CHICAGO, June 21.—The hurry and bustle of a National Convention manifests itself in every section of Chicago. The big building will hold twenty thousand guests and three thousand of these will have paid twenty dollars each for admission. In other words Chicago has made the wigwam large enough to enable it to cover the entire expense incurred in its construction. The building is 500 feet long and 350 feet wide. It fronts on Michigan avenue. The chairs in which the delegates will sit today are opera seats and give the place the appearance of a vast theatre.

The platform from which the presiding officer will name the gentleman who has the floor is on the west side of the building and seats 500. On either side will be 200 representatives of the press. In front of this platform are the 840 delegates. Rising on the three sides of this parallelogram are tiers, which will seat 8,000 persons. Above these seats is the gallery which will seat 9,000. The cost of the structure is $23,500 and the decorations amount to an additional $4,000.

But there are other meetings here today than that of the National Convention. As soon as this adjourns this afternoon the general committee of the National Association of Democratic clubs will meet to name a time and place for the holding of the National General Assembly. Then the Afro American League is to meet here sometime today "to outline" as the call puts it "for the colored Democrats of the country an aggressive Campaign in behalf of the men who are to be nominated this week."

They are estimating strengths here today and maneuvering for all kinds of combinations. Iowa has made a splendid campaign for Boies and Kentucky has done a little for Carlisle. Maryland is still hoping for Gorman, but Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and it is said, Illinois, have thrown overboard their favorite sons for Cleveland. In fact the general comment is that ex Secretary Whitney has managed a magnificent convention campaign for the ex President. On one point there is a general understanding among the Cleveland men and that is that the anti-Bill delegation from New York is not to be admitted to the floor of the convention in place of that chosen on the memorable February 22nd, of this year. This is done in view of the strength, which Cleveland will undoubtedly have without his own State. Yet there are those there who believe that he cannot secure the necessary 599 votes without the full strength of Kentucky, of Michigan and of Illinois. Kentucky, it is said will go to him notwithstanding the determined opposition of Henry Waterson.

The Gray boom is not as effectively worked this year as it was four years ago in St. Louis, when the ex Governor of Indiana was a prominent candidate for Vice President. It is said here that a deal has been perfected by which the Gray forces will go over to Cleveland in return for a place in the Cabinet, should he be elected. Senator Voorhees will nominate him notwithstanding these reports, so it is difficult to place any credence in them. It is certain, however, that the great strength of Cleveland has been argued by those States who have desirable vice presidential timber. Iowa is anxious to secure first or second place for Boies and it is possible therefore that Cleveland will eventually get that vote when it is seen that Boies cannot be nominated for first place. He is in the ring however, just at present for first honors. Illinois is inclining its strength to William R. Morrison for the vice presidency and Michigan wants Supreme Judge Morse. Under any circumstances, be the nominee Cleveland, Gorman, or Hill a western man will be chosen to fill up the ticket.

Whitelaw Reid says he is in the Presidential race to stay and to win. The report that he has had under consideration of withdrawing, is incorrect.

THE LOSS TO WAKE WILL BE LARGE.

The loss on the vegetables and fruit crop in Wake county will be large this year on account of not having facilities for canning and preserving them. Already the vegetable market is more than sufficient for the demand. Fruit is coming in and soon will be away down in prices and tons will be lost. We have urged the necessity of the establishment of canneries, but thus far capital and enterprise have given the subject the "go by." If nothing were accomplished by these enterprises but the saving of the surplus of these crops from decay, and shipping them off to other parts at minimum figures, Wake would be richer by thousands of dollars every year. Canners and preserving establishments pay those who invest their money and energy in them at other points, and there can be no reason to conclude that good profits may not be realized on such investments here in Raleigh. There are hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of these goods bought every year by the merchants of North Carolina, most of which are put up North and the money sent out of the State for them. If these vegetables and fruits, abundance of which are grown in the State and are allowed to go to waste, were canned and supplied at the same figures paid for them, the State would still have these hundreds of thousands of dollars in her own borders. A great deal is said about the suicidal course pursued by the farmers raising cotton and tobacco and buying their meat, hay, flour and manure, and their horses, too, from other States, to pay for which takes about all they can make. It is suicidal it is true, for our farmers to be farming in this way for the benefit of the outside world, but this buying fruit and vegetables which are canned by a more energetic people, and allowing our own that grow on our soil, to decay on our hands and be utterly wasted for want of a little practical economy on business principals, is just as unwise and shortsighted. Our capitalists and merchants are pursuing the same course in this, that the farmers are in their line. But the capital required for canning is small. A few hundred dollars will put up and run a good size cannery; so say those who profess to know. When we learn to raise as nearly all we need for our own consumption as we can, and then turn all the surplus to the very best advantage possible, we will find ourselves, as a county and state in the enjoyment of a period of greater prosperity than any since Columbus first landed on that sea girt isle near the shores of the new continent.

NO OTHER Sarsaparilla has effected such remarkable cures as HOOD'S Sarsaparilla, of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, and other blood diseases.

When a horse is sold we sell three things—feed, care and skill. The first two every farmer furnishes, but skill is never possessed by the indifferent breeder, still it is the measure of our success. It costs as much to raise a $100 horse as one worth $500, but the skill which costs little or nothing brings the extra $400, which is mostly profit.—Nat. Stockman.

A LOVELY HEIRESS CAUGHT.

Miss Florence Blythe, who expects the California Supreme Court to declare her heiress to the four millions left by her eccentric old father, now wears a diamond ring on her engagement finger, and handsome young Fritz Hinckley, son of a rich San Francisco foundryman, is the fellow. Florence is only 18 and a lovely blonde.

Collie Fowler, a young orphan girl of Columbia, S. C., died suddenly, and letters found among her effects lead to the belief that a young horse racer of her acquaintance is implicated in her death.
