RALEIGH, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1892.

NO. 20

Think of Them.

We have been requested by the lady in charge of the women's mission rooms, at the corner of Wilmington and Morgan streets, to say that there is much want experienced among the poor of the city, and the mission is sorely in need of funds and provisions to meet the demand. We must think that it will only be necessary to call upon the charitable citizens of our community to have the proper help received. The Christmas season is now upon us and many hearts can be made glad if all who are able will give of their substance to help out Remember the poor.

Holiday Trade.

This is a busy week among the shoppers of Raleigh and almost everybody that can raise a few dollars is on the rounds looking out for something to cheer the fireside during the approaching holidays. To stand on Fayetteville street and watch the rowd, present a perfect panorama of the varied lives of our people. Nearly everybody carry bundles, and they contain almost every conceivable article. Toy wagons, hobby horses, horns, canons doll babies, popperackers with numberless trinkets, too numerous to mention now. Although the times have been very hard, yet we feel that there is a happy vein running through our entire population, which betoken a contented people.

Yesterday afternoon a colored man whose name we did not learn, made a narrow escape from death near the Agricultural and Mechanical College. He was throwing up dirt for an embankment on a dam when it fell in crushing him quite seriously. He was carried home and attended to. Today he is reported better.

All who desire to tender a friend a useful present should call at once on Messrs. Thomas & Maxwell and select one of their splendid and beautiful rocking chairs. They are elegant and luxurious and are offered at such inducements as cannot fail to please. Don't forget the location—on Exchange place, south of market.

It is proposed to erect a monument in the soldiers' home grounds at Richmond, Va., to Gen. Johnson R. Cook, of North Carolina. This is all right, but it does seem to us that North Carolina should not wait for Virginia or any other state to honor her dead heroes.

We hear that all idea, if any ever existed, has been abandoned of removing the shops or business offices of the Seaboard Air Line from this city. This is as it should be. Their loss would be a serious blow to Raleigh.

The report of the railway commission for the year ending Dec 31st 1892, will show that there are 3 593 miles of railroad in operation in the state. Of these 1,065 are operated by the Richmond and Danville system.

The letter of Dr. H. R. Battle, director of the State Agricultural department in regard to the importance of a road congress, is being well received throughout the state.

In the white department of the deaf and dumb institution there are now 163 pupils. Of these 90 are deaf mutes, the remainder blind.

Look in the window of Messrs. Thos. H. Briggs & Sons and see the antics of the mule on the saving bank.

The knowing ones say that the outlook for the weather Christmas is clear and cold.

The marriage license business at the office of the register of deeds continues brisk.

Taxpayers are not coming up to suit the notion of Sheriff Page.

Rev. W. C. Norman and wife are in the city.

Sauerkraut.

Commuted.

In view of the fact that in the case of George Best, convicted of murder in Craven county, the jury and members of the bar recommended mercy, the governor has commuted the sentence to imprisonment for life. The execution was set for Dec 30th.

Today between 1 and 2 o'clock a little negro snatched a finger ring from the stall of a peddler on East Hargett street and darted off with it. Chase was given but the little coon outstripped all pursuit and made his escape. As much excitement was created as if it had been a dog fight.

We invite especial attention to the advertisement of Messrs Thos. H. Briggs & Sons who announce some splendid and useful presents for Christmas. Go and look at the biscuit mill and the kicking mule banks. They can't be beat in the way of novelties.

It is astonishing to see the amount of produce in our market. Meats of every kind, vegetables in season, birds, turkeys, geese, rabbits &c are almost a glut. By the way, the festive rabbit has advanced to fifteen cents, with a fair demand.

The coming year will have the credit of not having any great political agitation. We can all get down to strictly business principles.

Mr B F Park, who was stricken with paralysis yesterday, at latest accounts, was in a critical condition.
