RALEIGH, N. C., JULY 27, 1891

THE JEWS IN RUSSIA.

The New York press recently published a statement to the effect that General James R'Obeir, who is connected with the immigration bureau of the United States, has in his hands about forty affidavits made by Jews who have been exiled from Russia; from which it appears that these people are stripped of about everything they possess before they are allowed to pass the lines. That is to say, they are peremptorily ordered to quit the country and are not allowed to take anything scarcely with them. Under the ban of the most unreasonable prejudice throughout Russia, they can get no hearing in the courts and are consequently made the prey of the most unscrupulously avaricious government officials, and the defenceless victims of the most desperate and abandoned citizens. Foreigners with no national government to which they can appeal, they are national orphans, homeless and friendless; for whom the world's sympathy should be aroused and expressed, and Russia should be given to know that the nations of the earth disapprove of her unnecessary and wanton cruelty toward them.

The Jews are truly a peculiar people; having stood the test of 1800 years of national orphanage, scattered among all nations, and yet they have preserved their national or race peculiarities intact; a thing that the world has never witnessed in the history of any other people. They are seldom before the courts, they are not drunkards, they are not politicians and are seldom paupers. The average in all these, as compared with other people, is largely in their favor. It is sometimes objected that they are clannish, that they stick together. Sometimes the "boycott" spirit appears among them, in their attitude toward other nationalities, resulting from this excessive clannishness, in listening to the bad counsels of some of the vicious individuals among them, which is usually met by ostracism, or a sort of uniting against them, and which has had something to do with their troubles in Russia, but their clannishness or race pride has been their sheet anchor in preserving their race peculiarities. We Americans know but little of this feeling and are not prepared to appreciate it, for the reason that we are of a cosmopolitan make up. The Jews with all their faults and foibles, which are not greater than others, are a great people and have doubtless a great future before them yet; notwithstanding the prejudice against them which in Russia has developed into a cruel national ostracism.

What is it that makes a true gentleman? This is what some one has said: "A gentleman is just a GENTLE man—no more or less: a diamond polished that was first a diamond in the rough. A gentleman is gentle. A gentleman is modest. A gentleman is courteous. A gentleman is slow to take offence, as being one who never gives it. A gentleman is slow to surmise evil, as being one who never thinks it. A gentleman refines his tastes. A gentleman controls his speech. A gentleman deems others better than himself.—Ex.

Tabernacle Meeting at Rutherford College.

Correspondence of the VISITOR. FOURTH DAY.
 The conference today decided to establish an evangelistic bureau for the promotion of evangelistic work under the management of the executive committee; central office at Raleigh. Much interest is manifested in this movement. The conference voted to hold the next session in the bounds of the N. C. Conference, the place to be fixed by the executive committee. Valuable papers were recorded on "Highway and Hedge" work and on "Temperance." Hon. Donald W. Bain and other citizens of Raleigh have been on the ground today. Chas. F. McKesson is doing fine work. The attendance increases. Dr. Abernethy will open school in his new building Aug. 5th. Some of the rooms are finished. He needs more money badly. LEVI BRANSON, Sec'y.

Malicious Treatment.

Moses Stroup, representative from Gaston, says the Charlotte Chronicle, is paying dearly for his recent efforts in trying to prohibit the sale of whiskey in Gaston county. Several nights ago parties visited his place and cut up all his corn, peeled his fruit trees, went into his harvest field and cut all the binds and scattered the grain over the field. It is understood that the anti-prohibitionists are at the bottom of the trouble, and are in this manner wreaking their vengeance on their representative for fighting whiskey manufacture.

An Odd Sort of a Strike.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 25.—Eleven bricklayers in the employ of A. S. Reed & Brother—six of them on the new post office and five on the new car station of the Wilmington City Railway—have quit work. The trouble grew out of the Reeds' determination to teach their brother who is 29 years old, bricklaying. The rules of the organization stipulate that an apprentice must not be less than 15 years of age nor more than 21. The objectionable 29 years old apprentice was put to work on the new post office building despite the protests of the union men.

An Inch of Rain.

In the reports from the signal office one often sees mention made of an inch of rain. Few people can form a definite idea of what is involved in the expression, "an inch of rain." It may aid such to follow this curious calculation: An acre is equal to 6,272 640 square inches; an inch deep of water on this area will be as many as cubic inches of water, which, at 227 to the gallon, in 22,000 gallons. This immense quantity of water will weigh 220,000 pounds, or 100 tons. One hundredth of an inch (0.01) alone is equal to one ton of water to the acre.

Very Costly Jealousy.

ZANESVILLE, O., July 25 — A drunken teamster and the jealousy of his wife have cost C. W. Underwood, of this city, about $600. Mr. Underwood lost his pocket book containing a number of papers, among them many of which he has no copy. They were found, by a teamster, who at once got drunk. After showing his find in a saloon and laying in a hay-mow several hours to sober up he started for home and fell into a drunken sleep. His wife went through his pockets and having found the pocketbook, which contained several rent receipts and a picture of Mr. Underwood's wife, the woman at once arrived at the conclusion that her husband was spending his means in supporting another woman under a fictitious name, and in a fit of jealousy threw the pocketbook and the contents into the fire.

Iron ore which is supposed to be very valuable has been discovered near Adomram in Granville county and a Pennsylvania syndicate has purchased an option on the land on which the mineral is found.

A Chicago Sensation.

A few days ago a tremendous excitement was created by the free use of a revolver in the great hall of the Chicago Board of Trade during business hours.

A slight man with dark eyes and haggard appearance stood a short distance inside the entrance of the hall with a large revolver in his hand, firing toward the lofty ceiling when general attention was thus directed to him.

Business was instantly brought to a standstill and the crowd of brokers who were first frightened and then angry, rushed at him crying, "hang him, lynch him, kill him."

He was overpowered in a moment, before he could continue his fusillade, and after the angry brokers had cooled off somewhat he was turned over to the police.

Subsequently it was learned that his name is Atkins, that he came to the board to see Thomas Wells, of the International Packing Company, about a claim which he makes. Wells referred him to his attorney, and Atkins, without further parley, stepped upon the floor of the exchange, drew his revolver and began firing.

The Book Trust Knocked Out.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
 The price of the great Encyclopedia Britannica, $8 per volume for the English edition, and $5 per volume for the Scribner and the Stoddard editions in the cheapest binding—has been a bar to its popular use. Our new reprint of this work is furnished at $1.50 per volume, the greatest bargain ever known in the book trade. We have sold over half a million volumes in six months; proof that the public appreciate so great a bargain. This reprint is not an abridgment, but a reproduction of the entire twenty-five volumes of the great Edinburgh ninth edition, page for page, with new and later articles on important American topics, and new maps, later and better than in any other edition. In all respects it compares favorably with the high priced editions, and in point of maps and durability of binding it is superior to them. Heretofore we have sold only for cash. We now announce that we will deliver the set complete on small easy payments. SPECIAL OFFER.—In order that you may see the bargain we offer, and examine its merits, we will furnish Volume I by express for 60 cts, a fraction of actual cost; add 40 cts postage if wanted by mail. Circulars and sample page will be sent free on application. R. S. PEALE & Co., Publishers, Chicago.
