LARGEST CITY CIRCULATION.

RALEIGH, AUGUST 15, 1892.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Texas' corn crop is the largest ever raised in that State.

Diphtheria rages in the Park hotel at Madison, Wisconsin, owned by senator Vilas.

It is estimated that the strike of the New England granite cutters has cost them $3,800,000.

Mrs. Alden and Ellen Eagan were killed by lightning strokes at Buzzard's Bay, Mass., on Friday last.

General Stevenson has mapped out his speech making campaign, starting in Indiana on September 1.

Mrs. Hawley, of Norwalk, Conn., had her arm and jaw broken and was nearly suffocated by being trapped in a folding bed

IT WAS NEEDED BADLY.

Atlanta Journal.

The Seaboard Air Line is constantly on the lookout for the needs of the traveling public, and to this end have put a through car on their trains Nos. 36 and 43 between Atlanta and Charleston, S. C.

The Seaboard Air Line is earning a very high reputation as a passenger line as well as a freight line, and this reputation is and will be well sustained if quick schedules, prompt and polite service and careful handling of passengers will do so.

SILVER TAKES ANOTHER PLUNGE.

From the Baltimore Sun.

Silver yesterday sold below 88 cents an ounce and closed at 83. This is the lowest figure on record. When silver gets a little below 83 cents an ounce the silver in the silver dollar is worth just 64 cents. At 83 cents an ounce the silver dollar is worth, intrinsically, 64.18 cents. What does that mean? It means that too much silver is being mined for the world's demand. It's a drug in the market. It costs, upon an average, but 41 cents, an ounce to produce and the mine owner can sell it at 83 cents and still get a cosy profit out of it.

IT IS THAT WAY ALL OVER THE STATE.

A Washington man who has been summering in the vicinity of Smoky Mountains writes to the Star: "The affection in which Senator Vance is held hereabouts is attested by the number of boys named Zeb. Where the family is not blessed by a son they will either call a girl or a favorite horse or dog by the name of Zeb. At Bryson City I heard a man behind me say in an affectionate tone, 'Come on, Zeb.' On looking back I found he was addressing a little black dog with tail curled tightly over his back. If that writer would go over the State he would find it that way in every county. - Charlotte News.

The troops of the Sultan of Morocco have again been defeated by the rebels, who are said to be advancing on Tangier. They are under a leader named Hamman, an able and popular chief, who was treacherously seized by the Sultan's officers some months ago and thrown into prison. Hamman made his escape, and stirred up the present rebellion. This Sultan's usual way of treating a prisoner is to cut off his head; and he may have occasion to regret his failure to apply this treatment to Hamman.

WHAT AILED THE COUNTRY.

Detroit Free Press.

One night at a little mountain town in Kentucky I was seated on the front porch of the tavern waiting for bed time to come along when a tall strapping fellow lounged through the office and dropped into a chair beside me.

"Stranger in these parts? he said inquiringly.

"A little somewhat so," I replied, glad of a chance to talk to some body; "though I've been over a section of it in the last month."

"What do you think of it?"

"Well, it might be worse."

"Yes, it is so, but I've studied up some and don't see exactly how."

"Oh, it isn't all bad," I said encouragingly.

"I reckon not," he replied, in a half-hearted way; "I never heard anybody say anything against the moral character of our mountains; our trees would stand well in any community; the Cumberland River is clean and our cows are, as a rule, peaceable and well disposed."

The man's answer surprised me not a little. I had not heard any native talk quite as he did and I was interested.

"Do you belong here?" I inquired.

"Yes; never lived anywhere else."

"What business are you in?"

"I am a school teacher."

"Oh, you teach the young idea how to shoot, do you?"

"Not much," he replied with emphasis; "it's born right in 'em, and that's what ails the whole country."

Probably he knew what he was talking about.

Two young ladies were in the waiting room at the depot at Thomasville Ga., on Wednesday, expecting to leave on No. 27. They were in no hurry to take the train, as the conductors usually announce "all aboard." The ladies did not hear the signal, however, and the train started off. One of the young ladies jumped on, despite the efforts of some gentlemen who realized the risk she was running, to warn her. All would have been well, but seeing that her companion had left, she attempted to jump off again. The train by this time had gone some distance, and she was thrown between the cars and platform. Her position was one of extreme danger, and strong men turned away. She was extricated, however, just in time, and beyond a severe fright, was all right.

THE TWO WAYS—WHICH?

HOW TO BRING DOWN A SON. Let him have plenty of spending money.

Permit him to choose his own companions, without constraint or direction.

Give him a latchkey and allow him to return home late in the evening.

Make no inquiry as to where and with whom he spends his leisure moments.

Give him to understand that manners make a good substitute for morality.

Teach him to expect pay for every act of helpfulness to others.

HOW TO BRING UP A SON. Make home the brightest and most attractive place on earth.

Make him responsible for the performance of a limited number of daily duties.

Talk frankly with him on matters in which he is interested.

Sometimes invite his friends to your home and table. Take pains to know his associates.

Encourage his confidence by giving ready sympathy and advice. Be careful to impress upon his mind that making character is more important than making money.—Young Men's Era.
