweet name is Elinor Jane, And her step is as light as a feather, And we meet every day in the lilac lane, And we go to our school together.

And now and then she brings me a bun. (Sing low or she'll hear what we're saying;) And after school, when our tasks are done, In the meadows we're fond of straying.

And I make her a wreath of cowslips there, As we sit in the blossoming clover, And then she binds it around her hair And twines it over and over.

She's ten; I'm six; but I am as tall As she is, I guess, or nearly; And I cannot say that I eare for her doll; But, oh, I do love her dearly.

We were tired of playing at king and queen (Sing low, for we must not awake her,) And she fell asleep in the grass so green; And I thought that I would not forsak her.

And when I grow to a big, tall man, I mean to be smart and clever; And then I will marry her if I can, And we'll live upon tarts forever. —C. P. Cranch in St. Nicholas.

Suicide of Tom Roche.

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 10 .-Tom Roche, the wealthy railroad con tractor of the firm which built the Fort Worth and New Orleans railway, was found dead in bed this morning, having committed suicide some time during the night by shooting himself in the mouth. For several days he has been mentally depressed by the delusion that he would land in the poor house, although his estate is valued at $500,000, and he only owes $25,000 and is not financially embarrassed. He came from New York city about twelve years ago. He has since been connected with extensive railroad building contracts in Texas.
