THE EXPOSITION.

Raleigh has been advertised in the last six months as never before in her history, and during the next two months thousands, and hundreds of thousands for that matter, will be here, with all sorts of objects in view in their coming. Some simply to gratify a desire to see, others that they may get a more correct idea of the South, and thousands, with a view of becoming interested financially in the forward moving South. Now it remains for the people to secure the best results of these comings. If things strike these strangers, as bright and attractive, and they are made to feel the attractiveness of of kindly treatment, thousands of them will ultimately become prosperous acceptable citizens, and Raleigh has the advantage over every other section during the Exposition if she will only avail herself of it. Let the city be made to look bright and attractive, and let a warm grasp of the hand be ever ready for the stranger.

The Gambling Spirit,

Or the disposition that impels so many in seeking something for nothing, or so near it as possible, has so crowded the recently opened lands for settlement, in the Indian territory

ry that a water famine has been produced and water a few days since was regarded cheap at five cents a pint. The rush for that country has turned the other way. Some striking episodes in connection with the rush there are given by the press

Miss Virginia Ellis, a rather pretty girl from Arkansas City, rode a bicycle in the grand rush and secured one of the best claims to be had in the new territory. A colored woman walked twenty miles from her claim with a babe in her arms and another woman, almost 65 years of age, did the same.

An American Girl.

It happened in a Clifton car in Cincinnati. A pretty girl, faultlessly attired from the top of her bonnet to the tips of her dainty patent leather shoes, jumped on the car in a great hurry at the Clifton avenue crossing. She had been busily engaged in putting on a pair of suede gloves, which, after she entered the car, she proceeded to button with that indispensable adjunct to a woman's toilet, a hairpin. This article proved refractory after a moment and flew from her fingers. It landed at the feet of the young man happened to be sitting beside her. He was a calm eyed, confident young gentleman, and he picked up the hairpin and instead of returning it to her, gently took her wrist in his left hand and gravely continued the buttoning process.

Every man in the car had been watching the pretty Clifton girl, some openly, others furtively, from behind their newspapers. Now all the papers dropped, everyone looked aghast and gazed at the pretty girl to see what she would do. She did nothing. Not a muscle moved and she showed no consciousness of what was going on. The young man, with a conscious look of triumph, finished his pleasant task and the girl, with a pre occupied air and not a glance in his direction, opened her purse, took out a nickel and placed it in his hand. His expression changed with lightning rapidity; the color came in his face and he quickly murmured what was evidently an apology.

She listened with a wilfully misleading air, and handed him another nickel. By this time his face had become scarlet and he began a low toned, earnest protestation. The calm, cool and collected young lady signaled the conductor, and she rose to depart said in a clear, distinct tone, audible to every one in the car: "You must be satisfied with a dime. I never give more than 10 cents for having my gloves buttoned or my boots cleaned."

The Book Trust Knocked Out.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

The price of the great Encyclopedia Britannica, $8 per volume for the English edition, and $4 per volume for the Scribner and the Standard editions in the cheapest binding-has been a bar to its popular use. Our new reprint of this work is furnished at $1.50 per volume, the greatest bargain ever known in the book trade. We have sold over half a million volumes in six months; proof that the public appreciate so great a bargain. This reprint is not an abridgment, but a reproduction of the entire twenty-five volumes of the great Edinburgh ninth edition, page for page, with new and later articles on important American topics, and new maps, later and better than in any other edition. In all respects it compares favorably with the high priced editions, and in point of maps and durability of binding it is superior to them. Heretofore we have sold only for cash. We now announce that we will deliver the set complete on small easy payments. SPECIAL OFFER.-In order that you may see the bargain we offer, and examine its merits, we will furnish Volume 1 by express for 60 cts, a fraction of actual cost; add 40 cts postage if wanted by mail. Circulars and sample page will be sent free on application. R. S. PEALE & Co., Publishers, Chicago. jz29 tr
