NEWS NOTES ABOUT THE CITY.

What Our Reporters See and Hear Worth Giving to Our Readers—News in Brief.

The rain this morning has somewhat retarded painting operations.

Now that the summer tourists have nearly all returned, travel over the railroad has fallen off very much.

Argument before the commissioners in the Factory Branch Railroad case will be heard next Monday.

Only one or two trivial cases engaged the attention of the mayor today.

A very enjoyable barbecue was given at the farm of Mr. Walter R. Womble, about three miles from the city yesterday.

The exposition will be opened with prayer by Rev. Thomas Dixon, of New York, he having accepted an invitation.

Rev. N. H. D. Wilson will preach tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Mrs. Sylvester Smith's warehouse, corner Harrington and Cabarrus Sts.

The arrangement of the exhibit from Wake county, will commence at the exposition grounds next week under the supervision of Mr. Gill.

The jury in the case of A. D. Hill for abandonment, which was tried before Justice Marcom yesterday afternoon, rendered a verdict of not guilty.

We hear that the sale of seats for the proposed musical festival to take place during the exposition, has commenced, and that orders are coming in from various parts of the State.

Business is at a stand still today and news scarce. Very few country people in the city, and all the town folks who can conveniently do so, have been housed up.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Health on Monday, September 14th, at 12 o'clock m., at the Mayor's office. By order of Dr. James McKee, President.

Send in your names to the Bureau of Information, if you desire to take boarders during the exposition. Mr. A. L. Ferrell or Maj. C. D. Hearts, who are in charge of the matter, will receive and enter names.

The pastor of the Tabernacle earnestly invites all members of the church and congregation to be present on Sunday at the Tabernacle building where the church returns for worship.

It seems to be understood that Fred Douglas, the noted colored orator, will be here during the exposition on invitation of the managers of the colored department.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Miss Maggie Reese, who is daily receiving all the novelties in the millinery line. These will be offered to the public on as reasonable terms as can be had in North Carolina. Call at her emporium of fashion and see her splendid stock.

It should not be lost sight of that the Trustees of the Colored Agricultural and Mechanical College will meet in this city, on October 15th, at which time definite action will be taken upon the location of the Institution. In the meantime we hope the citizens of Raleigh will respond liberally, so that we can secure the site beyond doubt.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Mr. T. W. Blake, jeweler, 117 Fayetteville street, who carries a fine stock of jewelry, and makes a specialty of spectacles, American watches &c. In the matter of repairing he stands justly high, and all who entrust him with their business, can rest assured it will be done in the neatest, most prompt and reliable manner.

"A word to the wise is sufficient," but is not always wise to say that word to one who is suffering the tortures of a headache. However, always risk it and recommend Brady's grogine. Sept 9 '91

Funeral.

We are requested to state that the funeral of the late Mr. Samuel Utley, who died a short time ago, will be preached by Rev. P. T. Harman, at Holland's church, on Sunday, 19th inst. He was a prominent Mason and successful farmer, and highly respected by all who knew him.

A Slander Refuted.

A manufacturer named Wenoby, from Philadelphia, recently told a reporter of the Chicago Tribune, that he had purchased 125,000 acres of land in Western North Carolina, for which he could obtain no title, although he had paid out $60,000. Gov. Holt replies at length to Wenoby's charge, showing the lack of foundation to sustain the statement. It appears that Wenoby has misrepresented the case.

Barlow's Minstrels.

This splendid troupe performed at Metropolitan Hall last night to a large audience and fully sustained the good reputation that had preceded them. The stage settings were grand and beautiful and the different parts most admirably sustained. It would almost be unjust to discriminate where all did so well. The jokes and repartees were all new with nothing savoring of the "chestnut." Taken altogether it is the best troupe that has visited Raleigh for a long time, and we most cordially commend it to amusement lovers everywhere.

An Explanation.

As an act of justice to Mr. Patrick, of the Southern Immigration Bureau, we print the following extract from a letter recently written by him:

"We are sorry to know that the impression prevails that an exorbitant charge is being made to Raleigh business men for space in which to make exhibits at the exposition. No charge has been made or is intended against any business man of Raleigh, except where it is desired to retail from the space occupied, or to exhibit as an agent for non-residents who have contributed nothing towards the exposition. As the business men of Raleigh have contributed liberally we have thought it but right to give them some advantage over others, in this way."

Hard Labor for Life.

Dear friend, you work hard for all the DOLLARS you get and if there is an advantage to be had in spending your money, you want to know it. Now you can get more goods and better goods at Swindell's new store on Fayetteville street, Raleigh, for your hard earned money than anywhere in Raleigh. This mammoth store (largest store in the State), is packed with such goods as you need. Shoes, clothing, hats, dry goods, carpets, jewelry, perfume and toilet soaps, millinery goods (largest millinery department in Raleigh.)

We came to Raleigh three years ago in the Racket store business. You know our business has doubled and thrived. Why? Because we give goods at popular prices. Come, friend, and see us at D. T. Swindell's new Fayetteville street store, No. 206—the new Racket store.

Another War.

It looks as if the oyster troubles in the eastern part of the State are about as far from a final settlement as ever, and that during the season we are to have the excitement of another little war upon us. It seems, from reports, that the surveying boat of Gen. W. G. Lewis has been fired upon by some of the Pamlico county oystermen. Under recent statutes, Gen. Lewis, who is State engineer, has been engaged in laying off grounds for parties desiring to enter and possess tracts of ten acres, which the law allows to every citizen to lay claim to that area. As this is considered a great outrage to some of the natives, they are restless, and seem determined to resist. The firing upon the surveying boat took place a few nights since, the vessel being filled with holes, but fortunately no one was hurt, as the crew was below. The rumor is that several hundred of the oystermen have banded together and evince a firm determination to drive Gen. Lewis and his force off at all hazards. It has not yet developed what action the Governor will take in the premises.

Tiptoo's Newspaper.

Tramp and Tiptoo were friends. Tramp was a black and tan dog; Tiptoo, a grey parrot. Tiptoo talk'd almost all day.

At four o'clock every afternoon Tramp came into the house, waled up to his mistress, looked into her face, and waited patiently until she gave him a piece of money. Tiptoo always watched Tramp as he took the money into his mouth. Then, with a shrill shriek, she would call: "Hallo, Tramp! Four o'clock, Tramp! Buy a paper, Tramp! Herald, Globe, Rekkid! Oh, ma!"

This was a long sentence for Tiptoo, but Tramp always waited for the last word; then he would spring through the open window, bound down the path, across the street, and into a small store.

And Tiptoo, watching intently, would cry, as he returned bearing a paper in his mouth, "Tramp's bought a paper! Oh, my! Oh, my! What a funny dog!"

One day at four o'clock, Tramp was away with his master. As the moments passed, Tiptoo became restless and excited. She hopped from one window to another, and looked in all directions for her friend Tramp.

By and by the clock struck. "One! two! three! four! five!" counted Tiptoo in a loud voice. She waited a few minutes longer, and then she sprang upon her mistress's shoulder.

"Herald, Globe, Rekkid!", she said; "Herald, Globe, Rekkid!" Once, twice, three times.

And then her mistress understood her meaning.

"Oh," she said, "so you'll buy a paper if I give you money."

"Herald, Globe, Rekkid!", screamed Tiptoo, in evident delight.

"Well, take it. Don't swallow it." Out through the window hopped Tiptoo, with the money in her bill, down the path, across the street, and into the store. Her mistress watched her anxiously. "I wish I hadn't let her go," she said. "Something may frighten her."

Into the store hopped Tiptoo, and sprang upon the counter. Then, dropping the money, she called imperatively, "Herald, Globe Rekkid!"

Laughing, wondering, praising her cleverness, the shopman gave her a paper.

Clutching it firmly in her beak, Tiptoo flew down, hopped out into the street, up the path, into the parlor.

Then she flew to her perch, and rocking herself back and forth, she cried, "Oh, my! Oh, my! Tiptoo bought a paper! Oh, my! Oh, my! Herald, Globe, Rekkid!"—Mary A. Sawyer, in Little Men and Women.
