RALEIGH, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 18, 1893.

NO. 72

THE INAUGURAL.

Hon. Elias Carr is Sworn in as Governor of North Carolina.

Today in accordance with the program, Hon. Elias Carr and the other State officials chosen by the people at the election held last November took the oaths required by law and were inducted into office.

The Citizens Committee of reception and the Governor's Guard as a military escort met the party having in charge the Governor at the Union Depot, and conducted them to the capitol where they were joined by the members of the Senate and House of Representatives, the officers of the Executive Departments and the Justices of the Supreme Court and proceeded to Stronach's Auditorium where the oaths of office were administered, and the Governor delivered his inaugural address.

There was a large crowd in attendance including a great many visitors from all parts of the State. A large number of ladies graced the occasion with their presence.

The following was the order of the procession from the Capitol to the Auditorium:

First carriage—Governor, governor-elect, chairman legislative inaugural committee, adjutant general.

Second carriage—Lieutenant governor, president of the senate, secretary of state, treasurer.

Third carriage—Auditor, auditor-elect, attorney general, attorney general elect.

Fourth carriage—Superintendent of public instruction, superintendent of public instruction elect, speaker of the house, chief justice.

Fifth carriage—Associate justices of the supreme court.

Sixth, seventh and eighth carriages—Legislative inaugural committee.

Ninth, tenth and eleventh carriages—Governor's staff.

Twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth carriages—Citizen's committee of Tarboro.

Fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth carriages—Citizen's reception committee of Raleigh, followed by private carriages of citizens.

The procession was under the direction of Frank Stronach, chief marshal and his assistants.

From 8 to 10 p. m., there will be a reception to the Governor and State officers, at Stronach's auditorium, South Wilmington street. The inaugural ball will be held at Stronach's auditorium, from 10 p. m. to 2 a. m.

The Edgecombe Guard and the Goldsboro Rifles acted as an escort from Tarboro to this city. There were also military companies from Henderson, Oxford and Durham.

The Recent Accident.

The Daily Record of Greensboro gives some additional particulars, which, in view of the great sympathy existing in the city we print as follows: It seems that Mr. Thos. J. Trent was the only person who saw Miss McDonald before the accident. He says:

As he was walking along she passed him, going in the same direction, that is, south from this place. She continued in the same direction for perhaps two hundred yards when she stopped, looked about and seemed to be studying and then turned and came back toward the city. She of course met Mr. Trent again and he passed on. In a few moments he heard the train coming and as it passed him he says he turned to look and saw the woman on the embankment. In a moment more he says his attention was attracted by a sound as if the engineer was applying the air brakes, and he was under the impression the train was coming to a stand still, but it was only approaching the yard limits and was rapidly slackening up as required to do. He says, when he looked the second time he did not see her and went on his way, thinking no more about it until some one came to Mr. O'Connor's and told the news.

None of the crew of the incoming train nor any of the passengers knew of the accident and it was some time before any one passed and discovered the accident.

Just how she came to be killed is of course all conjecture. She was on a high embankment and after hearing the train did not have time to reach the end of it and evidently tried, as her footsteps show, to stand as far away as possible, which she could have done had she remained perfectly still; but it is quite likely that she was frightened and may have stepped on the track, or the passing train may have caught her clothing and threw her upon the rails.

There was a slim attendance at the lecture of Mr. Dugger in Metropolitan hall last night.

Ex-Senator Clarke, of Craven, is here.

Ex-Senator Walser, of Davidson, was on the floor of the Senate today.

All the State officers vacated gracefully today.

Miss Mary Boylan Snow has returned from a visit to Baltimore.

Mr. R. L. Prempert, of Philadelphia, formerly of Raleigh, is in the city.

The ice embargo still continues, and market wagons are scarce.

LOW RATES FOR DRUMMERS.

New York Sun: "Hello! Stopping here? What are you paying? Three dollars and fifty cents a day? Don't you know better than that? Why don't you say you're a drummer? I know you're not, but why don't you say so? Save you a dollar a day. Is it generally done? Bet your life. Thousands do it. Actors are the boys for low rates, though. I got into Savannah once on the same train with a theatrical company and happened to go to the same hotel. I had got chummy with a couple of girls in the troupe, and when I went to the desk I registered for them, too, to save them trouble. I was put into a small room on the top floor with another man that night and after breakfast I went to the clerk and kicked. The clerk was pretty lippy and I called for my bill. It was $1.00, half what it would have been under regular rates, for I had had a lodging and two meals.

"How's this?" said I.

"Why, that's the rate for theatrical companies," said he.

"But I'm no actor," said I "and you just give me a decent room and I'll take a fresh start."

"Well, I was treated first-rate after that. They had told me that the front rooms were all taken, but when they found I was a drummer, you bet that plenty of them were empty."

TINY'S APOLOGY.

There is a little girl of Pateet five years old, who is very naughty once in a while. The other day she got angry at the cook and slapped her. Her mother told her she must apologize, but she refused, point blank, says the Washington Star.

"I won't do it," she declared, stamping her foot.

"Very well, Tiny," replied mamma, mildly, "but if you do not I will not buy for you the new doll you want." This was too much for the child who had set her heart on the doll. So she went down stairs to the kitchen and said to the cook:

"Rosa, I hit you this morning didn't I?"

"Yes, you did, Miss Tiny," answered Rosa, assuming aggrieved expression.

The little girl looked at her a moment and then added:

"Do you think you will die?"

"I don't know," replied Rosa.

"Well," said Tiny, "if you die, don't tell God I did it."

Carpet : Sale.

A carpet business as large as ours naturally requires a great number of patterns, a portion of which must be on hand at the close of the season.

New patterns and colorings are brought out each succeeding season. The residue stock must be sold to make room for new goods.

We soon "take stock" and immediately thereafter begins new carpet work for spring and we wish these carpets sold by that time.
