THE MONEY QUESTION.

The currency question is a knotty one and comparatively little understood, but if the United States could produce and furnish everything that is needed by the people and the government; if there were no need of commercial relations with other nations, then there would be no need of a currency that would be current in foreign markets. In that case the greenback theory would, possibly, be all right, but as a nation we must have commercial relations and financial interchange with other nations therefore we must have a medium of exchange of recognized intrinsic value, such as gold. But if the prominent nations of the earth should agree upon a relative value for silver and place it upon a uniform basis, it would take its place by the side of gold as an international currency and would be no longer subject to fluctuations in the commerce of the world as now. Should the international silver congress, to which our government has invited England, agree upon this uniform basis of value for silver, taking gold as the standard, then the silver question that has been agitating the public mind for years will be settled; and the man who has a silver mine would be able to estimate the number of dollars it is worth by the weight of its product without any reference to any effects of the law of supply and demand, just as in the case of a gold mine. If such an international Congress could agree upon a fixed weight of the dollar value for both silver and gold, the currency question for all nations, it seems to us, would be greatly simplified and taken entirely out of politics. And we might add save us from some financial blunders.

The bulleting of the French Minister of Agriculture reports the horse production of France as follows: In 1885, 2,911,992 horses and in 1890 2,863,270, a decrease of about 50,000 horses in the five years. With our 14,000,000 horses we have not so many good horses as France, but their horse production is decreasing at the rate of 10,000 a year while our production is increasing a million a year, and if we will only raise the high class horses that France and the other European countries want for their heavy city traffic and for their cavalry and artillery we will find a steady market, and the prices are getting higher as the breeding decreases and horses get scarcer; they cannot compete with America in raising horses if we only raise the right kind of horses for the markets of the old world—Western Agriculturist.

That Tired Feeling

Is a dangerous condition due directly to depleted or impure blood. It should not be allowed to continue, as in its debility the system is especially liable to serious attacks of illness. It is remarkable how beneficial Hood's Sarsaparilla is in this enervating state. Possessing just those elements which the system needs and readily seizes, this medicine purifies the blood, and imparts a feeling of serene strength which is comforting and satisfying. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best remedy for that weakness which prevails at change of season, climate or life.

"I have been convinced that Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the greatest medicines in the world. I say this for the benefit of all other tired out, run down, hard-working women. Hood's Sarsaparilla is not only excellent as a blood purifier, but for all other female complaints, even if of long standing."
Mrs. M. A. SCARLETT, Northville P. O., Mich.
