RALEIGH, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1892.

NO. 53

Important Decision.

An important case has just been decided in Salisbury in which the court held that shares of stock in an incorporated enterprise could not be taxed by a city in which the owner resided, if the offices of the company were outside of the city limits. Under this decision it is stated that the shares of stock in the Raleigh Cotton Mills and the Caraleigh Mills are not taxable by the city.

Personal.

Mr. E. M. Martin's daughter, Miss Lizzie, has gone to Richmond to spend the holidays with relatives.

The many friends of Hon. T. L. Olingman will learn with pleasure that he is still hale and hearty. He talks of attending the inauguration of President Cleveland.

Governor's Reception.

The reception at the executive mansion last night was in all respects a grand success, being attended by a large crowd of ladies and gentlemen. Gov. Holt received the visitors in the north front parlor, and was assisted by Mrs. Alf W. Haywood, Mrs. Benahan Cameron, Mrs. E. O. Laird and Mrs. R. M. Oates. The evening was wound up with a most delightful german lasting until the small hours of the morning.

Several prominent North Carolinians in Washington City are urging the name of our great philanthropist, Col. J. S. Carr, for postmaster general.

Applicants for office before the legislature are getting as thick as blackberries in June. At least ten or twelve applications for every clerkship.

The commissioner of agriculture will issue a bulletin in January containing much information relative to the public roads.

The failure of Barnes, Stainback & Co., clothiers, of Henderson, is announced. The liabilities are $15,000.

Those who have fowls should root them high tonight. It is a mighty tempting time for thieves.

Most of the students of the Agricultural and Mechanical College will spend the holidays at their homes.

The talk now is that the new hotel and opera house will not be completed before next fall.

It seems that application will be made to the coming legislature for several new counties.

Ten convicts were received at the penitentiary from Guilford county last Tuesday.

Send something to the soldiers' home. It will cheer the hearts of the old veterans.

It is said that all the cows get on their knees the night before Christmas.

Don't forget the Christmas tree at Christian church tonight.

Hold out the hand of melting charity at this season.

The school girls are leaving for their homes.

Large crowd of country people in the city today.

The Little Blacksmith.

Of this performance the Wilmington Star says:
"Lizzie" is a very charming little actress, sparkling with real gems of stage wit and actions. She is as pretty as a picture, bright as a new silver dollar, and it is useless to say she pleased the audience. Her support was good and some deserve especial mention Miss George Briar was very graceful and took her part well. Gus Pixley, the artist, Frank Bell as Farmer Cleavis, and Wm. Daniels as the Big Man of the Town, spiced the play with much wit and humor, and kept the audience full of laughter, even at the times when things were most serious with the other actors.

Ralph Stewart, who took the part of Frank Conner, master of the mill, is not a complete stranger in the city. He is a handsome young actor of talent, but this part didn't seem to give him a full opportunity to show his ability, although the audience soon recognized it.

Fritz in Ireland

The Harford Courant says:
There was a good audience at the opera house last night to welcome the popular son of a famous father. J. K. Emmet played "Fritz in Ireland," and played it in such a manner as to well please his audience. A good company supported him. His friends here noted with pleasure the marked improvement which the younger Emmet in this, his second year. His voice is better and in every way he is fitting more easily and naturally into the peculiar parts which he has chosen.

Mr. Emmet is supported by Miss Emily Lytton, who takes the part of Lady Amelia. As ever in these plays the children play an interesting part, and the scenes where Fritz is laughing, singing, and dancing with them are pretty indeed. The whole is full of clean, rollicking fun and pretty scenes and songs.

Here is what some of the little lasses are saying:
"Glory! Glory! Sing salvation;
Three more days and then vacation,
No more lasses—no more hash,
No more dandy dudes to mesh,
I'll put my trunk on the railroad track,
And I'll be Johnnie if I come back."

There seems to be a general impression that we are to have a good sized snow soon.
