LARGEST CITY CIRCULATION. RALEIGH, N.C., JAN. 29, 1892.

We are in receipt of a most beautiful complimentary programme of the 87th anniversary exercises of the Euzeilian and Philomathesian Literary Societies of Wake Forest College.

The Tarboro Southerner says: "Many families from the northern tier of counties are moving into Pitt to engage in the cultivation of tobacco."

HOW CALM, ALL AT ONCE.

The war talk has died out in Washington so suddenly and completely, that one recurs to it, as to a half remembered dream.

SOME THINGS FIT BETTER REVERSED.

One has said, "when religion gets into politics, it purifies and ennobles it, but when politics gets into religion, it destroys it, and makes of it a loathsome decaying corpse."

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.

Correspondence of the VISITOR. Several residents of the West End say that a petition will probably be presented to the Board of County Commissioners, at their meeting next Monday, asking that the Avent Ferry road, from its junction with the Hillsboro road to Pullen Park, be laid with a coat of gravel.

It is but an act of justice to the people of that vicinity that this should be done. This road is composed entirely of red clay soil, and in wet weather it is impassable.

WEST END. THE UNION PRINTERS' HOME. COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Jan. 26.—The Childs Drexel Union Printers' Home, in this city, will be dedicated on May 12, Mr. Childs's birthday.

Why so Many Ladies Who Should be Attractive Fail to Please—A Brilliant Woman Reveals the Secret.

[Ladies' Home] "Dress is everything" "Is it? Some beautiful women can not be improved by a dress, to matter how artistic it may be made."

"You cannot prove your assertion by any lady of high standing and authority."

"I can," replied her companion "Within two days I will show you an interview with the leading woman on dress of America."

Last Wednesday they met at the same place, when, producing a neatly written manuscript, the lady read the following remarkable interview: "Mrs. Annie Jenness Miller is the acknowledged authority in America upon the subject of dress."

"Do you think, Mrs. Miller, that women are made more attractive by their dress?"

"That depends upon what you mean by attractive."

"Pleasing, fascinating if you choose—more charming to men and other women."

"A simply beautiful woman is seldom attractive; a stupid one never. It is the soul, the life, the brilliancy, which render women attractive."

"I'll admit that, but what makes women brilliant?"

"Vivacity, brightness and good health. Did you ever see a sickly woman able to entertain a dinner party of bright people? On the other hand, did you ever know a cultivated and refined woman, overflowing with animal life and spirits, who was not fascinating?"

"So you believe perfect health is the secret of fascination, do you?"

"Most certainly. Artistic dressing is proper, fine curves attractive, but life such as comes from healthy throbbing blood is alone fascinating. It is a great mistake, however, to think that health is preserved by dress alone. Women must have proper food, freedom from care, and a good friend in need."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Some assistance, physically. All women feel depressed at times, and all pleasure seems gone out of life. On all such occasions, and indeed whenever blue or worn out, she needs help. I know, because I have been in that condition myself."

"And what do you do when in that condition?"

"One thing, and one thing only. I am assisted by the best friend that any woman ever had. It is Warner's Safe Cure. I mean it, and I have good reason to speak as I do. You think I am a perfectly healthy woman; so I am, but I take several bottles of this great cure every season just as I take additional care in the selection of tonic giving food. As you know, there are certain times when every woman needs assistance. At such times, and before such times, there is, so far as I know, but one thing that can help, and that is the great cure I have named."

"I bade Mrs. Miller a reluctant goodby, for I felt that I had met a woman who knew women, what their trials and troubles were, and what they required." Jan 25th.

KILLED HER FOR LOVE.

MEMPHIS, Jan. 28.—It develops that Miss Alice Mitchell the society girl who cut the throat of Freda Ward yesterday was prompted to the deed by an abnormal infatuation for her victim.

This infatuation was observed by Miss Ward's married sister, who insisted on the termination of the intimacy between the girls.

Miss Mitchell was interviewed in jail and said:

"I love Freda, and could not live without her. When I found she had been forbidden to speak to me I saw nothing to do but to kill her. We had a contract that if we were ever separated one of us should kill the other. I loved her well enough to marry her, and that is why I killed her."

Miss Lillie Johnson, who was in the buggy with the murderer, says that Miss Mitchell confided her infatuation for her victim to her, and said if she could not marry her she would never marry a man.
