Strange are his moods, and strange is he.

A child of divers ways; He leads y a on through flowery path-

Through bright and golden days; And guided by his gentle hand, And listening to his song

And gazi-g in his lovely eyes, You walk forever on

And many pass you by, and they Stretch out their hauds in valu; Some go with Death and Sorrow, ROLLS

Walk hand is hand with Pain; And some with score go laughing by An some who weep and mong. But all of them young Love ignores,

And through the pathways where they go

No ray of light appears; No gleum of sunshine ever comes,

And on they pass alone

The way is wet with tears Sad for a moment, too, you grow,

And beg L ve take them too; He smiles and shakes his golden curls--"They cannot come with you "

-Chambers' Journal.

A BIT OF COMMENT. -

St. 'ouis Globe Democrat.

The best commont on grasshoppersasa dist was made by an old farmer of Kausas, who, when told by an entomologist that grasshoppers sculd be exter-for John the Baptist lived on locust and wild honey-replied : "Well, John the Baptist might have done that, for those were days of miracles, and I recon a man could eat atmost anything then, but if he nowadays he would have to be fitted out with a different kind of a stomach to enjoy these 'hoppers.
