

Death of Maj. John Devereux.

It is with deep regret that we are called upon to announce the death of this gentleman which occurred at his residence in the northwestern suburbs of the city this afternoon between 12 and 1 o'clock.

Major Devereux had been, for some time, in declining health, which, of late, has given his family and friends the greatest apprehensions and prepared them to look for the worst.

He was a son of the late Thomas P. Devereux, who in his day was widely known throughout North Carolina, as one of the most prosperous and wealthiest farmers. He owned large "Roanoke possessions" and usually made his residence at the old homestead in Raleigh, which was the seat of old time hospitality. Mr. Devereux has lived most of his life in Raleigh and was a gentleman liked for his amiable and generous qualities of head and heart. He was kind, liberal and an interesting companion where his feelings were enlisted with congenial friends. As far as we have been able to learn he was about 73 years of age, and leaves a widow and eight children six daughters, four of whom are married and two sons—to mourn their loss. With them we deeply sympathize.

Nobody can now doubt that the spring has opened in earnest, and, all who have not prepared themselves with clothing suitable for the season should be looking around to do so. In order to test the matter of price, quality and style, a most cordial invitation is issued to call at the establishment of the Rosenthal Clothing Co., where such an array of clothing of every conceivable description, is shown, as has never before been presented to the people of Raleigh. The spring and summer stock has been selected with the utmost care, and with a view of meeting the wants of all classes. Manager "Dave" Rosenthal, keeps a steady eye on the market, and never lets an occasion pass for replenishing his stock at the most advantageous rates. Citizens, and strangers visiting Raleigh should call at once. No better time than now to make selections.

Mayor's Court.

This morning Mayor Badger had before him Lynn Stewart, a colored man charged with the infamous crime of incest which is alleged to have been perpetrated upon his own daughter aged about 14. The crime was charged to have been in August 1892, and again attempted a few days since. The main evidence was the girl Geneva. Mr. Ryan appeared as counsel for the defendant. After the examination Stewart was sent to jail to await the action of the grand jury at the next term of the criminal court.
