RALEIGH, N. C., AUGUST 4, 1891

Encyclopedia Britannica.

A full set of this great work can be seen at the VISITOR office. It is not an abridgment but a reprint of the entire 25 volumes of the great Edinburgh ninth edition. It can be bought for about one sixth the cost of the English edition. Call and examine it. Try us on prices, we'll astonish you.

MARYLAND AT RALEIGH.

The Baltimore Herald says: The Raleigh Exposition will afford opportunities for display never before offered to the people of Maryland. They ought to be made the most of by display of energy on the part of Maryland people which will show off the state in a favorable light among competitors. October 22, 23 and 24 are to be Maryland days at the exposition.

STEEL WATER PIPES.

Steel is becoming of more general use each year. The East Jersey Water company which has the contract for supplying Newark, N. J., with water, proposes to use steel pipes, concerning which so much has been said, of late, and so little really known.

With few exceptions cast and wrought iron has been used for water piping and this is a new use of steel.

Treatment of New Students at the University.

There is only one way to stop the students from hazing each other, and that way is to stop them. Sometimes they stop of their own accord. When a thing stops itself, it is stopped good fashion. Such is the case at Chapel Hill; hazing has stopped itself. Read these resolutions:

Resolutions of the class of 1891.

"Recognizing the fact that the development of the University depends upon the harmonious co-operation of its friends, and especially upon the voluntary adoption of true standards of manliness by the student body, the class of 1891 in meeting assembled do hereby resolve:

"1. That the practice of hazing new students is far beneath the dignity of University men and contrary to the spirit of a real University.

"2. That new students who enter the University hereafter shall not be subjected to blacking nor maltreatment by this class.

T. B. LEE,
H. BINGHAM,
H. W. WHEBBER,
Committee."

At a mass meeting of all the students of the University it was unanimously

"Resolved, That the students of the University indorse the action of the class of 1891 and promise their hearty co-operation in eliminating from University life all maltreatment of new students."

These resolutions are very gratifying to the friends of the University. We are heartily glad that the young gentlemen of this noble institution have taken this high and dignified position in reference to this playful practice, innocent enough in its inception, but repulsive and damaging in the excess to which it always goes.

All honor to our University students for their advanced, noble, dignified position in this as in other matters.

She Didn't Propose to Him.

One of the late matrimonial engagements is said to be the outcome of a daring little piece of repartee on the part of the young woman, who has enjoyed the reputation of being not only a wit, but a beauty and a belle as well. Although quite young, she was known to have declined the honor of matrimonial alliance with several of the best so called "catches" of the season, and it began at last to be rumored that her mind and heart were set on one of her admirers who had not, as yet, the temerity to come to the point. However that may be, the young man in question was her partner in one of the Harvard assemblies last winter, seated with her in a sequestered nook, "far from the madding crowd."

Apropos of something that had been said, he asked her laughingly if the report were true that she had refused all the eligible men in her set. She blushed vividly for a moment, then suddenly raised her head, looked him full in the face and said pointedly, "Yes, it is true—present company accepted?" It is, perhaps, needless to state that they remained in the "sequestered nook" during the rest of the German, and that the young lady wore a sparkling solitaire on her left hand within a few days. Rumor also has it that the above conversation was overheard by one of the discarded suitors, who forthwith "gave it away."

Milk as a Fire Extinguisher.

Lightning recently struck the flag pole on the Eastford hotel, at Oxford, Md., a large building which was formerly the Maryland Military and Naval Academy, and set fire to the cupola, causing much consternation among the guests and threatening to destroy the building. This would have been the case but the rain which was falling at the time and the efforts of the proprietor, who used milk as an extinguisher. It is stated, in accordance with an old superstition that water will not put out fire caused by lightning. How long this antique fallacy has clouded the minds of the superstitious is not known, but that it has come down from remote times will hardly be questioned. The hotel proprietor, believing that water would not save his premises, was at his wits' end for an effective extinguisher until he noticed a milk wagon filled with cans of the lacteal fluid standing just at the moment in front of the house, ready to hand method of salvation, providentially supplied. Seizing one of the cans, the non believer in water lugged it to the top of the hotel and poured it out on the lightning kindled flames and then went back for further supplies, until he had the satisfaction of seeing the last spark smothered and the burning hotel saved.—Baltimore Sun.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Shot in a Sleeper.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 1st.—On the Chesapeake and Ohio train from White Sulphur Springs, about two o'clock this morning, while the train was between Waynesboro Junction and Basic City, a robber approached an upper berth in the sleeper occupied by a daughter of Col. R. C. Marshall, of Portsmouth, Va., her father being in the lower berth. The young lady on being aroused exclaimed, "Who is that?" when the man apologized and went on.

A few moments later a pistol shot was heard, which startled the occupants of the sleeper, and it was found that D. F. Connell, of Portsmouth, O., had been shot in the groin by a pistol ball, inflicting an ugly wound.

Prohibition Not Wanted.

PENDLETON, IND., Aug. 1.—The offices of J. C. Manning and Dr. Stone were blown to pieces by dynamite today. Manning was a prominent prohibitionist and had incurred the ill-will of the saloon people, some sympathizers of whom are credited with having perpetrated the deed.

The New Berne Journal says: 'No intelligent man would think for a moment of excluding honest immigrants of desirable character, who wish to come to the United States to become in good faith American citizens, but the time has certainly been reached when we should have intelligent legislation to exclude the ignorant and the vicious.'

All Paris is laughing over the joke about an American inventor who is said to have patented a corset that is to bring about the reign of morality at once. If one of these articles is pressed by a lover's arm it at once emits a shriek like the whistle of a railroad engine; and the inventor claims that he has already married three of his daughters, owing to the publicity thus thrust upon a backward lover. But the wits of Paris, professing to fear that soon the parlors will become unbearable, owing to the simultaneous and continued whistling of the corsets.—Exchange

The Book Trust Knocked Out.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
The price of the great Encyclopedia Britannica, $3 per volume for the English edition, and $5 per volume for the Scribner and the Stoddard editions in the cheapest binding—has been a bar to its popular use.
Our new reprint of this work is furnished at $1.00 per volume, the greatest bargain ever known in the book trade. We have sold over half a million volumes in six months; proof that the public appreciate so great a bargain.
This reprint is not an abridgment, but a reproduction of the entire twenty-five volumes of the great Edinburgh ninth edition, page for page, with new and later articles on important American topics, and new maps, later and better than in any other edition. In all respects it compares favorably with the high priced editions, and in point of maps and accuracy of binding it is superior to them.
Heretofore we have sold only for cash. We now announce that we will deliver the set complete on small easy payments.
SPECIAL OFFER.—In order that you may see the bargain we offer, and examine its merits, we will furnish Volume I by express for 60 cts, a fraction of actual cost; add 40 cts postage if wanted by mail.
Circulars and sample page will be sent free on application. W. S. FALK & CO., 173 N. WABASH ST., CHICAGO.
