Park Avenue.

We notice that our former fellow citizen and most estimable gentleman, Mr. Kemp P. Battle, has written to our contemporary, the News and Observer, giving his views at length on the matter of changing the name of Martin street to Park Avenue. It must state, that the object of Mr. Battle meets with our hearty concurrence, but are constrained to say that we differ with him as to the legal objections urged. We can hardly believe that it was the intent of the General Assembly, one hundred years ago, to fasten upon us the names of streets then adopted. We believe the terms "called and forever known" to be merely such phrases as are often used, not for the purpose of in limbo but merely to impress the policy of non innovation, which, we fear is too lightly thought of in these days.

But the reasons given by Mr. Battle amount to but little with us, because we agree with him in his main purpose, which, it is apparent, is intended to preserve the names of our grand citizens of former days.

Mr. Battle urges us to have a grand celebration of our centennial. With him we cordially shake hands, and we most earnestly hope our people will respect his most patriotic and timely suggestion.

He closed his correspondence as follows:

Doubtless some day a broad avenue will be opened to Pellen Park. Let us reserve the name for that. Other cities are content to keep their old names although some of them have origins much more humble than Revolutionary heroes. New York keeps her Broadway, Philadelphia her Chestnut, &c.

I call myself a Raleigh, as well as Chapel Hill, man I have known and loved Raleigh for over fifty years and I expect to be buried in her cemetery. I feel the deepest interest in her material prosperity and in her honor. I therefore hope that I will not be considered presumptuous in urging upon our able men, good men who will not knowingly do wrong, to reconsider their action. All men are liable to mistakes. It is noble to rectify them.

NO OTHER Sarsaparilla can produce from actual cures such wonderful statements of relief to human suffering as HOOD'S Sarsaparilla.

Do not let the excitement of the Minneapolis celebration draw us away from the fact that we have a fourth of July celebration to arrange. Let us mix a little patriotism with politics. It is more creditable anyhow.

A SIBYLL'S PRAYER.

There was once a young woman (so the story goes) who was very bashful. She cried, and tried, and tried to rid herself of the disagreeable feeling, but without success.

At last she made up her mind to pray about it, and this was her prayer:

"Dear Lord, when I have to go among other people please to give me a good conceit of myself."

Shy people are often advised to "forget themselves" and to be "less self-conscious" in order to overcome their unfortunate failing.

"But the more I try to 'forget' myself the more I seem to 'remember' myself," says a certain Miss Backward, in comical despair.

With one or two intimate friends Miss Backward can "talk well." In larger social gatherings, however, she is always mute and is considered dull.

Dear Miss Backward, why will you hide your talent of conversation in a napkin of shyness? Why not take a wholesome pride in your own merits, as all bashful people ought? Why not have a "good conceit" of your self?—Good Housekeeping.

That Tired Feeling

Is a dangerous condition due directly to depleted or impure blood. It should not be allowed to continue, as in its debility the system is especially liable to serious attacks of illness. It is remarkable how beneficial Hood's Sarsaparilla is in this enervating state.

Possessing just those elements which the system needs and readily seizes, this medicine purifies the blood, and imparts a feeling of serene strength which is comforting and satisfying. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best remedy for that weakness which prevails at change of season, climate or life.

"I have been convinced that Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the greatest medicines in the world. I say this for the benefit of all other tired out, run down, hard-working women. Hood's Sarsaparilla is not only excellent as a blood purifier, but for all other female complaints, even if of long standing." Mrs. M. A. SCARLETT, Northville P. O., Mich.
