RALEIGH, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1892.

NO. 23

CITY IN BRIEF.

"Wait Till The Clouds Roll By." Ex Judge Womack is in the city. Col. Jno. N. Staples, of Guilford, is in the city. Brother London of the Chatham Record is in the city. We learn that the little son of Mr. R. E. Lumsden is still improving. Look out for Cyrene the great danseuse at Metropolitan Hall next Monday night. Cotton receipts today were about on the average and 9 cents was about the ruling price. There are many prominent legal gentlemen from different parts of the State, in the city. The cotton seed oil mills have been compelled to close down for a day or so for the want of seed. Let the ladies turn out in force to-night. "Wait Till The Clouds Roll By," at Metropolitan Hall. The number of patients in the Insane Asylum is said to be the largest in the history of the institution. Mr. W. H. Hervey left this morning for Chicago, Ill., to accept a position in the Chicago hotel, John O. Plank manager. The death of Treasurer Bain and important business will probably prevent Gov. Holt from attending the Cumberland county fair. Dyspepsia victims find prompt and permanent relief in Hood's Sarsaparilla, which tones the stomach and creates an appetite. We have received a complimentary ticket to the fair of the colored Industrial Association which commences on the 21st inst., ending on the 26th. The upper portion of the Holleman building in which the Masonic lodges meet, are draped in mourning in respect to State Treasurer Bain. A fund is being gotten up for a handsome testimonial to Chairman F. M. Simmons, of the state democratic committee, for services during the campaign. There will be a meeting of the bar in the Supreme Court room next Saturday for the purpose of taking steps for memorial services in honor of Chief Justice Merrimon. The Keeley institute at Greensboro has secured the services of Mr. Will R. Bell, of Rutherfordton, as state lecturer and soliciting agent. He is said to be a most interesting speaker. Let the coming General Assembly increase the appropriation for the Soldiers' Home to at least, $10,000. The applications for admission continue to be numerous, and they should be provided for. The Lyon Racket store comes to the front today in an advertisement announcing extraordinary low prices. We cordially invite the public and especially the ladies to call at this first class establishment and inspect the large stock. It will amply repay a visit, and once seen, the temptation to purchase will be irresistible. We invite attention to the advertisement of Mr. J. Hal Bobbitt who offers an assortment of all kinds of fancy and toilet soaps at pretty reduced prices. The list is a most attractive one and should be read by all. There is no other place in the city where such an extensive assortment of everything in that and other lines pertaining to the business can be obtained. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Weathers, of Waycross, Ga., are glad to see them in our city again after an absence of several weeks north on their bridal tour. They visited all the principal points of interest and report having a glorious time. They will remain in the city for about two weeks the guests of Mrs. J. B. Martin, 531 North Halifax street.

He Stands Supreme.
Alluding to Mr. Frank M. Wills, who will delight the people of Raleigh at Metropolitan hall tonight, the Morning Call, of Harrisburg, Pa., says:

He is irresistibly funny. As a light comedian he stands supreme. He possesses that originality which never fails to please an audience. As a singer he is first class. The whole company were excellent—not a bad one among them. They are all good singers and dancers, and made many friends. The costumes were fine and a special feature.

Appropriate Action.
In view of the sad dispensations of Providence that have so recently attended us, the Cleveland Carr club held a meeting last night and decided to abandon the proposed celebration in this city until the inauguration of the governor in January next. Messrs Geo C. Heck, H. D. Blake, B. C. Beckwith, Chas. Dixon and G. E. Leach were appointed a committee to notify those speakers who have been invited.

The following resolution was introduced by Col. W. R. Richardson and unanimously adopted:
Resolved, That the members of the Cleveland-Carr club have heard with the deepest regret and most profound sorrow of the death of Hon A. S. Merrimon, chief justice, and Hon. D. W. Bain, treasurer of North Carolina, and we tender to their bereaved families our condolence and sympathy in this hour of their sad affliction.
On motion of Mr. Geo C Heck the thanks of the club were tendered to President Frank Stronach for his faithful and untiring labors.
