RALEIGH, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1891:

NO. 13

NEWS NOTES ABOUT THE CITY.

What Our Reporters See and Hear Worth Giving to Our Readers—News in Brief.

Bright, cool, autumnal weather. The Cumberland county fair commenced at Fayetteville today. Gov. Jackson, of Maryland, will be here with the Fifth Regiment. "From Sire to Son" at Metropolitan Hall tonight. Election news tonight will be shown by means of a stereopticon on the south side of Metropolitan Hall.

The Mayor's court was devoid of interest today. The special Oxford day at the exposition is to be Thursday next the 5th instead of Friday as first stated.

Governor Fleming of West Virginia will be here tomorrow and will make an address at the exposition.

Gov. Holt left for Fayetteville this afternoon, to be present and open the Cumberland Fair tomorrow.

The beautiful clear weather is a great help to the elections in the North and Northwest in the way of bringing out a full vote.

Bulletins will be shown on the canvass at the south end of the market house building tonight giving the result of the elections. It will be a great convenience to the public.

Don't forget the entertainment at the old Moseley dining hall Thursday and Thursday night, given by the ladies of the Christian Church. Refreshments of all kinds on hand.

The following dispatch was received last night about 10 o'clock:

Hon. Thos. Badger, Mayor of Raleigh: Gov. Fleming gone via Richmond and Weldon. Business in Richmond; but he will be with you in good time.

JAS. W. EWING, Private Sec'y.

The Supreme court today was engaged in hearing argument in the case of the State vs Stephenson, involving the legality of the merchants purchase tax, where purchases are made in the State, on the ground that it is a double tax. There is a brilliant array of counsel and the speeches were able. About $30,000 in taxes a year are involved.

Mrs. E. M. Lewis, Oxanna Ala. writes: "For over twenty years I have suffered with headaches without relief from the many remedies and physicians tried during that period. Bradycrotine produces the most satisfactory results. It is almost as indispensable to my comfort as my food." oc28 6t

Ex-President Cleveland.

Active steps are being taken to secure the attendance of ex-President Cleveland at the Inter-State Exposition. This morning the following letter was sent:

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 3.

Rev. Thos. Dixon, Jr., New York:

Dear Sir:—We are anxious to secure the attendance of ex-President Cleveland at our Southern Inter-State Exposition, and, in behalf of the citizens committee of Raleigh, we write to ask your aid in this behalf by joining Mr. Walter Page and with him securing Rev. Dr. Deems, Dr. J. H. Parker, President of the U. S. National Bank, Mr. O. G. Thomas, artist, 23d street, R. H. Prentice, Esq., commission merchant, and such others as may occur to you to wait upon Mr. Cleveland and present and urge the matter upon him.

If you can get him to name a day between now and Nov. 28th, that date preferred, then we will send a deputation of our citizens after him with ample arrangements for his coming and those who may accompany him. We feel sure that you, with us, realize the importance of immediate action, and we will be obliged to you for a telegram giving result of your visit to ex-President Cleveland at the earliest date possible. We have sent a copy of this letter to Mr. Walter Page. With great respect,

THOS. BADGER,
Mayor, Raleigh
N. B. BROUGHTON,
H. B. BATTLE,
W. N. JONES,
Committee.

"AND THE VILLAIN STILL PURSUED HER."

A Successful Author, Actor and Manager, Who Originated a Phrase Which Has Acquired a World Wide Popularity.

As an actor, author and manager, Milton Nobles has, during a professional career covering nearly a quarter of a century, made a record that is a credit to his name and an honor to his guild. No living actor is held in higher esteem by his fellow players and the public at large. His plays have all been successful, and, beyond any other American dramatist, he has succeeded in producing purely American plays, dealing with American themes and introducing typical and tangible phases of American character. Mr. Nobles and his brilliant young wife will present during this engagement, Mr. Nobles' latest, and probably strongest play, "From Sire to Son."

Dollie Nobles' exquisite performance of the dual role of Mabel Armitage, mother and daughter, is a stage realization that one will not encounter many times during the life time of an average theatre goer. No one who sees Mrs. Nobles in the character of Mabel Armitage is likely to soon forget the pretty picture of purity and innocence she presents. To the man of the world who has come in contact with life on this sin stained earth in all its phases it seems like the glimpse of an angel, a breath from Heaven, a vision or a dream, rather than a reality. The man who has gazed upon this picture must indeed be a hardened wretch, if he is not touched by it.

Mr. Nobles' Armitage is a performance characteristic of the man and entirely unlike any one else. The great charm of his acting lies in the naturalness of his method. There is no straining for effect, no "sound of fury, signifying nothing." The strong intellectual caliber of the man who conceived and created the character is at all times perceptible in the performance. His acting during the progress of the various acts is noticeable for quiet intensity and real feeling while the sudden outbursts of passion with which he terminates the second and third acts arouses his audiences to the highest pitch of enthusiasm, resulting nightly in double calls. The supporting company is the strongest Mr. Nobles has ever carried, and that is saying much for he has never had a poor supporting company. For the duties assigned them their superiors could scarcely be found in the profession. Of a company including such artists as Burt G. Clark, L. R. Willard, Mary Davenport, etc., much is to be expected, and, in the present case, expectation is more than realized.

All That Swearing

in yesterday's VISITOR was a misunderstanding of the type. While we are positive we have the seamless black hose and will on next Monday sell them at 10 cents a pair, yet we are not swearing about it, but if it was necessary would swear that we have a big lot of misses long seamless ribbed hose, regular 25c goods, and that on Monday next we will sell these hose at 10c a pair, and on Monday only at 10c, for 25c hose, on next Monday. Fire.

The warehouse of Mr. G. B. Alford at Holly Springs, together with its contents, was destroyed by fire yesterday evening at 7 o'clock. The loss is estimated at about $1,000 with no insurance. The fire was caused from accident.

The Weather.

The following is a synopsis of the weather at 8 p. m. yesterday: The clearing condition occupies the central Mississippi valley and will influence the weather on the Atlantic coast for some days. Light rains have fallen in Kansas and Southern Texas. A slight depression exists in the Gulf which may develop into a storm. The weather in the vicinity of Raleigh will continue fair and cold, becoming slightly warmer Wednesday.

News Gathering.

This news hunting is sometimes amusing and generally instructive, but most of all, it throws light upon human character and brings out prominent traits in their true colors to an extent that nothing else does, but for the present we do not propose to discuss along this line except just to say, the "I" in human nature is just the biggest thing there is in it; and, funny as it may seem, we cannot see the "I" except as it appears in others. But enough of this. We started out for news this morning and at the court house we found Judge Whitaker in a very deliberate manner charging the jury in the case of William Mitchell and wife against Sallie Hall, which had been occupying the court since Saturday.

We went next to the Register of Deeds office, and were there informed that the Board of County Commissioners had gone on an official visit in a body to the "Home of the Aged and Infirm" of the county (this is an admirable charge of name) to see what is necessary to make these people comfortable.

Next we called at the Mayor's office and found our friend, the Chief, busy as usual. His laconic reply to our inquiry was, "No news at all here except one drunk and twelve hours." We next tackled a gentleman on the street and he began a long recital of grievances against somebody, and then the next began the same, till we becoming ourselves keenly conscious of how that ever present "ego" lens through which we all look makes everything appear different to us from what other people see, we hid ourselves away to the Yarboro and there we found a man's name registered with an "M. D." after it—and then we stopped.
